

The Beginning of the End of the College Year.

Though the services of Commencement week proper have not yet begun, there has been much evidence at the college within the past week or so that the college days of 1907 are about numbered. To begin with, not many mornings since, the Senior class sprung a little surprise by marching in to chapel appalled in caps and gowns, meeting a hearty reception by the student body.

A delightful innovation in College life was introduced by the Seniors Monday morning. When the chapel hour arrived they took the accustomed seats of the faculty on the platform, and took into their own hands the regular chapel exercises. The devotional exercises were conducted by Perry Macy and Nellie Paulsen, president and secretary of the class respectively. Very excellent chapel talks were listened to from Clarence Brown and Ralph Rees. The speeches gave full and free expression to college loyalty, reviewing briefly the victories of the past and speaking hopefully for successes of the future. They were likewise flavored with the "sweet sorrow of parting," in anticipation of the farewell which they are so soon to take of college halls. Both speakers were most heartily applauded. Special music for the morning was furnished by the Senior male quartet, composed of Huber Hawthorth, Perry Macy, Paul Maris and Cecil Hoskins. It is needless to say the boys had to respond to an encore.

The last recitations of the year were held Wednesday morning and Pres. Jones called the students together a half hour before the noon dismissal for an informal farewell service, when the spirit of fun and good fellowship reigned. Members of the faculty made impromptu remarks, followed by speeches on the part of representatives of the college classes. Story telling was the principal order of business, the exercises being appropriately closed with the singing of the college song.

On last Friday night the annual reception to the Seniors was given by the Christian associations. The feature of the evening was an indoor field meet in the Association rooms, the guests being divided into four groups representing O. A. C., Willamette, Pacific University and Pacific College. The most interesting of the events was the standing broad grin, participated in by sixteen contestants. Clem Niswonger won at 35.8 inches. He didn't try for an inter-collegiate record, but he confided later the information that he could whisper into his own ears. After the field meet, won by O. A. C., music was enjoyed in the hall below during which time light refreshments were served.

Sabbath Observance.

This is one of the important subjects that is claiming the attention of the best men and women of our land. They plead for a Sunday rest law, requiring all public work to be stopped, when the weary laborer can have one day in seven to rest and enjoy the society of his family. While others say "This is too fast an age to stop the trains, street cars, mails, etc.; business must be carried on." If the Sabbath is trampled under foot one of the results will be a gala day for the rich and servitude for the poor. But as this nation is composed of individuals and families, it is to these that we would more particularly speak. When God finished His creation and set apart one day in seven as a day of rest, He did it for the good of the race, whom He had created, not only man but beast. And as the centuries rolled by He thundered from the top of Mt. Sinai: "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work." But we of this age seem to have concluded that we know more in this respect than the Almighty, and it takes seven days to do our work. When Christ was on this earth, He took away the hard way of keeping the Sabbath and said the Sabbath was made for man. Therefore do good on the Sabbath day. If we spend the Sabbath so that our spiritual and moral natures are not benefitted, nor our bodies rested and fail to help those about us to be happier, we have not kept it as Christ would have us. Some people prefer to pitch horse shoes or play ball instead of obeying God and doing good, as Christ commanded. Parents should teach their children by example and precept that it is important how we spend the Sabbath. Children cannot be expected to sit and be quiet all day. They should have books on the Sabbath, that they do not use on other days, and quiet plays. Set your tables with the best dishes, and have special victuals for your dinners (prepared the day before,) so your children can look back in after years and say what happy Sabbaths we had under the parental roof. And your work will go on from generation to generation. We should all remember that.

"A Sabbath well spent
Brings a week of content,
And strength for the toils of the morrow
But a Sabbath profaned
Whatever is gained
Is a certain forerunner of sorrow."

The Town Beautiful.

The beginning of summer is a season when the women of every village and town in the country may well organize work for the preservation and creation of beauty. Streets, commons, schoolyards, cemeteries, all need constant care and in many towns there are no officials who are entrusted with this duty. In fact, the men who work on the roads too often destroy beauty when they should protect it. Enlightened park commissioners now encourage the growth of bushes and small trees beside the highway at great expense; but in the country regions these very bushes are cut away, with a misdirected zeal for making things tidy.

Ten women banded together into an association for beautifying and cleaning the town can accomplish wonders. There is a certain village where such a committee has wrought something like a miracle. They have put the sidewalks in condition by picking off the stones, cutting side drains, and keeping the turf at the edge neatly clipped. Waste-barrels have been set in different parts of the village; they are emptied twice a week, and relieve the streets of the hateful, wind-blown papers. The bill-board nuisance has been abated. The women have painted, in a pleasant green, an old covered bridge which had been disfigured with advertisements for twenty years. They have also set up a well-drained iron watering-trough, in place of an unsanitary wooden one. Finally each of the ten women has cultivated an attractive flower-garden in front of her own house, and taken down the fence separating it from the street. Thus at one stroke they have forced the citizens to keep cows and hens off the streets, and built us a healthy emulation in lawns and gardens, until in June the whole village literally blossoms like the rose.

Whimsical Advice.

To reduce your flesh increase your troubles.

To develop your bust get on the wrong side of the market.

To remove freckles pry them gently out with a nut-pick. Should this fail try blasting.

Brilliance may be imparted to the complexion by powdering with diamond dust.

Hair on the lips may sometimes be avoided by requiring the young man to shave before calling.

For developing the grace and beauty of the fingers nothing is equal to piano exercise, provided police protection is available.

When "crows feet" will not yield to massage, fill them suddenly with cement and smooth quickly with a trowel.

Falling hair may be avoided by stepping nimbly to one side whenever you see one coming your way.

The "drooping lash," so much affected by some, may be encouraged by sitting up late o' nights. —Thomas Speed Mosby in The Bohemian.

For Instance

You couldn't tell by looking at it whether a watch is cheap or not at $12. Very glittering promises may have been made to you about that watch in a mail order ad. You were told it was this and that and the other thing.

But really no one but an experienced jeweler could tell whether it is good value or not at the price.

He could probably tell in a minute or so, but you must use it and wait developments to find out.

If you will come here you can purchase as good a watch at whatever price you wish to pay as was ever turned out of a factory.
