Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Smith have engaged to enter the Alaska mission field again at the Friends mission at Kake, where they have already accomplished successful work. They expect to leave as soon as possible after Oregon Yearly Meeting of the Friends Church which opens July 8.

Arthur Wilson, Harvey Wright, Haines Burgess, Will Miles and Harry White will tread the primrose path of the book agent this summer vacation, having arranged to canvass for the Century Dictionary of Facts. Its a good thing they have to sell, they deserve to succeed and here's hoping they find more money than dogs. Linn county has been assigned as their territory.

The surprising credence given to an unfathered and silly rumor that an attempt was to be made to do away with the high school department, resulted in the biggest school meeting in the history of the district Monday afternoon. Over one hundred and fifty votes were cast for director, L. B. Ferguson being chosen for this post of responsibility, while W. W. Nelson was re-elected clerk. No opposition was expressed to hauling the children in from the district west of town and it was voted almost unanimously to continue this policy.

N. C. Christenson and Tom Herd have bought W. P. Heacock's interest in the sash and door factory, each taking one-third interest, while Everett Heacock will hold the other third. In the trade Mr. Heacock gets some acreage near town, a part of the Bowerman land, which Mr. Christenson subdivided and has been selling out.

Demsey Smith who invested in a small tract of land 140 miles up the Columbia, in Klickitat county, Washington, on the line of the North Bank road some time ago, has been down during the week. He says the location he has is particularly well adapted for growing peaches and melons and all the tracts in the subdivision have been sold. He is the pioneer of the colony, he having built the first house and he is engaging in the growing of Rocky Ford melons this season.

A crew of surveyors representing the Oregon Electric company completed a temporary survey through the gap at Rex and on into Newberg the first of the week. At Rex the line runs across the N. L. Wiley place back of the house and barn and on south of the wagon road pretty well up on the side of the hill, and skirting well around to the southwest the valley is reached at a point well to the south line of the L. S. Otis farm, making about a two per cent grade through the gap, which is better than they expected to obtain. On entering Newberg, the line passes between the B. C. Miles house and barn and up Wynooski street to Fourth.

It was a very able lecture which was given in Crater's Hall Friday evening by Walter Thomas Mills upon the subject of public ownership of monopolized industries. Mr. Mills is an ardent temperance worker and an effort is being made to get him to return and speak upon the subject of temperance from the socialists' standpoint.

The Eighth Grade graduating exercises of the public school took place Friday evening according to the program published last week and were closely followed by the very large audience in attendance. The members of the class taking part did so very creditably and the musical part of the program was likewise very good. The address by the retiring principal, Prof. Kirk, was heartily received, an indication of the estimation in which he is held by the patrons and citizens generally. A wealth of roses was on display, made up from the floral tokens of the many friends of the eighth graders.

Sunday Night Service.

Under a sense of gratitude to our Heavenly Father and in appreciation of the work done by the faithful promoters of the local option movement in Oregon, and the wonderful success attained by the efforts of the temperance people, we feel it our duty to devote the evening service of Sabbath June 21 at Friends church to expressions of appreciation and gratitude for what has been accomplished.
