The bargain sales are now on and it is "no trouble to show goods." Better read what our advertisers have to say.

The Oregonian and the Statesman each issued holiday editions that were filled with valuable information for the homeseeker.

An Indiana woman offers $5 for a husband. She will probably get one, but husbands picked up from the bargain counter are dear at any price. Better "meekly wait and murmur not" than to take shelt worn goods.

Frank C. Baker, ex-State Printer, died at his home in Portland Wednesday at the age of 53. He made a fortune out of the office the two terms he held it, and leaves a widow and little daughter with property valued at $200,000.

The gathering of the Minnesotans on New Years day chilled the atmosphere sufficiently to cause the falling of a few flakes of snow, but on the following morning the Oregon weather man got his "first wind" and the patter, patter of the rain up on the roof restored confidence, for we were back again to good old winter time in Oregon. Don't do it again.

The Portland Advocate says: "If some of the preachers would eschew meddling into the affairs of operating slot machines, rooming-houses, saloons and other things that do not directly belong to their profession, and attend to things that belong to their line, such as visiting the sick, helping the poor and afflicted, lifting up the fallen, care for the dying, preach and teach the brotherhood of man, they might be some good to a community." The preachers complained of will no doubt gladly enter into an agreement to "eschew," as suggested by the Advocate, the day on which the slot machines, rooming houses, saloons and "other things" shall cease to turn out the sick, the poor, the afflicted, the fallen and the dying. In the matter of teaching and preaching "the brotherhood of man" we question the orthodoxy of the Advocate.

In the past few years the State Press Association has at different times insisted that the tax payers would be benefitted by the passage of a law requiring many more legal notices published in the papers, and immediately there has been somebody ready to shout "graft!" Well, let us see. The school law requires that notices calling for a meeting of the tax payers of a school district shall be posted on three "gate posts," or something to that effect. Our school board followed the law and what was the result? When the meeting was held on Friday afternoon there were just seven residents of the district present and yet the enrollment in the school is 583, taxable property has a valuation of $718,532.50, and an eight and a half mill tax was voted, which will take more than $6000 out of the pockets of the people this year. The Graphic is not calling in question the wisdom of the few who attended the meeting and voted the tax, but we do insist that fifty cents or a dollar spent in advertising a $6000 proposition in a newspaper would not be a very big "graft." In small outlying districts the publication of such notices may not be necessary, but in the larger districts in the townspeople depend on the local papers for such information and a little two by six notice is passed unnoticed. It is safe to say that two dozen people did not know that a school meeting was being held last Friday in Newberg. "Graft!"

Minnesota Reunion.

A family reunion is always one of the green spots along life's pathway from childhood to old age; and the larger the gathering of the flock the greater is the interest taken in it. This was the view taken by the Minnesota colony located in and about Newberg, when they conceived the idea of calling for a gathering of their forces on the opening day of the new year, at Crater's hall, for a big feed and an all round good time.

The published call met with a hearty response and on Tuesday morning they came in from all directions, carrying baskets of eatables, any one of which would feed a thrashing crew of hungry men. When the crowd had gathered permanent organization was effected and the following officers elected for the ensuing year: E. R. Horton, president; Geo. Graves, secretary; Mrs. N. J. Sykes, treasurer.

The first thing of interest was the photographing of the large company. The early morning fall of "the beautiful" lent a touch of gayety to the hearts of those present; and it was needless for the "man behind the camera" to caution them with the time worn expression for each face, indeed, looked pleasant.

Dinner was served from 12:30 until 2:30 and fully one hundred and fifty loyal Minnesotans partook of the good things with which the tables were loaded. And evidently the cooks were inspired by the season's first snow, as the eatables seemed to have the real Minnesota flavor.

The register shows that nearly every county in the state was represented, from the north to the south and from the east to the west.

Interesting remarks by H. A. Grafe, Rev. Jos. Hall, C. E. Newhouse, A. T. Behnke, E. R. Horton and others, interspersed with music, both vocal and instrumental, made a very pleasant program. The numbers worthy of special mention were a vocal solo entitled "The Homeland" by Miss Eleanor Satchwell which was exceedingly well rendered, a charming recitation by Almeda Conrad and a "Danish Song" by Olive and Garfield Johnson called for much applause.

Many warm words of praise were spoken of Minnesota "The Star of the North" but bidding farewell to their native state, they had come to Oregon seeking for health and long life, and as the president expressed it "He realized the dream of his life when he came to Oregon." So the party dispersed voting to hold the pleasant gatherings annually.
