working for some time at May-ger, Oregon, came back to New-berg last week and has been visiting relatives here.

F. A. Hayes of Vancouver, Washington, spent the fourth with his family on their place north of town. He was accompanied by his brother and family.

M. O. Pickett and Marvin Blair went out to Meadow Lake last Friday on a short fishing excursion, getting home Sunday evening. They got about seventy-five trout.

Mrs. F. A. Elliott, accompanied by a large company of Rebekahs from the local lodge, went up to La Fayette on Thursday evening of last week and installed the new officers of the La Fayette lodge.

O. V. Allen returned to Boise, Idaho, the first of the week, leaving his family here to continue their visit. Guy Metcalf went with him, to begin work on the Allen evaporating plants and get things in readiness for the fruit drying season.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan White have been enjoying a visit from their son, Everett White, and wife, of Moro, Sherman county.
While here they purchased the Jay Cook property at the foot of Meridian street, which they expect to occupy in the future as a home.

Why not farmers of Old Yamhill take the lead in naming their farms? Then have the name neatly painted and placed in front of the house, gate or barn, where it can be read from the highway. The name of the owner of the farm might also be placed underneath name of farm.
The time is not far distant when this will be done. Herald.

Mrs. A. T. Hill, and family.

Rev. Joseph Hoberg of Mc-Minnville visited in town Tuesday with his daughter, Mrs. W.
W. Nelson. He was on the way home from Scholls, where he had delivered a lecture the evening before upon the principles of Odd Fellowship.

Jupiter Playus took a free hand in the Fourth of July celebration, to the disappointment of many picnickers. The weather was good in the afternoon, however, and the day was not altogether a failure from the standpoint of the celebrators.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Coffin of Pasadena, California, are visiting friends here and attending Oregon Yearly Meeting. They are but recently married, Mrs.
Coffin formerly being Mrs.
Stephen Mulford of Iowa, and is well known to several people in this vicinity.

The ubiquitous dog's fennel is robbing the town of its fresh, clean appearance, and it behooves property owners to see that the scythe is freely and effectively wielded against the pest. Here is a wide field of service for the civic improvement committee of the ladies' club. Let 'em agitate.

Mrs. Mary C. Osborn and her son, Fletcher Cox, and wife, arrived the latter part of last week from Lapwai, Idaho, on a vacation from their work in the Indian school at that place, and are at their home on Dayton avenue. Fletcher was married to an Idaho young lady a few months ago.

When it comes to the matter of putting up money for public improvement, the sentiment of the people seems to be that, while they have but few funds to spare, they can better afford to help lay a switch to the sawmill and secure a big manufacturing industry and a regular pay roll than to aid in buying a small farm for the Southern Pacific Company on which to locate a depot and run a switch.
