Miss Lulu King came up from Portland Saturday for a fortnight's visit with her brother W. A. King of the King & Bennett Hardware Company.

Mrs. E. H. Wilson arrived Saturday from Miller, South Dakota, and will make a visit of several weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Kentner.

M. P. Elliott arrived home last week from Caldwell, Idaho, where he has been for some time, he having obtained a year's leave of absence from his homestead.

Prof. H. D. Crumly went down to Portland Monday to arrange for a market for several tons of grass seed which are soon to be harvested on his Colorado ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Taylor are spending the week up at Seattle, attending the big Christian Endeavor convention and visiting his brother O. W. Taylor and family.

Miss Eva Smith went to Corvallis Monday where she will take a short summer course in the Agricultural College, after which she expects to go on to the beach with friends for a vacation trip.

While at work at the Newberg Sash & Door Factory Wednesday, Glen Jay, son of Allen Jay was cut above the knee with a knife, the accident being serious enough to lay him off from work for some time.

Richard Williams was greatly exercised last week over the loss of his favorite sorrel mare which strayed from the home premises in town. After wide search and inquiry he learned that she had been caught in the vicinity of Portland and he went down to the city Friday evening to claim his own.

A. B. Cornell, of Grants Pass, who was in town last week, informed his friends that he has launched forth in the life insurance business. We'll wager its a case of "pretty work" and "Goodbye Mary" when Al gets in action and starts a fellow down the line with that famous laugh of his.

T. Messenger, who came here recently from Portland and who has rented the Bert King property east of the public school grounds, was living at Santa Clara, California, at the time of the earthquake and consequently can tell some very interesting occurrences in connection with the shakeup. He has followed the barber's trade the most of his life but thinks he will retire from the business.

C. W. Vance, of Kellogg, Idaho, a teacher of experience, who hopes to get out of the harness after another year as superintendent of schools in Kellogg, subscribed for the Graphic some time ago, and has been so well pleased with what he has read of Newberg that he came here last week and has been looking the ground over. We shall expect to see him locate here as he speaks well of what he has seen.

The first union service of the churches of Newberg which was held in the Edwards grove Sunday evening was certainly all and more than had been hoped for the innovation by the ministers who were responsible for it. An audience much larger than the combined summer Sunday evening audiences of the churches represented was present and the attention was perfect as Rev. Herbert Cash, of the Friends church preached an excellent, impressive sermon upon the theme, "Christ in the Midst." The change for the summer months is a good one. The outdoor union service reaches more people outside the church and brings those inside into closer relationship with each other.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Charles, of Dayton, on Monday, a daughter.

The six year old son of H. A. Hyde, who lives on River street, fell and suffered a broken arm while playing Wednesday morning.

Frank Baum of Portland who presided over the destinies of the Graphic in its infancy some eighteen years ago was in town on business the middle of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Hodson and daughter, Miss Edna, of McMinnville visited here Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hoskins.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Allen, Mrs. J. M. Rittenhouse and Mrs. I. A. Horton were in Portland the fore part of the week attending meetings of the church of the Millennial Dawn, which were addressed by the head of the organization in America, Albert Russell of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Mary J. Jessup and daughter, Mrs. Albert Hiatt, arrived out at Rex on the evening of the Fourth for a visit of some weeks with Mrs. Jessup's daughter, Mrs. N. L. Wiley, and family. Mrs. Hiatt is spending this week at Oswego with her niece, Miss Ruth Wiley, the latter being engaged there with the family of Attorney A. King Wilson.

Miss Myrtle Gause left Tuesday morning for Seattle where she is representing the Christian Endeavor society of the Friends church at the National C. E. convention. She met Miss Verda Crozer, of Rosedale, in Portland who accompanied her. Mrs. H. D. Crumly and Mrs. Clem Niswonger followed a day latter, the latter going to join her husband at Seattle. Perry Macy is representing the Springbrook society at the convention.

E. S. Minchin, who was graduated from Whittier College, California, last month, arrived at his Dundee home Saturday evening and came down to call on his Newberg friends Tuesday. Before taking up the white man's burden he will join friend(s) at Mt. Hood for a week's outing, the very mention of which brings a tint on Elwood's face which rivals that of the Hood River apple to which he is steadfastly loyal.

The Graphic man is always glad to brag about his subscribers' garden sassa—the big potato which is good for one family meal (especially with spuds at two plunks per sack) the pumpkins and squashes which have to be cut up where they lie and hauled in in sections, the strawberries which are consumed at three bites per, etc., but now he wants to do a little crowing on his own account. He has the finest corn field (let) he has seen in the valley. The corn ranges from six to seven feet in height which is going some this early in the season. Bring on your best, Farmer Corn-tassel and if you beat it we'll bow in submission.

Mayor Jesse Edwards, Councilmen R. W. Harrold and W. C. Woodward and Contractor Geo. Lea made a trip up to the new spring Monday to make arrangements for putting in the head-works of the new water system. Leaving their team at the Bonny View farm of Howard Walton, they took the trail by the hill, following the pipe line, the spring being twenty-five hundred feet above the Walton home. The spring had already been opened up and a finer, clearer stream of mountain water cannot be found in the state. Mr. Lea, who has had wide experience over the country, says no town in Oregon is better off for water than is Newberg. The reservoir, with a capacity of a little over five hundred thousand gallons is completed in fine shape and the pipe line is all layed with the exception of a few hundred feet lying between the reservoir and the S. W. Newhouse place, which stretch can be put in a day on the arrival of the last shipment of pipe.

John Bristow, who since his release from the asylum has been at his Parrott mountain home, went wrong again the first of the week. Constable J. J. Woods went up after him Tuesday evening and on the next day took him back to Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Edwards came up from Portland Sunday to hear Prof. Thos. Newlin preach at the Friends church. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. David Patella of the city, the former being the Northwest representative of the big grain dealers, Balfour, Guthrie & Company.

Clyde Carey hauled a load of Springbrook young people up on the mountain on the Fourth. On starting home the team made a sudden short turn and was about to get away on a down hill road with its precious load of freight. Realizing the case to be desperate, Clyde yanked so strenuously on the lines that he pulled a shoulder out of place. But he got the horses stopped.

At the cannery meeting held in the grove Tuesday evening, Geo. Sykes who handled the funds of the "ways and means" of the G. A. R. encampment, announced that the seats in the grove which had been placed by the veterans are to remain for the use of the public, with the compliments of the local post of the G. A. R. This is no little item, the lumber costing over eighty dollars, and the people of Newberg appreciate the gift.

The funeral of Mrs. M. E. Stillwell, of Tillamook, whose death was announced in these columns last week, took place here Friday forenoon from the Hollingsworth undertaking parlors, the service being conducted by Rev. S. W. Potter. Nearly all the near relatives of the deceased were present, including Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Grayson and daughter, of Tillamook, and Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Cornell, of Grants Pass, formerly of Newberg. They wish the Graphic to express for them their appreciation of kindness showed them here by old friends and neighbors.

Rev. Herbert T. Cash has accepted a call to become the pastor of the Friends church at Paonia, Colorado, and expects to leave with his family for that place near the first of August. It is their intention to go by Berkeley and visit Mrs. Cash's sister, Mrs. J. J. Jessup and family. The decision of Rev. Cash is a cause of great regret (which is not a strong enough word) not only on the part of his own church members but by all who have in any way come in contact with him. Expressions of disappointment that he sees fit to make the change are heard on every hand. Those in a position to know consider him one of the very best preachers in the Friends church, and the Colorado people have yet to learn how fortunate they are in having secured him. His successor here has not yet been arranged for.

Clarence M. Brown went down to Portland Monday evening and from there went with Roscoe Cahill on a week's outing to the latter's old home ranch in Washington near the foot of Mt. St. Helens. He intends to leave soon after that for his old Indiana home and will enter the law department of the Indiana State University this fall. Clarence came out to Oregon three years ago to take a place in the Graphic office which he filled satisfactorily for a year when he gave it up to enter Pacific College, from which institution he was graduated last month. He was always one of the most energetic, loyal members of the student body, and though making his own way and working against heavy odds, found time to engage in various student activities in some of which, debating particularly, he won signal honors for his college. His many friends wish him the further success which they believe his ability entitles him to and which his pluck deserves.
