If you are tempted to get hot under the collar better wait until cooler weather.

Green apples, the swimmin' hole and the small boy meet on common grounds these days.

Concerning the political shake-up which is taking place in Oregon—but then it's too hot to talk politics.

"Is this"—Yes, yes, this is hot enough for anyone, except the fellow who persists in asking such a question.

The automobile is something of an improvement over the old style fool killer as it usually gets the bullheaded fellow who is responsible for its actions.

Measured by the average lad these warm afternoons the distance across a ten acre lot to the creek is not half so great as the walk from the kitchen door to the wood pile in the back yard.

A contemporary publishes a long recipe for a government whitewash. But wherefore? There seems to be no call for the article since Teddy entered the White House.

The sentence imposed upon Senator Mitchell Tuesday by Judge De Haven was a fine of $1,000 and six months in the county jail. An appeal will be taken to the supreme court.

Some have expressed surprise at our having furnished each of our subscribers a copy of the souvenir edition free of charge. Well, if all will pay up arrearsages and a year's subscription in advance it will even things up about right.

There has been a great deal of space devoted to the "knocker" and much advice given as to his disposal. Here's a good suggestion offered by a Yamhill editor—put him to work with his little hammer pounding down nails in the sidewalks.

Don't forget the Yamhill exhibit at the fair. Take upon yourself some of the responsibility of keeping it up. Lend a helping hand and encourage your neighbor to do the same. In this way only will this county be creditably represented.

The Graphic has made a donation of one thousand copies of the souvenir edition to be given out from the county exhibit at the Lewis and Clark Fair, with the understanding with F. A. Morris, the superintendent, that they are not to be given out indiscriminately but held in reserve for such visitors from the East as may manifest special interest in the country. In this way we hope to reach people who will become interested in Newberg to such an extent that they will want to come and see for themselves. This donation amounts to $100 to us and we feel that it is all we can stand. It there are others who desire to add to the number to be given out in the same way a supply can be had at the regular rate of ten cents per copy by calling at this office.

"The Indian Girl Who Led Them," is the beautiful story, simply but impressively told by Amy Jane Maguire of Sacajawea and the wonderful part she played in the Lewis and Clark explorations. It appears in an attractive booklet of some ninety pages, as published by the J. K. Gill company of Portland and may be had for 25 cents. It is the most intimate and attractive story of the Bird-woman yet published and should be heartily welcomed, particularly here at home. Here is the author's closing tribute to the heroine: "Our cities and villages arise where once were her hills, prairies and valleys. For a century an eager, restless people have been transforming that lovely wild country; but at the end of the hundredth year they pause for a backward look. The ancient woods rise again and are thronged with creatures innumerable; buffalo rove the prairies; the original Indians roam and hunt and war again among the forests and mountains; and from out the dusky throng the Bird-woman of Lewis and Clark is chosen to be remembered permanently; for her fame will outlive the centennial celebration that awakened our interest in her. As long as the story of the Northwest lives it will tell of the true service of an Indian girl, and of the love of land and kindred, the loyalty, heroism and ambition that were a part of her wild nature."

It seems to us that it is about time something should be done, when ladies can't walk along our streets without being grossly insulted and the only excuse for such insult is the individual making them was under the influence of liquor. Now this kind of a scene was enacted on our streets last Sunday. It would be a good thing if the whipping post proposition was extended and take insulters of women as well as the wife beater. It is such things as were enacted on our streets last Sunday that cause many good citizen to blush with shame and wish that every saloon was out of the town. We understand that it was only by the interference of cooler heads that finally better judgment prevailed and murder was prevented. We will admit it is hard to be placed in the circumstances of the husband of the lady but are glad that his better judgement prevailed and he has not the stain of human blood on his hands.—Sheridan New Sitn.

It is just such conditions as indicated above that must characterize the saloon town. It makes no difference how good a class of people a town may have, if its people see fit to make a deal with the devil's work shop, the consequences must be accepted. It is the knowledge of this fact which is arousing more and more a sentiment of antagonism against the saloon among people who have been inclined to say, "Let me alone and I have no objections to offer." The brazen effrontery of the saloon is working its own downfall. It is piling up argument for local option. As Newberg is, so will Yamhill County be—and that before long too.
