Address by Post Commander.

Headquarters Shiloh Post, No. 77 Department of Oregon, G. A. R.

My Dear Comrades—Ever since entering upon my duties as commander of Shiloh Post, I have had but one purpose in view, that is, the welfare of my Comrades without favor or prejudice. It has been my aim to impress all with the fact that every Comrade, however situated in our Post, is an important factor, yea, an indispensable help, toward our every accomplishment, and this, not in the work of our Post only, but also in our great National Organization. And Comrades, it is still the dominate passion of my heart to spare no pains to promote the beauty and value of that true fraternity which everywhere marks the true defenders of our glorious flag.

If my administration has been the least satisfactory, it has been because of your loyal support, but wherever I have failed, it has been because of a weakness of the flesh and not of the heart; and here and now, I wish most humbly to beg your pardon for it. To all the Comrades who have done so much to help and strengthen my hands during the eventful year now drawing to a close, I wish to extend my grateful thanks and the assurance of my deepest appreciation.

But Comrades, the past is behind us, we know what that is, and we are grateful for its record. It is the future of our Post that is before us, which will claim our most earnest and united efforts. That will be just what you choose to make it. My own heart's desire is that we may greatly increase in members and usefulness, as also in those traits of personal tempers which should characterize most men of our years. Behold, how worthy is the aim of our order; to perpetuate the history of the heroic sacrifices of those who gave the last measure of devotion that this government might not perish from the earth, to preserve the institutions, which we ourselves rebuilt on more solid foundations, to uphold the splendid and beneficent government which we preserved with our lives, and to which we gave a new birth of freedom, and finally to keep intact and unsullied the honor and purity of the best flag in all the world. These, Comrades, are some of the aims which the Grand Army cherishes and for which she loves to labor. They are most worthy of our greatest efforts, and we think they should draw to our ranks every man who wore the blue or carried a gun in the defense of his country's cause.

But even this is not all we are striving for. Do we not visit the sick, care for the dying and bury the dead. Do we not clothe the naked and feed the hungry among us? This is the spirit of fraternity, charity and loyalty. The beautiful homes, erected at great expense, in which such incomparable comfort for our old age is maintained, to whose loyalty are these due? Then, again, if every old soldier receives from his Government an allowance which so materially helps to keep the wolf from the door, every thinking man knows that he is indebted to the loyal efforts of the Grand Army for this boon of old age. Yes, these blessings and countless others are the legitimate fruitage of the Grand Army, and every Comrade should be proud of our record in peace, as well as in war.

But Comrades, it is not necessary for me to tell you that there still remains much to be done—and that can be done—by our united efforts only. Even now are there calls for us to put forth our best efforts to secure proper pensions for our minor children, and to put all our widows upon an equal footing of twelve dollars per month. This also, is a work for the Grand Army, which could not be brought to a successful issue but for the potential strength of this wise and watchful body of earnest and devoted men. Oh, my Comrades, let us if possible, be more loyal to our great cause, and to one another.

Let us, during the coming year, do our best to reach every man who fought by our sides in the sixties, and by the kindest endeavors make him feel that we need him. To this end, I earnestly ask that each member of our Post shall become a recruiting officer, and shall during the next twelve months bring into our ranks at least one recruit, or one of the boys who have, for reasons best known to themselves, fallen by the way-side. Tell them that we also are growing old, but that nevertheless, loyalty to duty stimulates within us the spirit and sentiment of younger days, and enables us to gather around the camp fire as of old, lest we forget, lest we forget.

Now that God may bless us in our persons, in our homes, and in our labors as a Post, is the sincere prayer of your friend and comrade. And now to you my Adjutant Comrade, T. Brouillette, I must thank you personally for the splendid service you have rendered to me during my term of office. So much depends upon the ability of the adjutant. And again, my dear Comrades, one and all, I thank you for your kind acts and assistance to me in the prosperous year now closed.

Yours in F. C. & L.,
CLEVELAND EGGERS,
Post Commander.
January 9th, 1908.

A Special Word.

Unless the delicate, exactly adjusted parts of a watch are kept clean and lubricated, they are certain to become worn to a greater or less extent and the movement will surely lose its accuracy. Tiny particles of grit are bound to work into the best protected movement; the oil will become gummed in time and these combined will serve to cut and grind the pivots and cause friction.

Every watch should be thoroughly cleaned and oiled at least once in eighteen months, and if yours has not been cleaned within that time, it should have immediate attention.

We will clean your watch precisely as it would be done in the best watch factories—take the movement entirely apart, clean each wheel, cog and pivot separately, assemble and regulate it—and when you get it back you may depend upon it being in "perfect shape."
