Peaches are a scarce article this season and about the best thrifty housewives can do is to put up silver prunes and drop in an occasional peach pit as a make believe. And since silver prunes are about as toothsome as peaches anyway it makes little difference.

Station Agent James says Newbergers are the greatest people to travel he has ever seen and he estimates that two thirds of the travel from here is made up of women. Our men are noted for being good housekeepers and most of them are proficient in the nursery. Why shouldn't the women travel?

Mrs. M. J. Dudley and family left here for Coquille Monday evening, expecting to take the steamer at Portland. The daughters, Misses Grace and Anna will teach in the Coquille schools the coming year and Mrs. Dudley goes to keep house for them. Sorry to see them go so far away as they are most estimable people, but glad to know that they intend to return in the spring. Harry Maxfield will "keep house" for them here in their absence and attend college.

A couple of ladies with sympathetic hearts, who reside in the south part of town, found a faithful family hen a few days ago that was crop bound and near death's door. With the scissors for a surgical instrument an incision was made in the crop, the hay and stubble removed, a few stitches taken and Mrs. hen was as good as new and ready to cluck about the kitchen door. In the lore of the M. D.'s the operation was successful. Charges reasonable.

E. L. Peckham and wife, of Oklahoma, visited in town Sunday at Nathan White's. Mr. Peckham's first wife, who died several years ago, was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. White. Some twenty years ago they resided in Oregon but they went from here to Kansas and later to Oklahoma where he has been engaged in building railroads. In this he has been very successful and judging from newspaper reports it appears that he has plenty laid away for the traditional rainy day. His trip to Oregon at this time is in the interest of a new road he is building and it is likely that the Newberg mill will furnish him a big lot of heavy timbers for bridge building.

Prof. F. K. Jones and family arrived home from Yale University Saturday evening after an absence of more than a year. After visiting in Kansas for several weeks they came on by way of San Francisco where they stopped off to view the stricken city. Prof. Jones will take up his work in Pacific College again at the opening September 25, with better preparation and with renewed zeal, after having taken his degree at Yale.

A Newberger painted the roof of his residence with a preparation, the aroma of which would kill a Tomcat a block away and then hid himself off to Newport, leaving the neighbors to hold the fort and their noses. This concoction is said to be a preservative of wood but the makers of it could easily get testimonials certifying that it would preserve a corpse. Anyway the cockroaches, San Jose scale and typhoid germs are all moving across the other side of the creek.

J. H. Benedict and wife, of Holland, Michigan, have been in town during the week visiting with the former's cousin, J. C. McCrea. They grew up together as boys and often tested their respective strength at wrestling, and since they now girth about the same they have been talking of having a final tryout at the old game but cooler weather is awaited. A married daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benedict, who resides in Tacoma, is also here with them.

Fred Hurford, of Newberg, who was arrested last Friday on the charge of breaking down the toll gate on the Wilson river road in this county, had his preliminary hearing before Justice Bagley Wednesday. The defense offered no evidence, but stood on the illegality of the lease of the road. The state's evidence showed that Mr. Hurford offered to pay all that was demanded for toll, but insisted on having a receipt, which was refused. The court took the matter under advisement. Attorney M. B. Bump appeared for the defendant and Attorney T. H. Tongue for the plaintiff. — Hillsboro Independent.

A few lonesome teams are hauling gravel from the river out on the public roads. Good as far as it goes but more teams would make it much more interesting and the graveled stretches would lengthen out much more rapidly. This is merely a suggestion.

The Dundee W. C. T. U. held a silver medal contest Tuesday evening when five young ladies contested for the prize. Miss Susie Austin was the winner with Miss Anna Thun a very close second. Splendid music was furnished and a good audience was in attendance.

Our local tanners have been compelled to turn away orders for hop and fruit dryer pipe on account of being unable to buy the necessary sheet iron in Portland. The city dealers under estimated the amount needed for the season's business and the supply is already exhausted.

Wagons are already being packed with camp equipage, including dogs and other family pets and the annual exodus from town to the hop yards has begun. Prunes and hops are ripening early this year, both coming on together and the demand for help will make it possible for every man, woman and child to get work. Within a week or ten days quiet will reign throughout most of the towns in the valley.

The Newberg barber shops have been making a house cleaning of late. Since Young leased his shop to McConnell, Hofer has put a man in his shop while he takes a vacation and Halterman has sold out to a newcomer, who has since closed the shop by making a combination with the young man who has been working for Bert Terry, and the two have leased Terry's shop, the latter having concluded to take a rest.

Without the formality of an advance agent to announce his coming with flaming posters, Jesse Edwards' two year old gave a circus exhibition before a small crowd on First street Tuesday evening that was highly entertaining while it lasted. The colt, which was hitched to a sulky, shied at a passing team opposite Parker's store and he lost no time in showing what he could do in the high jump act with various side stunts added for good count. Mr. Edwards staid with the ribbons and came up smiling each time while the flapping of his duster raised a cloud of dust of cyclonic proportions. No fatalities.
