PE-RU-NA NECESSARY TO THE HOME

A Letter From Congressman White, of North Carolina.

PE-RU-NA IS A HOUSE-HOLD SAFEGUARD.

No Family Should Be Without It.

Peruna is a great family medicine. The women praise it as well as the men; it is just the thing for the many little catarrhal ailments of childhood.

The following testimonials from thankful men and women tell in direct, sincere language what their success has been in the use of Peruna in their families:

Louis J. Scherrinsky, 103 Locust street, Atlantic, Iowa, writes:

"I will tell you briefly what Peruna has done for me. I took a severe cold which gave me a hard cough. All doctors' medicines failed to cure it. I took one bottle of Peruna and was well.

"Then my two children had bad coughs accompanied by gagging. My wife had stomach trouble for years. She took Peruna and now she is well.

"I cannot express my thanks in words, but I recommend your remedy at every opportunity, for I can conscientiously say that there is no medicine like Peruna. Nearly everyone in this town knew about the sickness of myself and family, and they have seen with astonishment what Peruna has done for us. Many followed our example, and the result was health. Thanking you heartily, I am."—L. J. Scherrinsky.

Mrs. Nannie Wallace, Tulare, Cal., president of the Western Baptist Missionary society, writes:

"I consider Peruna an indispensable article in my medicine chest. It is twenty medicines in one, and has so far cured every sickness that has been in my home for five years. I consider it of special value to weakly women, as it builds up the general health, drives out disease and keeps you in the best of health."—Mrs. Nannie Wallace.

Peruna protects the family against coughs, colds, catarrh, bronchitis, catarrh of the stomach, liver and kidneys. It is just as sure to cure a case of catarrh of the bowels as it is a case of catarrh of the head.

HON. GEORGE H. WHITE.

Congressman George Henry White, of Tarboro, N. C., writes the following letter to Dr. Hartman in regard to the merits of the great catarrh cure, Peruna:

House of Representatives,
Washington, Feb. 4, 1899.

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:

Gentlemen—"I am more than satisfied with Peruna, and find it to be an excellent remedy for the grip and catarrh. I have used it in my family and they all join me in recommending it as an excellent remedy."

Very Respectfully,
George H. White.

Peruna is an internal, scientific, systemic remedy for catarrh. It is no palliative or temporary remedy; it is thorough in its work, and in cleansing the diseased mucous membranes cures the catarrh.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Dead Man's Check Refused.

A few days ago a man presented a check to William H. Rogers, cashier of the Nassau bank, demanding payment.

"But I can't pay that," said the cashier; "that man's dead."

"But," protested the holder of the check, "he was alive when he signed it."

And, in face of all Mr. Rogers' explanations, the man left the bank convinced that he had a grievance.—New York Times.

How Wonderful.

Fudge—This is a most remarkable case. A paper relates that a connoisseur of art, passing an old junk shop, saw a dusty painting lying among the rags in the window, and, taking a fancy to it, purchased it.

Judge—What's remarkable about it?

WISE BROS.

These Portland Dentists Are Rapidly Becoming Famous.

Drs. T. P. and W. A. Wise, the popular Portland dental firm, are making a new era in local dental methods. Their offices in the Failing Building, Washington and Third Streets, are bright and cheerful, and all their customers smile instead of cry, for pain is never known in the tooth-pulling and teeth-repairing going on constantly at the Wise Bros. establishment. Wise Bros. advertise clearly and energetically, charge very reasonable prices, use the latest modern appliances, never hurt a patient, and the consequence is the people flock to them.

Then He Went.

"Do you know," remarked the young man, as the mantel clock indicated 11:30 p. m., "that of all the songs I ever heard, my favorite is 'Home, Sweet Home?'"

"Indeed?" rejoined the fair girl, as she endeavored to suppress a yawn, "I never would have suspected it."—Chicago News.

"Think so?"

"Yes; I told her she carried her age well and she was offended."

"You don't say?"

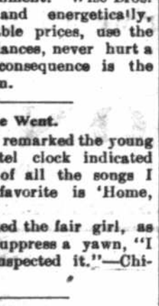
"Yes; and then I told her she didn't carry it well and she wouldn't speak."

A Choice of Evils.

"But why does he allow his wife to be so extravagant if he can't afford it?"

"Oh, well, I suppose he would rather have trouble with his creditors than with his wife."—Sketchy Bits.

SCROFULA



I bequeath to my children Scrofula with all its attendant horrors, humiliation and suffering. This is a strange legacy to leave to posterity; a heavy burden to place upon the shoulders of the young.

This treacherous disease dwarfs the body and hinders the growth and development of the faculties, and the child born of blood poison, or scrofula-tainted parentage, is poorly equipped for life's duties.

Scrofula is a disease with numerous and varied symptoms; enlarged glands or tumors about the neck and armpits, catarrh of the head, weak eyes and dreadful skin eruptions upon different parts of the body show the presence of tubercular or scrofulous matter in the blood. This dangerous and stealthy disease entrenches itself securely in the system and attacks the bones and tissues, destroys the red corpuscles of the blood, resulting in white swelling, a pallid, waxy appearance of the skin, loss of strength and a gradual wasting away of the body.

S. S. S. combines both purifying and tonic properties, and is guaranteed entirely vegetable, making it the ideal remedy in all scrofulous affections. It purifies the deteriorated blood, makes it rich and strong and a complete and permanent cure is soon effected. S. S. S. improves the digestion and assimilation of food, restores the lost properties to the blood and quickens the circulation, bringing a healthy color to the skin and vigor to the weak and emaciated body.

GERM LIFE STUDIED.

DISEASE-PRODUCING BACILLI UNDER THE MICROSCOPE.

Raised in an Incubator—Very Particular in Regard to Food—Millions of the Little Creatures in Air, Food and Water.

As a result of patient research and experimentation on the part of such men as Koch, Pasteur, Frankel, Abbott, Eshner, and many other scientists in this country and Europe, the physician of to-day is enabled to go direct to the primary causes of disease and by the aid of perfected microscopes and apparatus determine to a certainty the proper treatment to be pursued. In the larger cities laboratories have been established where the practicing physician, who otherwise on account of the heavy expense of equipping a private laboratory would be unable to take advantage of this valuable adjunct to his profession, can have specimens, taken from his patients, investigated under the skilled eye of the trained pathologist.

A newspaper correspondent was recently permitted to see the inside workings of a modern "bug plant," where the ubiquitous germ is grown, raised, nourished, and finally studied in all the varied phases of its short destructive life.

Entering the main room, filled with bottles of chemicals and uncanny-looking apparatus, the first object to strike the visitor's eye is a strange-looking metal box under which burns a tiny gas flame. Readers who attended the Pan-American Exposition will remember the incubator on the Midway in which babies were nourished and raised. Here was another incubator, but in place of bright-eyed little children, colonies of infinitesimal disease-dealing germs were being brought to life. Before the suspected germ specimen is placed in this incubator it must be thoroughly prepared and placed on a proper culture medium, or breeding ground. Different germs thrive on different foods, so it is necessary, in order to successfully raise a family of this particular branch of the bug family, to select a suitable food. The average germ is a great lover of beef bouillon for the main course of his dinner, while others skip the substantials, going direct to dessert and making the entire meal of gelatin. Then there are germs with Celtic proclivities who refuse to be nourished on any food but that mealy vegetable known as the Irish potato. A small portion of the suspected specimen is placed on one of these different mediums and transferred to the incubator. In a short time the operator is able to determine by the growth on the medium whether disease germs lurk in the patient from whom the specimen came. If the culture tube indicates that germ growth has taken place, a thorough identification is made under the powerful lense of a microscope. So exact and searching have the investigations of the many noted scientists been that the bacteriologist is able to tell at a glance just what bacilli are present, and the attending physician has a final and conclusive confirmation or rejection of his first diagnosis. At the time of the newspaper man's visit the incubator contained a full assortment of tubes filled with colonies of deadly little germs. One small tube contained enough diphtheria bacilli to inoculate every inhabitant of a large city, in another lived a happy family of anthrax producers, while a third was the glass house in which a colony of typhoid fever suspects had been quarantined.

After the germs have been cultured in the incubator they are ready for examination under the microscope. A slender platinum needle, which has previously been passed through a flame in order to destroy existing animal life, is thrust into the culture, and the smallest possible particle placed on a glass slide. Then, in order to render the field of germs visible under the microscope, certain chemical stains are used. Each species of germ life responds to the action of its particular stain. Take for instance the culture from a person suspected of being a consumptive. After the specimen had been prepared as described above, it is treated with a crimson aniline stain, and, should the bacilli of tuberculosis exist, they are plainly brought out and easily identified.

The camera is a valuable adjunct to bacteriological work, as will be seen by the accompanying drawings of four common species of bacilli taken from photographs made in the local laboratory. An attachment, not unlike the ordinary plate camera, is fastened to the microscope, the powerful lens of the 'scope answering the same purpose as the lens of the camera used in other photographic work.

Water and milk analyses are also made in the laboratory. Every drop of water we drink contains germ life, but the germ species with few exceptions are harmless. They are not disease-producing, but simply act as scavengers, converting organic matter into harmless compounds. The following table compiled by leading American authorities on the subject gives an idea of the number of these wiggling little creatures the average person drinks in a day:

Exceptionally pure water contains 10 germs to each 15 drops.

Very pure water contains 100 germs to each 15 drops.

Pure when 1,000 germs are present.

Poor with 10,000 germs present.

And when water contains 1,000,000 to 50,000,000 germs to each 15 drops, it is considered very bad, and unsafe to drink.

Gave It to the Wrong Girl.

A beautiful young lady, a member of the smart set, went into a Newport drug store and asked the druggist if it was possible to disguise castor oil.

"It's horrid stuff to take, you know. Ugh!" said the young lady with a shudder.

"Why, certainly," said the druggist, and just then, as another young lady was taking some soda water, he asked her if she wouldn't have some, too. After drinking it the young lady lingered a moment and finally observed:

"Now tell me how you would disguise castor oil?"

"Why, madam, I just gave you some——"

"My gracious me!" exclaimed the young lady, "why, I wanted it for my sister!"—Ell Perkins' Lectures.

Changed His Mind.

"I don't care if I die," said the patient, despondently.

"Oh, you may linger several weeks!" replied the physician comfortingly.
