THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1904.

The Excelsior of Kuropatkin.

The shades of night were falling fast,
When through Manchuria there passed
A general with flashing eye,
Who bore this banner proudly high:
"Estemupski."

A few days passed, again he strode,
With fierce demeanor up the road;
Another banner now he bore,
Changed somewhat from the one before:
"Waltabitski."

The weeks rolled, again he came,
And bore a banner much the same,
On which was written this design,
Before his awesome battle line:
"Notyetski."

More weeks elapsed, and on the track
He rode, now forward and now back,
A waiting world watched eagerly,
But this was all that they could see:
"Afterwileski."

More months elapsed, and still no sign
Of battle from that dreadful line,
And now before his army vast
This banner he nailed proudly fast:
"Tomorrowski."

A year had gone, no battle yet:
The world came almost to forget
The doughty general, but he Changed signs with regularity:
"Nextweekski."

But every day before his fine
And awe-inspiring battle line
He rode, with sabre in his hand,
And valiantly gave his command:
"Backupski."

At last this grim and dreadful man
Grew busy, and a message ran
To the home folks, who freely shed
Their bitter tears, the while they read:
"Gonebumpski."

One of the teachers at Chemawa says very sensibly that what the Indian girls need is more work and less frills, and just as truthfully an Albany editor adds that that is what a great many other girls need.

College has opened again, and the presence of the increased number of young people adds buoyancy and enthusiasm to the spirit of the community. The atmosphere of the college town is peculiar and indefinable—as hard to explain as the aroma of an Oregon rose and just as enhancing.

The Eugene Guard declares, and with some reason, that speeches and letters of acceptance by the men running for the highest office in the land are uncalled for. They simply thresh over old political issues and place themselves on a par with the average stump speaker. Hasten the day when the candidate for president does not have to place himself on a level with the average spellbinder.

Now that China pheasant season is at hand and the boys are cleaning up the shotgun preparatory for business, fathers should not neglect to caution over zealous sons against the careless handling and use of fire arms. With the best of care enough tragedies take place without adding to the casualty list by gross carelessness by the boy who didn't know it was loaded, who blew into the gun, who pulled it over the fence after him by the barrel, or who shot before he looked. The country will be full of guns for a while, and it is to be hoped that none of the boys will be winged along with the birds.

The proper petitions having been filed in accordance with the local option law passed in June, the citizens of Yamhill county will vote upon the question of prohibition at the November election. And isn't it about time that something was done to organize for a vigorous camaign? There is danger of relying too much upon the work that was done prior to the June election, which was nothing but a forerunner of what is to be accomplished on November 8th. That was a skirmish line action. The real battle is yet to be fought. The enemy is intrenching itself. It's high time to get into action.

The excellent showing made by Oregon's fine stock at the St. Louis fair is a matter for congratulation with Oregonians, especially as it has not been many years since the state had very little to show in the way of fine stock of any kind. The Ladd herd of shorthorns not only came in for many individual prizes but in the sweepstakes where it was entered against the herds of the world, it was awarded the grand prize. And let it not be forgotten that these blue ribbon cattle came from this county, near North Yamhill. We are gradually making it understood that the slogan, "Yamhill against the world," is no idle jest nor vainglorious boast. Old Yamhill can deliver the goods.

Only Did His Duty as He Saw It.

"I deem it my duty to add a word of praise for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says J. Wiley Park, the well known merchant and post master at Wiley, Ky. "I have been selling it for three or four years, and it gives complete satisfaction. Several of my customers tell me they would not be without it for anything. Very often, to my knowledge, one single dose has cured a severe attack of diarrhoea, and I positively know it will cure flux (dysentery). You are at liberty to use this testimonial as you please." For sale by C. F. Moore & Co.

You don't pay any more for your goods with chairs than you did without them at Porter & Larkin's.

Fearful Odds Against Him.

Bedridden, alone and destitute. Such, in brief was the condition of an old soldier by name of J. J. Havens, Versailles, O. "I'm on the road to complete recovery." Best on earth for liver and kidney troubles and all forms of stomach and bowel complaints. Only 50c. Guaranteed by F. H. Caldwell & Co., druggists.

Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co. of Chicago, discovered some years ago how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for piles. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases, DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits.
