THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1907.

For people who dislike freckles and tans our winter weather has been ideal.

Cheer up! The days of the legislative session are more than half numbered.

The "Thaw case" has become wearisome to the flesh. Hasten the day when it will disappear from the first page in the newspapers.

No, the groundhog didn't see his shadow. Neither did anybody see the groundhog. He was smart enough to remain in a warm, dry bed.

In the discussion of the Paul Rader affair it is enough to make one weep to note how solicitous the Oregonian is, lest the good name of the Anti-Saloon League be trailed in the dust.

Some of the representatives of Dayton's proposed insurance company were reported to be in town one day last week, but they shied clear of this office. Probably they look on the Graphic as a hazardous risk.

We may well "view with alarm" the rapidly increasing number of cases of insanity brought to light by the attorneys for the defense in murder trials, and begin to enlarge our asylums. This has proven of late to be the shortest cut to avoid the gallows.

The two words, represent and misrepresent, are pondered over a good deal more by the voters along in the winter season when the Oregon legislature is in session, than they are in the spring when candidates are being selected, and this is where they get left.

The report comes from Salem that the members of the legislature are getting tired. Well, with the side stepping that is in evidence among the members when some measures have been up for consideration, the people are getting that same feeling.

An Indiana woman is asking for a divorce from her eighth husband and she will get it. Any woman who can catch eight husbands and dispose of seven of them will be a match for the courts in her attempt to dispose of the eighth and last encumbrance.

Governor Hughes, of New York, by the independent attitude he is assuming since he took the oath of office, is putting himself in the class of presidential possibilities. There are a large class of republicans who feel that it will be wise to cut out the old wheel horses in the party and pass the nomination up to a man of his type.

When visiting basketball teams defeat the Pacific College team on the home floor the facts are given to the Portland papers, but when the boys visit other points and win, the same courtesy is not extended to them. At least no account of the games won by them at Monmouth and Salem on last Friday and Saturday nights was given in the Portland papers. It could hardly be put down as an oversight in both instances.

A subscriber, who dropped in to renew his subscription one day last week, made the request that the Graphic should say to the farmers' wives that they ought to improve the quality of the butter they take to market. When we suggested to him that as he was already baldheaded it would be much safer for him to make the request over his own signature, he backed out at the door and beat a hasty retreat down the street. Any man who will come in and ask us to take such hazardous risks when he will take to his heels at the mere mention of fireworks, well—

Judge Frazier, of Portland, says in a letter that he thinks the theatres should be closed against boys and girls on Sunday, but he doubts the propriety of closing them against men, lest they be driven to the saloons and other low resorts. We would suggest that keeping saloons open on Sunday is a clear violation of the law, and if the officials whose sworn duty it is to see that the laws are enforced would do their duty, there would be no saloons open to run to on Sunday.

Tell a newcomer that the rainy weather during the winter season here in the valley is the most healthful season of the year, and he will look at you with a "you are a very cheerful liar" expression, but let him remain here one winter and he will then begin telling the next new man in the country the same story, and be telling the truth too. The doctors' harvest time begins with the coming of snow and ice and the longer it remains the richer the harvest for—the undertaker.

Hon. W. K. Newell has introduced a bill in the Oregon Legislature to prohibit the selling of pools on the state fair grounds. This is a law which has long been needed. The selling of pools on the fair grounds at the Oregon state fairs has long been a public disgrace. Pool-selling is one of the most demoralizing forms of gambling. The man who will not go to the state fair unless pool selling is permitted is a man whose absence will promote the welfare of the fair.—Oregon Agriculturist.

The bill ought to have passed but it failed by two votes when it came up in the House and we are sorry to note that the two representatives from Yamhill cast their votes against it. We don't believe for a moment that they voiced the sentiments of a majority of their constituents and if they have any good reason to offer for casting their votes with the gambling fraternity we will be glad to give it to the public.

It looks, at this stage of the game, like the democratic presidential nomination would go to Bryan without any pow-wow about it, but with the republicans it is different. Several lightning rods are up already and the breeze has hardly commenced to blow. The nomination would go to Roosevelt without doubt, should he consent to make the race, but since he sticks to his public declaration that he will not be a candidate, some other man of his type will no doubt be sought for. It will take a clean man of hard headed convictions, and one who can get close to a large class of voters who care little for party ties, to beat a united democracy with Bryan as the standard bearer and the republican party cannot afford to make a mistake. Many slates will be badly shattered in the next twelve months, but in the sifting the party can be trusted to find the man for the hour.

Scraps.

San Francisco's "Barbary Coast," like its Chinatown, is being re-erected on the old site, thus fulfilling the predictions of those who said that the good resolutions made after the fire by the San Franciscans would not last long.

Five women were chosen as county treasurers in Idaho at the recent election and seventeen women as county superintendents of schools.

Honeybees are generally credited with instinctive skill in making the cells of the comb hexagonal in shape, but it is probable that this construction is merely the ordinary result of mechanical laws. Solitary bees always make circular cells, and the bees in a hive no doubt make them circular also, but mechanical pressure forces them into a hexagonal form. A well-known naturalist, in speaking of the matter, says that all cylinders made of soft, pliable substances become hexagonal under such circumstances.

Some remarkable mistakes in memorials have totally escaped notice until it was too late to rectify them. The spurs on the boots of Cromwell's statue at Westminster abbey, London, are the most interesting feature of the monument, although they generally get no attention at all from sight-seers. They are worn upside down. In a painted window on the staircase which leads from the floor of Westminster palace to the committee rooms an inscription on a sword wielded by the "Black Prince" has the words "Prince of Wales." Again, in the fresco depicting the embarkation of the pilgrim fathers in the corridor leading from the outer lobby at St. Stephen's to the House of Lords the Mayflower is shown to be hoisting the union jack—a flag which did not come into existence until over 250 years after the days of the Mayflower.

"Aren't men the limit?" said young Mrs. Wheel. "When I told my brother this morning that baby had just cut a tooth, he asked me savagely why I had allowed it to play with knives." "And my bachelor uncle," said Mrs. Whoo, "when he heard that my baby had begun teething, wanted to know if it would begin hairing soon."

"The trouble," said the dentist as he probed away at the aching molar with a long, slender instrument, "is evidently due to a dying nerve." "Well," groaned the victim, "it's open to you to treat the dying with a little more respect."

The Engineer Cried.

"Yes indeed, we have some queer little incidents happen to us," said the fat engineer. "A queer thing happened to me about a year ago. You'd think it queer for a rough man like me to cry for ten minutes, and nobody hurt either, wouldn't you? Well, I did, and I almost cry every time I think of it."

"I was running along one afternoon pretty lively, when I approached a little village where the tracks cut to the street. I slacked up a little, but was still making good speed, when suddenly about twenty rods ahead of me a little girl, no more than three years old, tottled onto the track. You can't even imagine my feelings. There was no way to save her. It was impossible to stop, or even slack much, at that distance, as the train was heavy and the grade descending. In ten seconds it would have been all over, and after reversing and applying the brake, I shut my eyes. I didn't want to see any more."

"As we slowed down my fireman stuck his head out of the cab window to see what I stopped for, when he laughed and shouted to me, 'Jim, look here!' I looked, and there was a big, black Newfoundland dog holding the little girl in his mouth, leisurely walking toward the house where she evidently belonged. She was kicking and crying, so that I knew she wasn't hurt, and the dog had saved her. My fireman thought it funny and kept laughing, but I cried like a woman. I just couldn't help it. I had a little girl of my own at home."—The Young Catholic Messenger.

Nature missed a chance to make everybody happy when she failed to send summer during the winter, and winter during the summer.

Neighbors Got Fooled.

"I was literally coughing myself to death, and had become too weak to leave my bed; and neighbors predicted that I would never leave it alive; but they got fooled, for thanks be to God, I was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery. It took just four one dollar bottles to completely cure the cough and restore me to good sound health," writes Mrs. Eva Uncapher, of Grovertown, Stark county, Indiana. This king of cough and cold cures, and healer of throat and lungs, is guaranteed by F. H. Caldwell & Co., druggist. 50c and $1. Trial bottle free.

Everyone's happiness depends upon the happiness of some one else.

Rising From the Grave.

A prominent manufacturer, Wm. A. Fretwell, of Lucama, North Carolina, relates a most remarkable experience. He says: "After taking less than three bottles of Electric Bitters, I feel like one rising from the grave. My trouble is Bright's disease, in the Diabetes stage. I fully believe Electric Bitters will cure me permanently, for it has already stopped the liver and bladder complications which have troubled me for years." Guaranteed at F. H. Caldwell & Co's., druggist. Price only 50c.

A soft snap is what you had when you did not know it.

Hunting for Trouble.

"I've lived in California twenty years, and am still hunting for trouble in the way of burns, sores, wounds, boils, cuts, sprains, or a case of piles that Bucklen's Arnica Salve won't quickly cure," writes Charles Walters, of Alleghany, Sierra county. No use hunting, Mr. Walters; it cures every case. Guaranteed at F. H. Caldwell & Co's. drug store. 25c.

No girl who can't support a husband feels able to marry.

Croup.

Begins with the symptoms of a common cold; there is chilliness, sneezing, sore throat, hot skin, quick pulse, hoarseness and impeded respiration. Give frequent small doses of Ballard's Horehound Syrup. (the child will cry for it) and at the first sign of a croupy cough apply frequently Ballard's Snow Liniment to the throat.

Mrs. A. Flit New Castle, Colorado, writes, March 19, 1902: "I think Ballard's Horehound Syrup a wonderful remedy, and so pleasant to take." Sold by C. F. Moore.

Merit may speak for itself, but it gets more listencrs when money talks for it.

A Habit to be Encouraged.

The mother who has acquired the habit of keeping on hand a bottle of Chamberlin's Cough Remedy saves herself a great deal of uneasiness and anxiety. Coughs, colds and croup, to which children are susceptible are quickly cured by its use. It counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia, and if given as soon as the first symptoms of croup appear, it will prevent the attack. This remedy contains nothing injurious and mothers give it to little ones with a feeling of perfect security. Sold by C. F. Moore.
