Quick Relief.

Mr. J. J. Elfrink of South Dakota while visiting here recently was attacked by diarrhoea. On Monday while feeling quite weak from a five-day seige he called me. I soon gave him relief and told him the bowels must not be stopped at once, or the cure would be worse than the former malady. I left but returned that evening to find him much better. Gave him light treatment again. He said, "If I feel better in the morning we will start home, if not I'll come to the office for another treatment." They went to Portland. He said, "I would not have any other doctor in my family if I was where I could get an osteopath at all." His son and daughter are both osteopaths; the son being a member of the faculty of the American College of Osteopathic Medicine and Surgery of Chicago and the daughter practicing in Minnesota. Two or three years ago she pulled him through a very severe case of inflammatory rheumatism—the fever above 103 at first—after drugs had failed. Relief of the diarrhoea was almost immediate. H. D. Bowers, B. S., D. O.
