Miss Hart, a teacher in the Portland public schools, came up from Portland on Thursday evening of last week and accompanied her friend Miss Viola Robinson from here on the excursion to Salem.

J. W. Hopfield and Miss Eva Myers, formerly of Newberg, were married at Grant's Pass on Sunday, March 10th, and arrived in this city on Tuesday. Mr. Hopfield is a son of John Hopfield of Happy Valley.—Reporter.

Mayor Christenson wishes a mistake corrected, which he made in announcing through these columns the hour for ringing the curfew bell. The old ordinance places the hour at seven in place of eight o'clock and the bell is being rung accordingly.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Edwards came up from Portland on Thursday night of last week and on the following day accompanied the excursionists to the state oratorical contest at Salem, W. F. also transacting business in the capital city. They spent Sunday in Newberg and returned home Monday morning.

Miss Edna Allen who accompanied Miss Nervia Wright to the contest at Salem, received word that her sister-in-law Mrs. W. G. Allen, who has been very sick for some time with inflammatory rheumatism, had suffered a relapse. On Saturday Miss Allen accordingly went on to Eugene and helped wait on her for a few days.

Rumors are wafted about on the air that the Southern Pacific Company is finally contemplating doing something for Newberg in the way of better depot accommodations. It is to be hoped that there is foundation for the rumor. In the meantime let the citizens hold their breath lest in some unexpected way they remove the charm which seems to be at work.

Messrs. T. B. and F. A. Duncan, whose minds seem on inventions bent, have made another invention, papers of patent on which were sent off March 8. Their new appliance is an electric fire alarm bell the principle of which is the same as that of their patent ventilator described in these columns some time ago. In short the idea is something as follows: metal discs are placed in different rooms of a building in connection with a certain liquid, very susceptible to heat, in which by the way largely lies the secret of the invention. The apparatus is so arranged that at any given temperature, connection is made which rings an electric bell. The number of the room in which the unusual heat is located is dropped in a little switchboard, and the alarm is also rung in at the fire department headquarters.

The exact location of any fire can be thus determined at once, and also the progress which it has made at the time the alarm is sounded. Orland Heacock fixed up the electrical connections and has a fourth interest in the enterprise. The appliance is on exhibition in Duncan's bicycle shop.

The Friends church was filled last Sunday evening to hear Pres. McGrew discourse upon "The Vital Needs of Newberg" and a fine address was attentively listened to. He took for his text the significant words, "Is it well with the young man Absalom?" and asked the question of parents of the young men and boys of Newberg. He said that the fathers, though not kings, should be lords of their own households, and should be as inquisitive in regard to their sons' welfare as was King David. "Is it well with our young men?" The future of the state and church is involved in the question. Pres. McGrew considered in brief some of the temptations which beset young men, first—that of drink. The speaker held that this temptation is underestimated in this town, from the fact that we have no saloons. He referred to cases of drunkenness on our streets, particularly on the Sunday evening previous, the subjects of which were followed up by a crowd of small boys. "Is your boy safe?" Second—the woman of scarlet—the ruin, the curse, the death and the damnation of thousands of young men. Help the fallen, but a thousand fold more throw the safeguard around the innocent and virtuous daughters. Third—gambling, the peculiar fascination of which is so deceptive and dangerous. Fourth—cigarette smoking, which saps the body, mind and ultimately the soul. It is almost impossible for even God to rescue a cigarette fiend. Newberg is not especially bad, and we should be thankful that the surrounding hills shut off from us much vice and temptation. But even then are our boys safe? What can we do? Pres. McGrew directed his talk as the solution of the problem upon the home. He made a plea for a more ideal home life, in which children will be taught to respect authority. The need of a real fatherhood which realizes its responsibility to children was emphasized. The curfew law is good but there should be no need of it. Vigorous home training is the foundation of our young people's safety. Pres. McGrew illustrated his address with graphic stories of his own observation which strongly enforced his words upon his hearers.

Thomas Snodgrass arrived home from Wallowa county last Saturday evening where he went to look at a stock ranch. He was not very well pleased with the country and declined to invest. Tom makes a pretty good Yamhiller any way and he will no doubt do just as well to remain in Chehalis Valley.

Attorney Clarence Butt has a force of carpenters, headed by Jim Jones, at work making the house over which he recently bought of B. F. Hevland. An addition is being built on in front and other improvements made, which when completed will put the property in good shape. Mr. Butt will occupy the property when it is completed.

A. P. Oliver, assisted by W. H. Williams started in the first of the week to harvest a very profitable crop of mohair from his large herd of goats. In place of the old time shears, he uses a patent clipping machine, whereby one man turns the crank and another man handles the clipper. The principal advantages of the machine are, that the work is accomplished much more quickly, a more even cut is secured and there is no danger of cutting or maiming the animals. Mr. Oliver has nearly three hundred head of goats, the shearing of which means a good week's work.

Miss Bessie L. Houck of McMinnville deputy district organizer of the Degree of Honor lodge, accompanied by Mrs. Gault, drove down Monday afternoon, and in the evening organized an auxiliary to the local A. O. U. W. lodge. The following named officers were elected: Past Chief of Honor, Mrs. W. E. Howard; Chief of Honor, Mrs. J. W. Forsyth; Lady of Honor, Mrs. Sam Linton; Chief of Ceremonies, Mrs. Thos. Smith; Recorder, Miss Mattie Vinson; Treasurer, Miss Belle Smith; Receiver, Miss Minnie Schurr; Lady Usher, Miss Susie Smith; Inner Watch, Isaac Vinson; Outer Watch, Chas. Rittenhouse.

On Wednesday at high noon, at the home of the bride's parents at Dayton, Oregon, Miss Katherine A. Glenn was wedded to Mr. A. S. Kerrey of Seattle, Washington. The wedding ceremony, performed by Rev. John Glenn, father of the bride, assisted by Pres. H. L. Boardman, was witnessed only by the immediate relatives and friends of the family, some ten guests being present, three of which accompanied the groom from Seattle. The Misses Mabel Edwards and Sibly Woodward were guests from Newberg. The short but impressive marriage ceremony of the Episcopal church was used, after which enthusiastic congratulations were tendered. Many beautiful presents of cut glass and silverware were in evidence, besides other tokens from well wishers and friends. Miss Glenn for some time gave very efficient service at the head of the musical department of Pacific College, and she has many friends who esteem her for her many lovable qualities and admire her for her exceptional musical attainments. Mr. Kerrey is a very well known mill and mining man in Western Washington where he is most successful and popular. The young married people are taking a month's tour of south western states after which they will return to their home in Seattle.

In order to be able to present a good front your shirt should be well laundered, and your house to look neat with the coming of spring should have a new coat of paint. The Newberg Steam Laundry will look after the former and T. B. Cummings & Co. will sell you the right kinds of paints and oils. See what both firms say in the advertising columns of the Graphic this week.

Hon. D. M. Watson of Portland, one of the proprietors of the well known Watson's restaurant, but who is interested especially in oil field development, being himself a professional promoter, was in Newberg Monday to investigate the prospect of the Yamhill Coal & Oil Company. He came direct from the Polk county prospect in which he is interested with Mr. Hirschberg. He says that he has struck a fine quality of illuminating gas and fully believes they will strike oil at one thousand feet.

After thirteen years of effort Mr. Watson has invented an appliance by which he claims that he can locate oil fields and tell the exact place for sinking the well. It seems that his claims are well founded as he tested his machine fully in the California oil fields. He was taken out into a territory with which he was wholly unacquainted, but which had been thoroughly prospected. As he traversed the territory he located the "dry" wells and the real oil wells, without a single mistake, and fully satisfied his companions who were acquainted with the local conditions. As a result he is now going to Texas and then East to Pennsylvania in answer to calls from companies to come and locate for them. Having heard of the prospects here, Mr. Watson came to Newberg at his own bidding, as he says that every oil well he succeeds in locating is that much in his favor as a promoter. He was taken out to the Follett place and arranged his indicator, which works by its susceptibility to certain currents. He started out over the hill and soon stopped short, marked a certain line, and assured Messrs. Churchhill and Follett that there was no question as to the presence of oil and furthermore said he believed they would find it within a thousand feet. He seemed very positive of his position and declared to his companions that he would rather have their holdings than any prospect in California. It goes without saying that the local company is gratified at his encouraging words, and will sink the well according to Mr. Watson's directions.

A. M. Aspinwall and family consisting of nine boys and one daughter, with Mrs. Esther Ormsby and daughter Eva, the mother and sister of Mrs. Aspinwall, respectively, arrived here last Friday from Manchester, South Dakota. Mr. Aspinwall was a large land owner in Dakota and as he could not sell all his personal effects to suit him, he loaded a large furniture car with stock, vehicles and farming implements and shipped the car through. For the present they are occupying a house west of the depot.

The Capital Journal in its write-up of the state oratorical contest has the following comment upon Newberg's orator: "The Spirit of Commercialism" was the theme of Miss Nervia Wright of Pacific College. It was a scathing revelation of the universal race for the almighty dollar. She lifted the veil and disclosed education and literature blighted by the touch of sordid business interests. Science, literature and art must not give way and die for commerce. The orator closed with a great burst of eloquence that carried the house before it."

W. H. Hitchen, son of S. Hitchen, who came from Minnesota during the winter, arrived here last Saturday, with a car load of stock and household goods direct from the land of hizzards. He got through in good shape but he says he had rather a narrow escape while on the route over the mountains. For the greater part of the run his car was coupled on next to the engine but later was put into the rear. Soon after the change was made the train was wrecked and the engine and several cars were thrown down an embankment and landed in a stream of water, while his car remained safely on the rails.

Newberg seems to be a pretty good town to present oil propositions. There are now three companies soliciting for the sale of their respective stocks by the Newberg people; two are California affairs and one a local enterprise.

Each one of the three are strictly wildcat. Neither one of the three are producers. Each is simply a prospect, but undoubtedly each hopes to find oil.

Allowing for a full measure of confidence and effort for success to each, the fact remains, that only one of these three companies are able to sell stock in the county wherein their prospect exists.

"Distance lends enchantment to the view." This old saying is thought by some to be the particular merit which appeals to the purse of the Newberg purchaser of California stock.

It's none of our business who these purchasers are, or to what amount they invest. We simply make a comparison to show that if you want to buy non-producing stock we believe our local company has the best of it from any point of view.

When you purchase stock of a wildcat nature with its prospect located in a far off country, it's a gamble pure and simple; there is no other name for it; it's neither investment or development.

When you purchase stock in our local company, call it what you like, it's a dead sure thing that in its broadest meaning it's a development. We do not try to blow you in on a sure thing because we have none and the people who buy our stock do so with action on their own judgement as to amount for the purpose of developing an industry, which, proving successful, they know will prove valuable and the benefits of which indirectly if not directly, no man can escape.

We are going to sell stock enough to complete the work and mostly in $5, $10 and $20 investments. We hope to make a discovery; we believe we will, and are confident that in any event shareholders will get their money's worth.

Strangers visiting the city are invited to call at the bank for information concerning the city. Correspondence invited.
