The big fat gobblers will be just as content to see the stringency in the money market continue until after Thanksgiving.

The undertaker has discharged none of his "help," neither has he been heard to make any complaint of a falling off in business. Money plenty to keep people going.

"Death to licensed saloons" is the handwriting on the wall that stands out so plainly that many of the magazines and the big dailies are beginning to set up and take notice.

A meeting of the Yamhill County Press Association will be held in Newberg on Saturday of next week. We hope everybody in town will be ready to give the boys the glad hand and a warm welcome.

During the season a wage earner could by careful saving of a week's salary buy his wife a fairly respectable hat, but several "has beens" will no doubt be worn this Thanksgiving unless millinery prices take a tumble.

Just think of it. Here in Newberg this week the whole financial problem was untangled in two minute talks by the members of the Wednesday club, while the "men folks" have been setting up late of nights trying to figure out how it happened.

A sample copy of the New York Herald has been received at this office. The price of the daily with Sunday is only $23 a year. Wouldn't this give the fellows nervous prostration who are looking for a newspaper that is published at less than a dollar and a half a year.

Senator Bourne is conceded to be a pretty shrewd politician, but in ordering shipments of Oregon fruits for his Washington friends he will do well to remember that there are several localities in the state that produce big red apples. Hint No. 1.

Justice Swan, who performed a marriage ceremony at Albany the other day and had the document properly witnessed, all in fifty-eight seconds by the watch, could easily mass a fortune if he would hang out an attorney's shingle and guarantee the granting of divorces at the same gait.

In all the talk about timber for the presidential nomination Hughes is the man who is keeping his head. If the nomination comes his way it is all right and if it don't his future is not marred in the scramble. Hughes is the coming man, if he has not already arrived—and the Graphic hopes he has.

The "One Thing and Another" man in the Oregonian says: "Had Eve been compeled to make a selection in a Yamhill orchard, things would have been mighty different. She never could have settled on a choice." But she would, and it would have been a Gravenstein—and the fall of man would have been recorded just the same.

To anyone who has crossed the greater part of the continent and returned recently, as the editor of the Graphic has done, and seen the good crops, with stock and all kinds of farm products selling at top prices, and with the farmers holding good bank accounts, it doesn't seem reasonable to suppose that the financial stringency will continue.

With the coming of beautiful autumn weather our friend Bennett, of Irrigon, has let up on Jonathan Jr. and is advocating the setting of shade trees. Now 'yer talkin' Addison. Future generations will rise up and call you blessed.

A petition is being circulated asking our members in Congress to work for an increase in pension for C. H. Eggers. This is a deserving case and necessary relief should be afforded. Mr. Eggers served his country faithfully and well, and he has been an industrious, hard working man, but months of continued sickness attended by heavy expenses have cut into his resources.

Business is never what you would call "rushing" over at Salem, and consequently under present conditions it is well to be charitable toward the newspaper correspondent of that city, who is so down and out for news to report, that he has figured out four possible candidates for Superintendent Ackerman's place, with the campaign three years away. The men he mentions are: R. F. Robinson, of Multnomah; B. F. Mulkey, of the Ashland Normal; E. D. Resler, of the Monmouth Normal; J. A. Churchill, of Baker City. A very promising flock of early birds.

There comes a general complaint from suburban residents against the practice townspeople have of dumping all kinds of refuse matter along the roadside and off bridges into canyons, to reek and smell and form an unsightly pile for months to come. They insist that common decency and ordinary regard for others should govern in the disposition of garbage. One man came into the Graphic office a few days ago to ask that the golden rule be quoted and the color of his eyes and the tone of his voice indicated that he stood ready to enforce its provisions if a spot near his residence continued to be used as a dumping ground. "To whom this may concern, etc."

Down in Alabama the other day two car loads of whiskey sympathisers went over from Mobile to Montgomery, the state capital, to lobby against the statutory prohibition bill, only to find that they had been forestalled by the friends of the measure who had thronged the corridors and galleries until there was no room for late arrivals. Little children stood in the lobbies and pinned ribbons on all who came in. The bill passed the Senate by the decisive vote of 32 to 2 and it is stated that it will pass the House without opposition. As a result of a compromise the law will not become effective until January 1, 1909. The way things are going we will soon be hearing of the "solid South" again.

Recital Friday Night.

Mrs. Walter W. Bruce, who is to give a recital at Duncan's hall on Friday night, will give a varied program of dramatic, sacred and humorous readings from the best and most popular authors. Mrs. Bruce was in Newberg recently and those who heard her at the college speak in the highest terms of her work.

Following will be found some press notices showing how she has been received.

It gives the management of the Willamette Valley Chautauqua Association pleasure to say that Mrs. Walter W. Bruce has several times graced our platform, and delighted large audiences with her natural and easy rendition of humor and pathos, and that we take satisfaction in recommending her both as a teacher and as a public reader. A multitude of personal friends can testify to her nobility of character and inherent qualities of a lady and an artist.

C. H. DYE,
Vice-President Willamette Valley Chautauqua Association.

EVA EMERY DYE,
Author "McLaughlin and Old Oregon," "Conquest," etc., etc.

Mrs. Walter W. Bruce ranks high among public readers. Having heard many of the best readers, I can say that there are few who equal her in combining thorough mastery of technique with perfect naturalness of manner. Her magnetic personality at once attracts her audience, while the excellence of her art, together with her entire forgetfulness of self in her impersonations, wins the hearty appreciation of both the critical and the popular elements.

CLAIRE L. WAITE,
Pastor Douglas Park Church of Christ, Chicago, Illinois.

It is with pleasure that I recommend Mrs. Walter Bruce, as a reader of rare ability. No one will make a mistake in securing her services either as a reader at entertainments or as a teacher of elocution.

LUCIA H. F. ADDITION,
President of Oregon W. C. T. U., and President Woman's Press Club of Oregon.

A Little Partington.

The first of the week a letter came to the Graphic office, dated November 13 and written from Union Springs, New York. It ran as follows:

Dear friends—I thought it might interest my father's friends in Newberg to know that I arrived at Union Springs about 4:45 this morning. I weigh eight pounds, am quite vigorous, but sleepy just now. Mother is doing splendidly so far; it's not necessary to say anything of father's feelings. You'll probably hear from me later, for I will be heard after this sleepy spell wears off.

Most Sincerely,
JOHN EDWIN PARTINGTON.
The hand writing resembles that of Prof. E. Partington, a former teacher in Pacific College. Congratulations are in order.

ROBERTINE
A Fresh Complexion is preserved—and produced—by Robertine, a mild, delightful preparation, delicately fragrant. Makes the skin exquisitely soft; banishes cracked appearance caused by over-dryness; reduces the size of enlarged pores, cleanses them, reduces inflammation and spreads an even, radiant glow due to wholesome nourishment of skin glands and stimulation of the capillaries which also feed the skin and supply its healthful color.
