Local Events.

A. P. Johnson was down from Corvallis the middle of the week. Have you seen those new oxfords for men at Porter & Larkin's?

Harness and all that goes with it at Lawer's. See his fly nets, dusters, and open top sweat pads.

The noisome pestilence is over for another year and we are all alive to tell the story—for which let us be duly thankful.

This issue of the Graphic, which chronicles the development of Newberg, would be a good one to send away to friends. Extra copies for sale this week.

Our lady attendant has some fine muslin underwear to show to the ladies of Newberg when in the store of Porter & Larkin's.

Great caution should be exercised in setting out fires these days. A little carelessness may easily mean a loss amounting to many thousands of dollars.

Miss Bertha Cox, who with her mother was in attendance at California Yearly Meeting, volunteered for service in Friends mission work at Deering, Alaska.

Emmer Newby who closed his year's work the last of the month as a member of the Knox Concert Co., has gone to work for Hawk, the printer, in Portland.

Mrs. Evans of Portland will teach music on piano, violin, guitar; will also give vocal lessons. See her at the Newberg House Wednesday, July 13. Best of references.

Mr. and Mrs. John Brown came down last week for a few days visit from Arlie where he is overseeing getting out the oak timber for the Oregon Handle Manufacturing Company.

H. R. Cobb has moved back into the house west of the public school, now owned by John Swetman of Dundee. Mr. Cobb hopes to build this fall on his lot just east of the school grounds.

James Duncan is home from Eugene where he has been working in a big general hardware store. He says he contemplates going into business for himself in Newberg, his line to be furniture and hardware.

Leon B. Kenworthy, who is getting a good start in the practice of law in Dayton, Washington, came down to Newberg Friday and visited here over the Fourth with Otto Pickett and renewed old friendships generally.

The fellow who afforded entertainment for a crowd Monday by an exhibition of broncho busting deserved a good fine, if not something more strenuous, for cruelty to a dumb animal. His exhibition was possibly a little higher in the scale than that of bull baiting.

As many know, a condition and not a theory confronts the people of Newberg, relative to the cemetery. All the burial plots are taken in the Friends cemetery, and at the request of that church the city council has been looking into the situation with the prospect of buying additional grounds. The councilmen have found that no land adequate to the purpose can be purchased adjacent to the graveyard, and have done the next best thing in their estimation. They have taken an option until the middle of this month upon a piece of ground a few hundred yards down the canyon upon the other side of the creek, known as the Manning place. If the purchase is made it will mean a new cemetery.

Sarg Britt of Portland shot off his firecrackers in Newberg Monday.

Drew Price and wife of Portland spent Sunday and the Fourth in Newberg.

See those drummer samples of shirts at Porter & Larkin's, $1.50 and $1.25 values for 75 cents.

Jay Heath and family came up from Lents the latter part of last week for a visit with Newberg relatives.

For sale, one Milwaukee harvester, left over from last year; can be seen at the harness shop, Newberg. Can be purchased at wholesale price. Come and see it. This add will not appear again. A. L. Stevens.

C. E. Kirk of Seattle, who had been visiting the home folks here, left the latter part of last week and will attend the big Y. M. C. A. conference at Geneva, Wisconsin. On his return he expects to spend a few days at the St. Louis fair.

Miss Bessie L. Houck, a popular Yamhill county teacher, who was employed in the Newberg schools the past year, was married at her home in McMinnville on Wednesday of last week to O. K. Williamson of Prosser, Washington.

Mrs. Minnie Lutz of Shadron, Nebraska, who is making an extended tour of the west left here Saturday for the Southern part of the Willamette Valley, after having visited with her cousin, Mrs. R. B. Linville, whom she had not seen for many years.

The Newberg liverymen saw a busy time Monday. C. C. Ferguson got his addition completed none too soon, for on the Fourth he fed one hundred and sixty head of horses. One hundred vehicles lined the streets around his barn and the rush continued throughout the night.

Fire broke out on the Lewis place west of town Monday morning and came near making way with some six hundred cords of wood owned by H. M. Williams, Jo Ego and John Koberg. Prompt attention saved all but ten cords belonging to the former. Some grave suspicions are entertained as to the origin of the fire.

Last week H. T. Cash of Chehalem mountain installed an improved new hydraulic ram in a deep canyon back of their house, which forces mountain spring water a sheer distance upward of two hundred feet and thence to the house. Forcing the water to such a height was something of an engineering problem, and when the water first gushed out from the pipe above, a family jollification ensued.

No little excitement was caused here about seven o'clock Friday evening by the telephone message which stated that the town of La Fayette, ten miles distant, was being ravaged by fire. Eyes were turned to the southwest and a cloud of smoke could be seen rolling up above the hills. Many left at once for the scene of conflagration and arrived in time to see the rapid work of destruction. It is reported that in all, nineteen buildings went up in flames, including practically all of that part of town on the south side of the main street. The other part of town was gravely threatened, but was saved by a row of maple trees of thick foliage. The fire originated in the livery barn—just how is unknown. The old county seat of Yamhill has suffered heavily at different times from the fire fiend, and another visitation such as the last would leave little of the place but its historic name.
