The small boy and the fire-cracker next Tuesday.

A dealer in stocks and bonds was in town the first of the week but he found Newberg capital all busy furnishing labor for our people.

It is all very well to say a good word for Oregon but fill your friends up on Royal Anne cherries and show them the valley from the top of Chehalem mountain and they will do the talking for you.

The man with the scythe would be very much in place on many vacant spots about town where the weeds and grass have grown to good height. A spark of fire dropped in dry grass might make a very interesting blaze.

From the top of Chehalem mountain your visiting friends can get a good conception of the valley in ten minutes time, as the whole panorama is spread before them in a view that is enchanting. Don't let any body get away without making that trip.

Chas. Grissen, of McMinnville, recently published a neat booklet containing a poem, "The Birth of Oregon," a child of his own brain. It is well illustrated with pictures of Oregon scenery and reflects credit both on the author and the press of The Telephone Register.

The bulletin of the State Agricultural College is at hand by which it is seen that of the forty-nine graduates of this year, only seven took the agricultural course. Of the thirty-six who will be Seniors next year just one is credited with taking the farmer's course, the majority preferring the work in pharmacy, electrical engineering, mechanics and mining. Next year the state will put up thousands of dollars to graduate one farmer—and he is an Englishman! What's in a name?

Forest Grove lays claim to the largest fir tree in the world. The News says it is 41 feet in circumference, 13 1/2 feet in diameter and contains enough lumber to build seventeen good sized two story houses. Some attempt is being made to raise funds to have the tree cut and transported to the fair as an attraction. It is a shame to tell such a monarch of the forest and the Graphic would oppose such a movement if the tree stood near Newberg. Such a live hero pointing skyward for ages yet to come, will be worth more to Forest Grove than a fallen one laid low to be gazed upon for a few short weeks at the Lewis and Clark Fair. "Woodman spare that tree!"

It is but natural for parents to hope to make conditions such that their children may not be compelled to engage in hard labor, but on second thought it is easy to see that it is the young man or young woman who has nothing to do that is entitled to sympathy. Bob Burdette gave some wholesome advice when he said: Remember, my son, you have to work. Whether you handle a pick or pen, wheelbarrow or a set of books, digging ditches or editing a paper, ringing an auction bell or writing funny things, you must work. Don't be afraid of killing yourself by overwork on the shady side of thirty. Men die sometimes, but it's because they quit at 6 p. m. and don't get home until 2 a. m. It's the interval that kills, my son. The work gives you an appetite for your meals; it lends solidity to your slumber; it gives you a perfect, grateful appreciation of a holiday. There are young men who do not work, but the world is not proud of them. It does not know even their names; it only speaks of them as "Old So-and-So's boys." Nobody likes them; the great busy world does not know that they are here. So find out just what you want to be and do, and take off your coat and make dust in the world. The busier you are the less harm you will get into, the sweeter will be your sleep, the brighter and happier your holidays and the better satisfied the old world will be with you.

Cholera Infantum.

Ruth, the little daughter of E. N. Dewey of Agnewville, Virginia, was seriously ill of cholera infantum last summer. "We gave her up and did not expect her to live from one hour to another," he says. "I happened to think of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and got a bottle of it from the store. In five hours I saw a change for the better. We kept on giving it and before she had taken the half of one small bottle she was well." This remedy is sale by C. F. Moore & Co.

One Dollar Saved Represents Ten Dollars Earned.

The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case, he cannot be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested, like buying seeds for his garden, will save several dollars outlay later on. It is the same in buying Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It costs but a few cents, and a bottle of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars. For sale by C. F. Moore & Co.

Celebration Millinery Sale.

THE KIND OF PAINT TO BUY
Kinloch
Important Memorandum: The pure, raw linseed oil is the "life" of paint, and when you buy Kinloch Paint you buy the fresh linseed oil at the same time right out of the barrel. Mix together gallon for gallon—and you have the best paint that brains can make and money can buy. The cost per gallon is less than for inferior grades of "Ready-Mixed" Paint. "Kinloch" is ready to mix. Come and see us—we'll tell you all about "KINLOCH" and save you money—in first cost, and in the cost per year's wear.

ITS ALWAYS THE CASE

When a business man goes into an honest business and gives honest prices that it makes some one give a Bargain Sale or a special discount to live up their trade.

Don't pay any attention to this sort of things for YOU know that our prices have always been low—our services the best and our treatment first-class. We sell the best goods the market affords at a price no one meets. When people give Sales or Discount Sales, etc, you may know that some one is making a hot pace for them and to get the right price you go to the one who is causing them to give these sales.

We have the goods and guarantee the prices.
