

"HOW LAUDER PLAYED."

First Number of Lyceum Course a Grand Success.

Did Newberg appreciate Lauder? When the hour hand passes the ten o'clock mark and is racing round the curve toward the half hour post, when a man has played his last number as announced, and an audience which has listened for two hours refuses to budge and calls decisively for more—that looks a good deal like appreciation. And Mr. Lauder said he never had more attentive listeners.

The entertainment was precisely as advertised—a piano lecture recital. It might be termed a running lecture on art, music, the great compositions and their themes, illustrated by Mr. Lauder's brilliant work at the piano. His lecture was at once an inspiration and a revelation. His enthusiastic exposition of the wonderful art of music and the greatness of its realm, given in such an eloquent, forcible way, was made so plain that all could understand and appreciate. Mr. Lauder is no mean orator and has the happy faculty of getting you to see and feel as he does. His sharp and ready wit is irrefragable.

The lecturer explained the three gradations of music—rhythm, melody and harmony and made a plea for the art in its higher forms. He thinks it is time people were developing appreciation of a higher class of music than mere rhythm—the musical expression of the sons of Ham. The playing of national airs and the demonstration of how they express racial characteristics, was a very pleasing feature of the program.

Each composition rendered was first impressively outlined and its motif revealed. Selections given were "The Wedding March" by Mendelsohn, "Overture to William Tell" by Rossini, "Invitation to the Dance" by Weber, "Venice and Naples" by Liszt, Schubert's "Military March," and "Second Hungarian Rhapsody" by Liszt.

Through the co-operation of Prof. Kantner and the kindness of Soule Bros. of Portland, a Steinway Concert Grand piano was secured from the city for the use of the great pianist, which added greatly to the success of the evening's entertainment.

Mr. Lauder will make another tour of the Northwest next season and it is the hope of the management of Newberg's Lyceum Association to be able to secure him again for an appearance here. He has given this year's course an excellent start.

"Friends Reach Out."

With the above as a caption, a recent number of the Los Angeles Times gives a good notice of the work of Friends in the southern metropolis, the following excerpt from which will interest Newberg people.

"Times were when 'Quaker' spoke for conservatism in every direction but the more progressive 'Friend' has taken charge, and the work of that church is going along abreast of any other in methods for the spread of the gospel."

"Under the leadership of Rev. Levi D. Barr, the Friends Church, at the corner of Third street and Fremont avenue has made rapid progress and its pastor is a factor in all the general religious movements in the city. The greatest stride he has yet made is in securing a six-months' lease on Elks' Hall for every Sunday afternoon, the object being to hold evangelistic meetings."

Lewis and Clark Centennial Notes.

Progress in construction on the grounds and buildings is far advanced and everything points to a complete fair on June 1.

Orders from Eastern points for Lewis and Clark souvenir dollars are daily increasing in number. The coins sell for two dollars apiece.

The "Trail" will be second to none of those in the past. Indications are that there will be a general migration of the Pike shows at St. Louis to the western fair.

The Government Life-Saving Station at the Exposition will be fitted up in the same manner as a large service station. There will be the regulation complement of life boats and a crew to attend them.

A complete set of rules governing the use of Exposition grounds by exhibitors and concessionaires, has been issued. The charge for lighting and power and other accommodations are included in the pamphlet.

There will be no exhibits permitted in Festival Hall at the Lewis and Clark Exposition at Portland next year. The building which will seat more than 2500 persons, will be used for concerts, lectures and conventions.

Californians are taking an encouraging interest in the Lewis and Clark Exposition. The California Development Committee is arranging for an excursion of several hundred people of that state to be present on June 1, the formal opening day.

The New York building will cost $20,000, and the state will spend an additional sum of $15,000 for the collection of a suitable exhibit, to be contained in the building. Massachusetts will spend in all $30,000, of which sum $20,000 will be used for the building and $10,000 for the exhibit.

Frederick Neil Innes, leader of the famous band that bears his name, has been engaged by the authorities of the fair to furnish music for the exposition from the date of the opening, June 1, to June 28. Mr. Innes plans to organize an adult chorus and a chorus in which the school children will take part.

Historic names will be given the streets, avenues and courts at the Lewis and Clark Centennial. The street leading to the Trail, which is the name given to the amusement street, will be called Astor Drive, in honor of John Jacob Astor. Plazas and courts will be named for Senator Thomas H. Benton, a staunch friend of Oregon, his colleague, Senator Lewis F. Linn, President Jefferson, and President Monroe.

The Exposition site, the most beautiful ever utilized for such a purpose, covers approximately 180 acres of land and 220 acres of water. In the park of the site, thirty-eight species of native trees and shrubs dot the well-kept lawns. The sunken gardens, where the most beautiful flowers will be planted, with a cascade effect of water running from a fountain in the center, will be one of the most beautiful features.

The Trail, which is the name given to the concessions street, will be located on the near part of the Bridge of Nations. Here, for a distance of 800 feet, the bridge has been built 150 feet wide, and the shows will be located on both sides of a seventy-foot avenue. The bridge, the foundation work of which is nearly completed, will lead to the peninsula on which will be situated the government building. When completed, the Bridge of Nations, classic in outline and built in imitation of solid masonry, will span a thousand feet of waterway, the largest ever included and utilized in an exposition site.

Let Us Show You.

Austin & Boyes, the new butchers at the old stand of the Newberg Meat Co., are ready to show you what satisfaction expert meat cutters can give. Their meats are the best. Both phones and free delivery to any part of town.

Talk about your bargains! I can tell you a thing or two. The best bargain I ever got in all my life was one of those fine, 17-jeweled Elgin watches in a dust-proof case for only $13 at Heacock's jewelry store. Think of it! You know where to find him—down by the postoffice in his new store.

Yes; and another bargain is one of those fine graphophones. What a nice Xmas present one would make; I think I'll order one right away. You ought to hear what good prices he makes on them. And besides, he will take back old records at half price. Look into the matter right away and save some money for your Xmas outfit.
