Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Newberg, Oregon.

FRIDAY, APRIL 12, 1901.

The citizens of Woodburn, after a two years trial of a saloon town, came to their senses last week by electing a temperance ticket. The church bells rang out the news that the saloons must go.

President McKinley will arrive in Portland Wednesday, May 22, at 2:30 p. m. and will remain until 9 a. m. the following day. It has not yet been officially announced on what day he will visit Newberg.

Don't talk or write about anything that occurred before you were born. Some jealous person might accuse you of plagiarism. School children will have to cease writing compositions on "George Washington."—Woodburn Independent.

Our Hawaiian brothers are anything but slow in getting on to the practical workings of the theory of American government. They are holding a legislature over there and have so far been busily occupied in doing absolutely nothing—and they have no United States senator to elect either.

While the Boers are gradually being made to dance to the tune of John Bull they are making the English pay for the fiddling in royal shape. It is estimated that the English war taxes next year will have to raise near the fabulous sum of a billion dollars. In one way at least Oom Paul is making good his "staggering" threat.

For the first time in his life Grover Cleveland has become a distinguished personage. He is now the only living ex-president of the United States. As a duck hunter he is only up to the average, and so far as fishing is concerned, there is many a Siwash Indian that can beat him. In the matter of raising babies he has a good batting average, but nothing to astonish an Oregon farmer. He was always a fairly good drinking man, but the gold-cure institutes can produce those who are his superiors at this particular branch of political preference. As an ex-president, however, he stands alone.—Oregon City Enterprise.

The O. R. & N. Co. has recently issued the third edition of the pamphlet "Oregon, Washington and Idaho, and their Resources" by Col. Pat Donan. The descriptive matter is strictly up to date and with a large map of the three states, and twenty half tone illustrations showing the farming, shipping, agricultural, horticultural, lumbering, mining, stockraising and fishing industries of this vast territory it makes an excellent circular of information to send away to one's friends who may be making inquiry about the country. Send six cents in stamps to A. L. Craig, General Passenger Agent, Portland, and a copy will be mailed to any address you may name.

That most popular of all American literary periodicals, The Youth's Companion, with next week's issue, April 18, enters upon its seventy-fifth year of continuous weekly publication. In honor of its three quarter of a century anniversary, a birthday souvenir has been issued which gives some interesting details concerning the history of the paper and very suggestive too, of the expansion of periodical publications in this country in seventy-five years. For instance, in the first year of its publication, a boy brought the paper for a week's edition on a wheelbarrow. In 1901 the paper for a week's edition is brought on eleven two-horse drays, ten rolls of paper on each dray, and each roll weighing seven hundred and fifty pounds. The Graphic is still in the wheelbarrow stage.

We have never raised our voice in favor of the army canteen but have always felt that the antipathy manifested toward it by some well meaning people has been more zealous than discreet, all conditions being considered. The canteen is certainly not an institution to be proud of, but such questions must be dealt with from a practical and common sense view, in the light of existing conditions, not what we wish those conditions were. The following comment of a Washington exchange is noted: "The closing of the government canteen at military posts does not seem to be accomplishing the good that it was expected. In fact, there appears to be much more drunkenness than before. The men at Fort Sheridan, Chicago, had always been sober and content in the canteen. But March pay day found the canteen closed. The men made off to the saloons, got drunk by companies, fought each other, nearly killing several, and wrecking the wretched places where they squandered their pay. At every army post in the country drunkenness and bestiality prevailed, discipline was injured, the health of the men impaired and civilians were scandalized. The canteen was bad for our soldiers but the saloon is worse."

A MEMORABLE TOUR.

The approaching tour of President McKinley to the Pacific Coast will be memorable in many respects. It will touch every locality in the United States. Going by way of the South Atlantic group of states, the President will pass along the Gulf of Mexico on his way to California. Thence pushing eastward, he will go up to Oregon or Washington, and moving eastward he will go through most of the states of the northern tier, with a division into some of the more central commonwealths of the West, and will strike New England and the old Middle states on the Atlantic, proceeding along that line southward to his starting point in Washington. The course which is to be traversed will cover between thirteen and fourteen thousand miles. Several weeks will be consumed in the itinerary, for there will be many stopping places along the route, and at some of them the President will stay two or three days. All sections of the country will be visited. Some localities which have never seen a president along to this time will have one among them on the coming tour.

A distinctive feature of this circuit of the country will be that the heads of the entire executive branch of the government will accompany the President. The whole of the cabinet, with the second and third officers in most of the eight administrative departments, together with a large staff of clerks, will make the journey. Constant telegraphic communication with Washington will be kept up. The regular business of the government will not be interrupted in the least by the tour. Every one of its multifarious activities will be supervised by the regularly selected officials as in ordinary times. This will not be a vacation for any of the persons making the journey. They will perform, without a moment's interruption, the duties which they were chosen to meet. A completely equipped government will be in constant transit during the weeks in which this circuit is in progress. The world up to this time has never seen such a spectacle as this will present. No President has ever, at any one time, covered anything like the distance which Mr. McKinley and his official family will travel. No government anywhere on earth has ever made a circuit even remotely approaching in extent that which America's President and his executive and administrative subordinates are about to traverse.

Moreover, no presidential tour ever awakened such popular interest as the coming journey has aroused. Invitations have been extended to the President from almost all of the towns of any importance on or near his advertised route, asking him to make a personal visit to them and remain a day or two. Washington's visit to New England shortly after the founding of the government under the constitution, which covered only a few hundred miles, for the national capital was then at New York, called out less popular enthusiasm than the approaching circuit will apparently evoke. Monroe, on his visit to New England soon after his accession to office was greeted by such Hartford conventionists as Harrison Gray Otis and such Essex junto implacables as Timothy Pickens, but even the presidential greetings of that era of good feeling hardly surpassed in warmth and universality those which will be seen at the coming trip. Jackson's visit to New England at the beginning of his second term called out demonstrations of approval in even the most anti-Jacksonian spots in that section, on account of his recent crushing defeat of nullification, but the fatigues of the journey in that day previous to the advent of the railroads, except a few miles here and there terminated the tour quickly, and sent the President back to Washington. This time the enthusiasm of the people will carry with it no alloy of discomfort to its object. President McKinley and the members of the official family can accommodate their speed to their desires, making it fast or slow, according to their preferences. At every point on their journey they will have practically all the conveniences which would attach to settled residence in the national capital. Their circuit will take them to every locality in their country, and they will meet all sorts and conditions of men.—Globe Democrat.

Who Hath Wee?

Apropos of the near approach of the season devoted to "spring house cleaning" the following graft from one who has been there, needs no apology for its appearance at this time.

"Man that is married to a woman during house cleaning time is of few days and full of carpet tacks. A cloud obscures his vision and great gobs of dark brow gloom possesseth his soul. He riseth up betimes and sniffeth the morning air with a heavy heart and an obstructed nose. He snatcheth a few pancakes from the griddle and rusheth to his labors depressed in spirit and saturated with dyspepsia. He returneth at noon and falleth over a mop. The dull, sickening thud of the belarrupped carpet is heard in the land. The queen of the household crowneth herself with a dirty towel and a fierce look. She resembleth an avenging angel. Her sceptre is a broom. The carpet fuzzi clingeth to the salvage of her nose. Large quantities of real estate setteth among the dimples of her swan-like neck. Her eyes glareth with the fury of great enterprise. She maketh her spouse to eat dinner from the ironing board in the kitchen, which resteth on two chairs. He findeth a cake of soap beside his plate and a portion of the scalp of the scrubbing brush in the butter. At night he returneth to his home with a timid, baiting step. He feareth the worst. The swish of the peach limb is still heard as it poundeth a fifty dollar carpet into shreds. He drinketh a little cold tea from a tin cup and prepareth for bed. A live carpet tack buryeth its fangs in his heel. He yelleth in agony, and bumps the ceiling in a vain and futile effort to jump thro' the roof. He lieth down on his couch and wetteth his pillow with tears. The family dog howleth beneath his window like the wail of a damned soul and no one in the house sleepeth. The fetid fragrance of bedbug specific smelleth to heaven and the aroma of new-laid moth balls sifteth through the cover of the clothes chest.

Who hath wee? Who both sorrow?

Who hath redness of eyes and a stopped up nose? He who monkeyeth with house cleaning. Who smasheth his thumb? Who polteth his lips with blasphemy? Who imperileth his immortal soul? He who tarrieth at home to tack down carpets."

Pullman Ordinary Sleepers.

The tourist travel between the East and the Pacific Coast has reached enormous proportions in the last few years, and calls for a special class of equipment. To meet this demand the Pullman Co. has issued from its shops what is technically the "Pullman Ordinary Sleeper." These cars appear similar to the regular sleepers being built on the same plan, but not furnished with the same elegance. They are equipped with mattresses, blankets, sheets, pillow cases, towels, combs, brushes, etc., requiring nothing of the kind to be furnished by the passenger. Each car has a stove for making tea or coffee, and doing light housekeeping, and each section can be fitted with an adjustable table. A uniformed porter accompanies each car, his business being to make up berths, keep the car clean, and look after the wants and comforts of the passengers. In each of the trains which are dispatched daily from Portland by the O. R. & N. Co., is to be found one of these Pullman Ordinary Sleepers. The car attached to the "Chicago-Portland Special" goes through to Chicago without change, and the one in the "Atlantic Express" runs to Kansas City without change. Passengers in this car for Chicago change to a similar car at Granger.

Much of the first class travel is being carried in these cars, the rates being lower, and the service nearly equal to that in the palace sleepers.

For rates and full information, including folders, write to A. L. Craig, general passenger agent, O. R. & N. Co. Portland, Oregon.

A Ragging, Roaring Flood.

Washed down a telegraph line which Chas. C. Ellis, of Lisbon, Ia., had to repair, "standing waist deep in icy water" he writes, "gave me a terrible cold and cough. It grew worse daily. Finally the best doctors in Oakland, Neb., Sioux City and Omaha said I had consumption and could not live. Then I began using Dr. King's New Discovery and was wholly cured by six bottles." Positively guaranteed for coughs, colds, and all throat and lung troubles by C. F. Moore & Co. Price 50 cents and $1.

Faith—I wouldn't marry the best man in the world.
Hope—Of course not, you goose.
The bride never marries the best man.

He Kept His Leg.

Twelve years ago J. W. Sullivan of Hartford, Conn., scratched his leg with a rusty wire. Inflammation and blood poisoning set in. For two years he suffered intensely. Then the best doctors urged amputation, but, he writes, "I used one bottle of Bucklen's Arnica Salve and my leg was sound and well as ever." For eruptions, eczema, tetter salt rheum, sores and all blood disorders Electric Bitters has no rival on earth. Try them C. F. Moore & Co. will guarantee every bottle or money refunded. Only 50c.

Without waiting for special call, several hundred ministers have applied to President McKinley for appointments as army chaplains.

Oregon Mist: Yellow journalism in the Chinese language is called it. That style of diction may not be elegant but in this case it is singularly expressive, and shows that the Chinese language is picturesque in metaphor if not in appearance.

Drink a sleeping of Moki Tea at night before retiring, and see how soundly you will sleep, and how joyously you will awake in the morning. It supplies food for the blood while you sleep, produces a clear and beautiful complexion, and cures constipation and sick headache. 25c and 50c. C. F. Moore & Co.

It Makes Weak Women Strong.
"I suffered from female weakness for five months," writes Miss Belle Hedrick, of Nye, Putnam Co., W. Va. "I was treated by a good physician but he did me no good. I wrote to Dr. R. F. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for advice, which I received telling me to take his 'FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION.' When I had used the medicine a month my health was much improved. It has continued to improve until now I can work at almost all kinds of house-work. I had scarcely any appetite, but it is all right now. Have gained several pounds in weight. I would advise all who suffer from chronic diseases to write to Dr. Pierce."

Shabby, isn't it?
Our familiar belongings grow old and unsightly to others' eyes before our own accustomed and unconscious eyes perceive their gradual decline.
LOOK AT YOUR WATCH CHAIN
now—and since your attention is called to it you see that it is shabby, unattractive, out of date.
Nobody but a rich man can afford to go shabbily dressed. Trimness is a sort of social credential; a guaranty of solvency; a certificate of self-respect. For Malaria, Chills and Fever

THE BEST PRESCRIPTION IS Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.
The formula is plainly printed on every bottle—hence you know just what you are taking when you take Grove's. Imitators do not advertise their formula knowing that you would not buy their medicine if you knew what it contained. Grove's contains Iron and Quinine put up in correct proportions and is in a Tasteless form. The Iron acts as a tonic while the Quinine drives the malaria out of the system. Any reliable druggist will tell you that Grove's is the Original and that all other so-called Tasteless Chill Tonics are imitations. An analysis of other chill tonics shows that Grove's is superior to all others in every respect. You are not experimenting when you take Grove's—its superiority and excellence having long been established. Grove's is the only Chill Cure sold throughout the entire malarial sections of the United States. No Cure, No Pay. Price, 50c.
