City Election time draweth nigh again and to a casual observer it would appear that very little thought is being given to it. There are indications, however, that a few knives are being whetted for the fray.

Clad Clark, who is attending the Oregon Agricultural College, attended the Y. M. C. A. convention here last week as a delegate. He was honored by being elected secretary of the Oregon and Idaho Association for the coming year.

F. C. Baughman and L. T. Woodward, delegates from Dallas College to the Y. M. C. A. convention held here last week, made the Graphic office a social call. Young Mr. Baughman is to be editor and proprietor of the Dallas Collegian, the new college paper which is to be launched upon the sea of journalism about the first of the year.

On Monday morning, Y. M. C. A. delegates representing the State University, Albany College, Oregon Agricultural College, Willamette University and Dallas College, attended the chapel exercises at the college, which, in honor of the forenoon. Speeches and college songs and yells were given by the visitors and the informal program was heartily appreciated. At the close of the exercises, Dallas College and the boys here tried conclusions at basket ball in the gymnasium, with the result that the Pacific College boys beautifully displayed their spirit of courtesy by declining to score against the visitors.

The entertainment committee of the college Y. M. C. A. wishes to express its thanks and appreciation to the people of Newberg for the generous and hospitable manner in which they opened their homes to the visitors during the recent convention.

Ervin Scott received a telegram from Salem Tuesday announcing the death of his uncle, James Scott. He and Mrs. John Hodson took the boat Wednesday to attend the funeral. Mrs. Hodson's mother, Mrs. Susannah Scott was already present, she being a sister-in-law to the deceased.

The Mutual telephone is talked all over the county. Two new companies have run lines into Dayton; Ballston has a company of 25 members that are going to connect with the McMinnville Mutual Telephone line. The company formed east of town with Henry Fletcher as president, will be completed in a short time, connecting McMinnville with Dayton, Dundee, Newberg and tributary lines. Carlton, North Yamhill, Amity, Sheridan and Whitson are talking of organizing. We understand that a company is to be organized northwest of town also one southwest. It will only be a matter of a few months until all the surrounding country including the towns will be connected with the switch board at McMinnville. It is predicted that within 4 months from the time the switch board is placed in McMinnville that 200 or more phones will be connected with the same.—News.

A letter from Miss Alice Heater to friends here states that with nine other Chemawa pupils she is pleasantly located at the Pennsylvania Carlisle Indian School, with which institution she is greatly pleased. She had an interesting trip East, and took in many sights, not the least of which was Mrs. Carrie Nation in Chicago.

After getting up early Wednesday morning Web Cummins stepped upon a nail in his bare feet, running it far into the ball of his foot. It soon began to swell and gave him so much trouble that two or three hours afterward he went to Drs. Clough and Clouchet, who lanced the wound from which issued a quantity of excretion which had already gathered. The wound is a bad one but it is hoped that nothing serious will develop from it.

The old Quaker says, "Two things don't fret about—the things you can't help and the things you can help." Are you troubled with cold feet?—buy the kid lined Queen Quality ladies' shoes and you won't fret about cold feet. Are you tired of hearing your own gentle (?) footstep?—buy the Q. Q. cushion sole and you can walk as noiselessly as if on baby's dimpled feet. Do you fret about damp feet?—you can help it. Buy the Q. Q. water proof soles. Any number on any last at Jay Cook's.

Members of the county court are quietly investigating the matter of the purchase of a poor farm. The platform upon which Judge Rhodes and Commissioner Booth was elected contained a strong plank in favor of the purchase of a farm upon which the county charges may be kept. The court intends to keep that pledge, believing with the members of the convention that nominated them and with the voters who elected them that in that way the cost of maintaining the indigents of the county can be considerably reduced. It is a fact worthy of note, however, that the present court has been reducing the expenses in this item considerably already.—Register.

A most remarkable coincidence is noted today of a mercantile establishment actually having in stock what they advertise—no "Fakes"—no "Humbbug"—we refer to Parker & Pool. The place to buy your Holiday goods.

Several property sales took place in this vicinity the latter part of last week. The residence property of F. H. Storey was sold for $1000 to Station Agent Hatchwell; Howard Williams and Bert and Jo Terry sold adjoining pieces of land out east of town to parties from Washington. B. A. Town sold his place west of town to Ed Parrish for $2000. J. W. Miller of the Cottage Hotel sold the Downs property northwest of the depot to the Elder John Bonewitz.

Fred Werth was showing at this office Wednesday a photograph of his family, taken before they left Dakota, in which fourteen children are grouped around Mr. and Mrs. Werth. Fred says it costs something to keep such a following but that he has managed to do so and make money at the same time which to all appearances is very true. On arriving here some few months ago he purchased the farms of Geo. Hask and John Semmler, east of town, and has since purchased tracts of Henry Richter and one or two other neighbors, has this week bought thirty acres of the John Hask place and is said to be figuring on another farm. It looks much as if he does not intend to stop short of Parrot Mountain.
