Local Events.

The frame of John Bristow's new business building looms proudly up above its compeers.

A daughter arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Christenson on Friday, December 16.

John Heaton of Scholls was in town Friday and with him was a friend, Mr. Bestow of Portland, who had been making him a visit.

W. R. Everest represented this section at the good roads meeting at Salem last week and came home enthusiastic on the subject of better highways.

J. C. Clemenson is again a grandfather by virtue of the birth on Saturday at Clarkston, Washington, of a son to Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Coons.

While driving down from Rex Monday Mrs. T. H. Gardner was thrown from her cart and sustained bruises more or less serious. A somewhat fractious animal was to blame for the accident.

The December number of the Arena, published at Boston, contains an article from Prof. R. W. Kelsey of Whittier, California, on an interesting phase of municipal politics as recently illustrated in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Chas. Smith of Victoria, B. C., who was on her way home from a visit to the St. Louis fair, arrived in Newberg over Sunday with the Misses Mary and Lavinia Williams. She came by this way to see Pacific College and contemplates sending a son here to school next year.

A basket ball game is advertised to come off in the college gymnasium to-morrow evening between the college boys and a town team made up largely of alumni. This is the first game this year, and will give an idea of what may be expected from the new college team in this year's league games.

W. B. Sims, who has experienced a good deal of trouble since the rainy season began by overflow in his greenhouse and flower gardens, has been putting in one hundred and twenty rods of tiling on one acre of ground, and will have no more such tribulation. He is making a fine run on carnations, wholesaling any quantity he can ship to Portland at eight cents apiece.

County Commissioners Booth and Waddell were down here the first of the week studying road conditions in this vicinity. The county court is contemplating a plan for putting gravel on the roads in this end of the county which policy will be hailed with enthusiastic approbation. The plan under consideration is to hire the gravel barged down the river from the island and delivered at the Newberg landing where district supervisors will be instructed to secure it for their roads. This begins to look like business. Score one for the county court.

A quiet wedding was celebrated Monday morning at 8 o'clock, at the bride's grandfather's, the home of Silas Comer, when Miss Maude Comer was united in marriage with Orland M. Heacock, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Heacock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Herbert Cash in the presence of the immediate relatives. The rooms were decorated in ferns and white chrysanthemums. The bride was gowned in a very pretty, brown taffeta silk. When the ceremony and congratulations were over the happy couple was called to see their many presents, immediately after which they departed for a few days trip, before settling in their home at Newberg. A number of friends were at the train to bid them Bon Voyage and extend congratulations and best wishes, plentifully sprinkled with rice. Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Heacock give a reception this evening in honor of the young people.
