Local Events.

Born to Prof. F. K. Jones and wife, on last Sunday, a baby boy.

Henry Ehret and wife were in McMinnville Monday.

Brown, the tailor, who was laid up for repairs a part of last week, is on deck again.

Mrs. Nettie Heacock was up from Gresham the first of the week visiting at W. P. Heacocks.

Mrs. Malinda Craven, of Middleton, visited in town Monday with Mrs. Cash and Mrs. Woodward.

Mack Kaufman is putting in the foundation for a new cottage he is building on his lots south of his residence.

Lee Smith, who came out from Newport, where he is rusticating with his family, to auctioneer the Edwards dairy sale, returned Monday.

Attorney Allen Mills, of Chicago, son of Henry Mills, arrived here with his family Monday evening for a visit while on their summer vacation.

J. L. Hoskins drove over to the Wilhoit springs Tuesday, taking Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hoskins who will remain there in camp for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Hutchens and youngest son left here for North Bend, Coos county, Tuesday morning, where they will spend a couple of weeks visiting with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gubser.

Rev. M. C. Hacker and wife of Chickasha, Indian Territory, F. O. Roberts and wife, of Woodburn and Mrs. Reed Hampton, of Iowa, visited at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Newhouse and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Newhouse last Saturday and Sunday.

Charley Clemenson has sold his home on Fifth street, consisting of two acres with improvements, to a Portland real estate man named Rogers, who will locate his family here in a few days. Mr. Rogers says Newberg has looked good to him every time he has been here and he considers prices of real estate very reasonable.

Mrs. L. W. Harger returned from Ilwaco, Washington, last week where she spent a couple of weeks visiting with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kinney. Mrs. Kinney and the children came with her and will remain, as they have sold out at Ilwaco where they were in the stock business, and will locate on a farm up the valley.

G. W. James has returned from Dallas and has again taken up the white man's burden at the Southern Pacific station. He says the pay was good at the Dallas station but that he considers life too short to continue to do two days work in one for the Southern Pacific. It is bad enough here, and at Dallas where the work of the Falls City road is thrown in for good count, the life of the agent with short help is all too strenuous.

Rev. Herbert T. Cash preached a most excellent sermon at Friends church last Sunday morning, this being his last Sunday in Newberg, as he expects to leave with his family this week for his new charge at Paonia, Colorado. A good sized audience was present, many from other churches being in attendance. The ministry of Rev. Cash has been well received by the church, as well as by the public generally, and it was with many regrets that his resignation was accepted. The work has been heavy, considering the condition of his health, and he hopes work in a smaller church and a change in climate for a time will be beneficial to him.

Mr. Bussell, president and manager of the Weber-Bussell Canning Co., of Seattle, spent last Sunday in town.

E. S. Craven and wife and son Will went to Newport Tuesday for a stay in camp life for ten days or two weeks.

O. K. Edwards and family drove to Perrydale last Sunday in the new touring car which he exchanged his old auto for last week.

W. C. Woodward and sisters, the Misses Sibyl and Bernice, left for the University of California at Berkeley, last Monday, where they expect to spend the year.

Milo P. Elliott has sold his residence on north Meridian street to W. J. Langton, a brother-in-law to Wm. Corbett, who recently arrived from North Dakota.

G. W. Cutts is taking a short vacation doing stunts on the ranch for Mrs. Cutts. He will probably return to his old position at the Jefferson street station.

A nice rain fell Wednesday, which was welcomed by those who rejoiced to see the dust laid, but as usual it fell on a number of people who were not quite ready for it.

Miss Flora Snobelle who recently arrived in Oregon with her parents from Hiawatha, Kansas, came up from Clackamas county last week and is visiting with Mrs. J. B. Parker.

Charley Wilson had a peck of fun the other day while burning the brush in clearing the site for the new cannery. Rats galore fled for their lives before the flames and he made a great killing.

Walter Terrell and family, W. E. Purdy and family and F. A. Hayes were passengers for Newport Wednesday morning. Mrs. Hayes and the children followed a day later. Mr. Purdy expects to buy a lot and build.

The new reservoir was drained the first of the week and a new coating of cement spread over the bottom, which Mr. Lea the contractor thinks will complete the job. It is being filled again and it is expected that the supply will be satisfactory in a few days.

The Misses Christopher and Young, who recently sold the store at Springbrook to M. G. Markle, of Laurel, will visit for a few days with friends at Gresham, and on their return they will make an overland trip by buggy to Newport where they will rest for a couple of weeks.

J. H. Dailey is the latest hen man to come to the front with a pullet that has developed prolific proclivities at a tender age. He says he has a Plymouth Rock pullet that is sporting a brood of thirteen chicks at the age of six months. Talk about Oregon being a slow country.

The public sale of the Edwards dairy herd on last Saturday was satisfactory, the prices obtained averaging about $50 per head. The breaking up of the dairy leaves Newberg a sure enough dry town for the present, but Mr. Edwards found it difficult to get satisfactory help and in order to avoid the worry of the business, he decided to close it out. A good opening is made for some man of push.—R. C. Crosby and son of Dundee announce that they will begin to deliver milk in Newberg in about a week.

K. C. Eldridge, of Independence, who operated the first creamery in Newberg is still branching out as the following from the Salem Statesman will show: "The Capital City Creamery formally opened this week and is turning out its products rapidly. The new establishment is owned by Mr. K. C. Eldridge but will be managed by his son, E. N. Eldridge. The butter capacity of the new plant is 2500 pounds daily, although the scarcity of cream at this season may prevent its running full force. Ice cream is to be one of the products of the plant."

Jesse Edwards and wife have gone to Long Beach, Washington, for a visit at the seaside.

The regular quarterly meeting of Friends church will be held in Newberg Saturday and Sunday.

Frank Guttermont and family, who have been living on the Thorne place northwest of town have removed to Poatland.

Wm. Nottage, of St. Paul, Minnesota, who is looking for a location on the coast, is in town visiting his uncle H. A. Dimond.

If you chance to know of a young person who ought to be in college the coming year send them a catalogue of Pacific College.

John L. Vestal is up from Portland visiting with his cousin, James Vestal. After having spent thirty-three years in the drug business in Portland, he has sold out to C. E. Smith, who was at one time a druggist in Newberg, and is taking a long needed rest from active business.

Arthur K. Wilson, of Portland, is in Dallas in the interest of a new magazine, "Western Life," which is being published in Portland.—Observer. Arthur K. was also in Newberg a few days ago but it was supposed that while here he was working in the interest of home life—in prospectus.

W. B. Sims has shown this season what can be grown behind glass in the way of fine vegetables. In his green house he has a number of tomato plants, great vigorous vines that have for several week been producing as fine tomatoes as the market ever affords and he has been getting prices for them that have ranged well up in the pictures.

The exodus of our people to the different seaside resorts has been phenomenal and the Graphic scribe is not sure that he has recorded the names of all who have gone. Let any who may have been missed and who may feel slighted, go and take a cooling bath in the waters of the Pacific, and resolve to tell it to the newspaper man when they plan for the next trip away from home.

W. A. Bales, son-in-law of George Bales, who has been working for a lumber company at Hollister, California, one hundred miles south of San Francisco, for the past three years, arrived in town the first of the week with his family and will probably remain here. Speaking of the price of fuel he says half rotten slabwood sells at $6.50 per cord at Hollister and oak wood at $12 per cord, and as for the price of lumber it brings a gasp to name prices. Refuse Redwood of all sizes, thick and thin, such as can be nailed up for chicken coops, sells at $21 per thousand, fir lumber in the rough at $32 to $35 and dressed lumber at $50 and up. These prices he says has stopped all building operations except what is imperative and business is stagnated.

On last Monday morning when the down passenger train had reached a point some five miles out from Portland, the engineer was horrified to see a little head bob up from between the rails only a few feet in front of the train. He quickly brought the train to a standstill, but the little one, who was found to be a boy of two or three years, was picked up by the cow catcher and tossed some thirty feet to the side of the track. The brakeman picked the child up and strange to say, no bones were broken, and with the exception of a cut in the forehead that caused a considerable flow of blood, he did not appear to be seriously injured. The mother of the child, who is of foreign birth, was frantic with grief and threw herself on the ground, refusing to be comforted, but later got up enough circulation to cause her to shake her fist and threaten the train crew. The child hugged the ground so closely that it was not seen until it raised its head, and then it was too late. This is said to be the second time this same child has been caught sleeping on the track and been picked up by the train.
