PUBLIC SPIRIT.

Enthusiasm at Meeting of the Board of Trade—Citizens will Endeavor to Meet Proposition of Spaulding Logging Company

Such a meeting as that of the Newberg Board of Trade held Monday evening serves as an excellent tonic for those run down in public spirit and enterprise. There was a good attendance out, and some excellent speeches were made to which close attention was given.

The long train of fireworks was set off by J. C. Hodson, who made a very effective address on "Manufacturing Industries," which he prefaced with the following story: On a street of a certain city, a negro woman was unsuccessful in an attempt to get under an awning for shelter from a heavy rain, and the governor of the state, who was passing, held his umbrella over her while the shower lasted. Some friends were discussing the governor's kindness, when one remarked that most any one could have done that. "Yes," was the very pertinent rejoinder, "but Briggs did it." The words, "Briggs did it," were taken by Prof. Hodson as the text of his talk, the application being that, while talk is plenty and cheap, it is the town that gets in and does things that grows into the city. He stated that there are two principal periods of growth; that in the first place a town is an outgrowth of a demand into a certain point, when in the second period the town must go farther than the demand and create a new one, or come to a standstill and retrograde. In other words, the country first makes the town, and the latter, in turn, develops and makes the country. Newberg has grown somewhat out of the first stage, and what she further becomes will be the result of her own efforts. There is an outward and an inward growth, but the latter must first be in evidence in developing a town before outside capital will be attracted. The speaker held that there is an opportunity for Newberg to double its population in two years—not by waiting, but by seeing something to do and doing it. In his belief, there are two industries which we ought to have at once and can get: First, a large furniture factory; and second, a fruit cannery, which before long will come somewhere in this part of the country and which should properly be located here. He held that the fruit growers should start the latter industry, backed by the citizens of Newberg, upon a co-operative basis to begin with. Some say we would fail. We have failed and may fail in some things, but success comes only by trying. It's worth everything to a town to get a reputation for public enterprise. Like begets like, enterprise begets enterprise. We could have a woolen factory in successful operation within a few years if we would make the effort. The great opportunity for Newberg is now, right now, and we will get capitalists interested here when we show a saving faith in ourselves. "Briggs did it" should be our watchword.

C. J. Edwards, president of the board, called upon the standing committees to report.

The report of the hotel committee gave rise to a lively discussion. There was no argument on the proposition that the town needs better hotel accommodations badly, but as to how extensive a hotel we need and how to get it, there was some diversity of opinion. Jesse Edwards thought $10,000 would be necessary to put up a hotel which would satisfy the demands of our growing town.

J. C. Hodson said that there is as much danger of overdoing the thing, on the other hand, as it is now underdone. He didn't think Newberg would ever attract many drummers, as they can't get anything to drink here.

This brought L. M. Parker to his feet in defense of the knights of the grip, who resented the aspersion, which called forth the suggestion (sotto voce) from Butt that perhaps Parker hadn't been asked to drink, a left-handed suggestion which brought the rose bloom out on Hodson amid the general laugh which followed.

F. A. Morris emphasized the value of a good hotel as an advertiser of Newberg, and urged that some definite action be taken that the ball might be started rolling. He thought it would be a good idea to have a paper passed around that it might be determined how much stock the people of Newberg would subscribe toward the enterprise.

Messrs. Caldwell, Parker and Carl were heard on the question at issue, their idea being that a $6000 or $7000 hotel, well patronized, would be a better investment than a more pretentious institution, with half a business.

During the discussion some good words were spoken for Landlord Nelson, the general impression seeming to be that he is doing good work under adverse circumstances.

The hotel committee was ordered to open subscription books and determine what financial backing the people of Newberg will give.

The most important topic of discussion, however, was introduced by Mayor Christenson, who read the proposition of the Spaulding Logging Company, the text of which follows:

Newberg, Ore., June 27, 1903.
N. C. Christenson,
Mayor, City.

Dear Sir: We have recently interested some parties in our company which makes it possible for us to build a new sawmill at some point where we can get the proper transportation facilities. We have always been interested in the town of Newberg and would like to see the new mill located at this place. The new mill will be, at least, twice the capacity of the old mill and will give employment to quite an increased number of men. In the past we have not asked the town of Newberg for any bonus, and would not now, but the parties who are interested with us are persons who have no financial interest in our town, and they ask that the town put in the necessary switches to accommodate the work of the new mill.

We make this as a definite proposition to the citizens of Newberg. If you will build the switches as above indicated, or will deposit approved security that the expense incurred in building such switch will be repaid when we have built a mill of 100,000 feet daily capacity, we will agree to build a mill of that capacity at this place. This proposition is made with the understanding that this offer be accepted and the money subscribed by August 1, 1903.

Yours very truly,
THE CHAS. K. SPAULDING LOGGING COMPANY.

Per Chas. K. Spaulding:

L. M. Parker deplored the attitude of some near-sighted people who have already expressed themselves as opposed to doing anything for the company. He recited briefly the history of the industry which has aided so potently in developing Newberg, and declared it to be the greatest thing in town and an institution which it would be disastrous to lose.

Clarence Butt proceeded to do his stunt in oratorical pyrotechnics, in telling of the great future in store for the town if the people will only rally and hang on to the sawmill. He figured that with the company's newly-acquired paid-up capital of $150,000 it would amount to more than a quarter million dollar concern, and that it would make a name for Newberg. He stated that the switch would be public property and could be used by other manufacturers sure to follow. He closed his remarks with the thought that the new mill and attendant enterprises would soon double our population and that Newberg would soon outstrip McMinnville, when which came to pass he could sit back, cross his legs and be happy ever after. And as Mr. Butt took his seat a look of such ineffable content and satisfaction illuminated his countenance that it was thought he already saw the county court house starting out in this direction.

In F. A. Morris' estimation, there was no pipe dream in the foregoing remarks, to which he added a few words in support of the proposition. Others followed in like vein, until it was evident that the fellows who are generally "fernist" were conspicuously absent.

A committee, composed of F. H. Caldwell, C. D. Pool and Clarence Butt, was appointed to take the matter in hand, begin investigations at once, and be ready to make a report at another public meeting to be held in the I. O. O. F. hall Friday evening.

Very Remarkable Cure of Diarrhoea.

"About six years ago, for the first time in my life, I had a sudden and severe attack of diarrhoea," writes Mrs. Alice Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved to Bosque county, our present home, and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful. I could hardly realize that I was well again, or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine, costing but a few cents, cured me." For sale by C. F. Moore & Co.
