Local Events.
H. R. Cobb, who has been confined to his home for the past two weeks, is slowly improving.

M. W. Gumm made a sale of his apple orchard at Rosedale when he was up there last week.

David Boyes, brother of Wesley Boyes of our town, was down from McMinnville Tuesday.

J. L. Hoskins and wife and Mrs. F. K. Jones and daughter Bernice went to McMinnville Tuesday.

D. G. Comstock, a resident of Dundee, who had been in poor health for several months, died the first of the week, well advanced in years.

M. Motschenbacher was married the first of the week to a lady who came out from the East recently, name not learned at this office.

The subject for next Sunday evening at the Friends church will be "Why I am a Christian," and will be handled by two Pacific College men.

The annual meeting of the stock holders of the Bank of Newberg and also of the First National Bank was held Tuesday, the election of officers in both instances resulting in the election of the same board of directors.

Mr. and Mrs. John Knight, who sold their property at Rosedale recently with the intention of returning to their former home in Iowa, visited in town the first of the week with W. E. Crozer and family.

A basketball game is billed for Friday night in the gym when the P. C. team will play the crack Monmouth team. A close game is expected and all lovers of the sport will want to see it. Game called at 8.15.

A gentleman named Willis, who located in the Springbrook neighborhood in the fall and who has been teaching in Wasco county, has been elected to fill the vacancy in the public school caused by the resignation of Miss Gould.

The Free Methodists will finish the seating of their church this week. On next Sunday night revival services will begin, to continue indefinitely. All are invited to attend. Meetings to begin at 7:30 on week nights; 7 on Sunday.

Date Hutchens reports that he assisted John Rader butcher a hog a few days ago that dressed 425 pounds. Just what we will be able to report next week in the weight of porkers we don't dare suggest, but it is evident that hogs are "going some" in this neck of the woods.

Progressive merchants are learning that it pays to make special sales at least once a year to clean out odds and ends and make room for new goods. That is what our home merchants are doing and it will pay the readers of the Graphic to look our advertising columns over and see what they have to offer. There is no occasion for running off to Portland for the "January Sales" when we have them right here at home.

The second number in the lecture course is billed for Friday night of next week when the Leonora Jackson company will appear before a Newberg audience for the first time. This is the highest priced number furnished by the Great Western Lyceum Bureau and is made up of Leonora Jackson, violinist; Florence Marion Pace, soprano; Chas. E. Clarke, baritone; Ralph E. Plumer, pianist. Reserved seats will be placed on sale at both drugstores at eight o'clock on Monday morning, January fourteenth.

Emory Hodson has been down from Seattle during the week.

Rev. M. C. Wire, who is now located at Eugene, was here the first of the week on business.

The local teacher's association will meet at the public school building in Newberg, Saturday, at 10:30 in the morning.

Miss Jennie D. Miller came up from Portland the first of the week and is having her residence put in order for occupancy.

W. S. and W. E. Mills have a job of brick laying on the inside walls of the big Wells Fargo building in Portland.

The sudden rise in the river last week caught a manure spreader on the dock, that Jo Ego had shipped up from Portland, and when the river was at the highest the water was probably ten or fifteen feet deep over it.

Rev. J. M. Cole left for his home in Salem Monday morning after closing a meeting at the Seventh Day Adventist church which held two weeks. On Saturday afternoon five persons were baptized.

The Drs. Bowers will attend the annual meeting of the Oregon Osteopathic Association in Portland next Saturday when they will have opportunity to see Ellis Whitman, the "human rattlebox" as told about in last Sunday's Oregonian.

Owing to the rapid rise of the river last week the Spaulding Logging Company lost 150,000 feet of logs at Salem. Most of them will be picked up along the river however, but at a cost of one dollar a thousand to the company when caught by other people. This is the unwritten law of the river.

The heavy rains of last week put new life into proxy old Chehalis creek and the torrent of water rushing onward toward the "beautiful Willamette," made a short cut around the dam at Graf's mill on the north side, washing out some of the supports for the wagon bridge, rendering it unsafe for travel. The necessary repairs were made however before any great inconvenience was rendered the traveling public.

The fellow who comes along with a tree show and "attractions" generally gets a good sized crowd with a large crop of "suckers" among the lot. The smooth tongued knight of the brush who came to teach the young men and maidens of Newberg how to "paint" photographs, made his adieu to the public after having fleeced more than a hundred of teachable age at two dollars per. A second crop will be ready for the harvest when the next guy strikes town.

S. A. Mills and Charley Skelton, mail carriers on rural routes numbers two and three, respectively, have tendered their resignations to the department and are hoping for an early release from further service. S. A. wants to begin preparations for going to Idaho early in the spring to go on his claim and Charley will probably make investigation in the same locality. A. C. Martin, who ranks with the oldest carriers in Oregon in point of continued service, still remains with the job on route one, though he talks at times of taking up other work.

Much interest was manifested here last Saturday and Sunday when from the dispatches it appeared that the "City of Panama" had probably been wrecked while on the way from San Francisco to Panama. Thomas Prince, of Dundee as well as several prominent Portland people were among the passengers and fear was felt lest all had perished. Some of the steamer's life rafts washed ashore below San Francisco and from this fact came the fear for the fate of the vessel and its human freight. Sunday evening's dispatches announced the safe arrival of the steamer at Mazatlan, Mexico, after having experienced a rough trip.

Mrs. Lizzie White, who was reported on the sick list last week is improving, but she is not yet able to return to her home.

Peter Jenson, who has the Sears farm west of town rented, made a trip to Olympia, Washington, last week where he visited with relatives.

The Graphic printed a new directory for the Newberg Telephone Company last week, containing a list of two hundred and sixty two subscribers.

Taylor & Elliott shipped a carload of tile to the Broadmead farm near Amity this week and two or three cars are being loaded for other points.

J. T. Crews, who recently removed to Rock Creek, Gilliam county, writes that life is a burden without the Graphic to read and orders it sent to his new address.

Miss Lelia Littlefield now leads all the contestants in the Evening Telegram—Jamestown contest, although she entered the contest at a late date. She will be glad to receive anyone who desires to subscribe for the Telegram.

Just Like a Novel.

Mrs. R. W. Kirk was agreeably surprised a few days ago on receiving a letter from a long lost brother who is in business at Grand Junction, Colorado. Their father died when they were young children and this brother was adopted by a wealthy uncle who resided in Chicago, with the understanding that the mother, now Mrs. Harford, was to have the privilege of visiting the boy. The foster parents having no children of their own, became attached to the boy and managed to keep him away from his mother. He was given the best education possible, being sent abroad to get the finishing touches, but during all these years he was made to believe that the people who were doing so much for him were his own parents.

While he was yet a small boy Mrs. Harford met him in a park and told him she was his mother, but when he returned home he was told that the woman he had met was an impostor and they had him to so write her.

While on one of her lecturing tours some months ago Mrs. Harford visited a sister-in-law, now eighty years of age, who gave her information that enabled her to locate the long lost son, and while on her way to Kansas recently she stopped off at Grand Junction and visited him. Of late years some things had occurred, so he stated, that had caused him to suspicion that he had been deceived regarding his parentage, and Mrs. Harford was able to present him with evidence that convinced him that she was his mother. Hence the letter received by Mrs. Kirk and addressed to "My dear sister."

Of course Mrs. Kirk is the happiest woman in town and she is looking forward with great expectancy to the springtime when this brother will visit her, as he has indicated he will do, after a separation of twenty-eight years. Alden Chamberlin, the younger brother, who resides in Portland, was born six months after the death of their father.

Fellowship Gathering.

There will be a fellowship gathering at the Friends church next Tuesday evening the 15th inst., beginning at seven o'clock. This meeting is designed for all the membership and attenders of the church.

A light lunch will be served at eight o'clock and this will be followed by toasts or papers as follows: "What We Have Come Through by the Grace of God," Amanda M. Woodward; "The Old Time Faith and Grit," Evangeline Martin; "Watchman, what of the now?" Herbert T. Cash; "What Next?" Edwin McGrew; toast master, Jesse Edwards.

It is hoped the members and attenders of the church may all be present.
