OREGON YEARLY MEETING.

Report of Proceedings Continued From Last Week.

On Thursday morning, the 10 o'clock session opened with short devotional exercises, which were followed by the reading of the Baltimore epistle. The clerk read the report of the representative meeting, naming some committees, urging insurance of all church property, and recommending that all appropriations to the church departments revert to the Yearly Meeting if not claimed within the year. The insurance question started a discussion on the ownership of church property. After a very spirited discussion it was found by vote that the meeting was anxious that the monthly meetings transfer the title of the church property to the Yearly Meeting corporation.

The nomination of the permanent committee was announced and the report was adopted. A committee was also appointed to have printed a uniform set of blanks for all the monthly meetings.

Thursday afternoon was devoted to the foreign missionary work. After the reports of the secretary and treasurer of the foreign mission board, an interesting and encouraging letter was read from Silas and Anna Moon, the missionaries located at Kaak village, Alaska. They state that the average attendance at their Sabbath School is about 75, and that the chief of the Kaak Indians and his wife were lately converted and joined the church. Mr. Moon, who was present at Yearly Meeting, told of the cramped condition of their school, and made an appeal for aid in providing more room.

Minnie Newby Smith told some things about the mission surroundings, which seemed very strange to the audience. Then the missionary board brought forward a volunteer to the Alaskan work, Miss Belle Gardner of Portland, lately a graduate of Portland High School. The meeting united in a touching consecration service.

The address delivered by John Frederick Hanson was a comprehensive and enthusiastic exposition of the mission field viewed from the standpoint of a man who has done religious work over a large part of the United States and Europe.

FRIDAY MORNING.

After devotional exercises led by Jas. P. Price, the epistles from Indiana and New England Yearly Meetings were read, and were given close attention.

The subject of Sabbath observance brought out some very emphatic views, and it was decided to send a memorial to the legislature asking for better law on the observance of the Sabbath.

The report of the superintendent of literature, Mrs. Lorena Hodson, showed that the distribution of good literature has been carried on in a very judicious manner.

The report of Peace Superintendence Elizabeth Miles was read and showed that Friends are still energetic in this work.

John Frederick Hanson quoted these words: "The big man reasons: the little man fights." He said: The Friends are proud to say they have been leaders for peace for 250 years, but we are ashamed that we have not used greater energy in emphasizing the doctrine. The Hague Peace Tribunal has been tried and found sufficient. There never was a time when the rank and file were so much in favor of peace; or when our nation was so much in favor of peace. There is no agency which makes infidels so fast as the army and navy. The church ought to speak out against the military system. The people that are preventing war are more entitled to kisses than Hobson. And the war spirit will increase unless the church continues to stand for the right.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

Sabbath School work was considered at this session. J. C. Hodson, superintendent for the Yearly Meeting, introduced the subject for discussion.

Mrs. Beulah Ross of Salem, spoke of the responsibility of the teacher in regard to the heart culture of the children in the Sabbath School. She felt it was the duty of the teacher, to study carefully, each heart before her and seek to apply the lesson taught, in such a way that the need of each child would be met. She repeated a beautiful little poem, "A Diamond in the Rough," showing each child to be "A Diamond Sure Enough."

In a very unique way, Albert Mendenhall expressed the needs of the Sabbath School in three words, grace, grit, greenbacks.

Mrs. Mary Geer told of the sacrifice it required to be a successful Sabbath School worker. She gave a very interesting account of the work she had accomplished.

Silas Moon, missionary to the Kaak Indians in Alaska, reported the work done there. About fifty Indians are members of the Sabbath school and they take a deep interest in the lessons taught them.

James Price was very much in favor of conferences, as a means of giving inspiration to the work.

Amos Kenworthy spoke at length with deep concern for the welfare of Oregon Yearly Meeting.

SATURDAY MORNING.

At the 10 o'clock session the committee previously appointed reported a memorial to the legislature requesting a law against Sunday baseball and other Sunday amusements and punishing offenders.

Concise and instructive epistles from Oregon to Dublin, London, and the American Yearly Meetings, also to Alaska Friends, were reported and with some corrections heartily united in.

It is found by the report of the superintendent and treasurer of Evangelistic work that this work is in a very healthy condition, and very satisfactory work has been done, especially in strengthening the weaker meetings. The Evangelistic committee intends to enter some new fields during the coming year.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

The last business session of the Yearly Meeting was given to the consideration of education and as usual was one of the most interesting of the week. Addresses were given by Rev. J. F. Hanson, of Idaho, and President H. Edwin McGrew. The story of the great victory of one of the students, Walter Miles, in the National Prohibition oratorical contest at Indianapolis, was told by Professor R. W. Kelsey. The reports of the board of managers and president of Pacific College showed a year of very successful work. The financial needs of the institution were presented by President McGrew. He guaranteed that if Oregon Friends would raise $1000 for running expenses for next year, he would secure another $1000 from Eastern Friends. The call was made for subscriptions and the amount was raised.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

Sunday, the last day of the Yearly Meeting, was a very busy one. Amos Kenworthy had charge of the eight o'clock service. At ten John F. Hanson preached a strong doctrinal sermon setting forth the cardinal principles of the Friends church. Mrs. Strange of Idaho spoke in the afternoon. In the evening the closing services were ably conducted by C. Elmer Pemberton of Scotts Mills. The meeting closed with an impressive praise service. Many expressions, both in meeting and out, were heard to the effect that this Yearly Meeting was one of unusual blessing.

Celebrated on Mt. Hood.

Sam and Louis Hulit and J. G. Wohlschlegel, formerly of Laurel, but who have been working at Hood River, started out afoot from the latter place Sunday, July 3, for Mt. Hood, carrying provisions and bedding. They walked twenty-two miles the first day and the next morning arrived at Cloud Cap Inn. The following night they slept between snowdrifts over seven feet deep, and went on up the side of the mountain to a height of 9500 feet, the snow being too deep for them to make the complete ascent. After looking about they retraced their way to Hood River, having walked over seventy miles and being highly gratified with their trip.
