

TO LET OUR LIGHT SO SHINE

Just What We've Been Waiting For.

There has long been a weeping need for descriptive and illustrative literature advertising the attractions and resources of Yamhill county, Chehalem Valley and Newberg. Thousands of names have been received by the Commercial Club, of eastern people asking for information relative to our country. But as far as we were concerned locally, there was nothing to send in answer, as the writing of personal letters was out of the question.

But it is to be different from now on, and radically so. The people have really awakened to the need, as attested by the fact that they are putting up money. Yearly subscriptions by regular monthly payments are providing the sinews of advertising and are making positive results possible.

As mentioned by the Graphic last week the first of the booklets to be gotten out by the Yamhill Development League has been issued. It is the finest thing of the kind we have ever seen. It is beautifully illustrated. Yamhill county fruits are presented in the rich, natural colors—you can almost taste the luscious fruit in fact. The information given is definite and pithy. More of the details will be given later in larger books soon to be issued.

But locally we need something on Chehalem Valley exclusively—and this need is also being met. The Newberg Commercial Club, through its secretary, is getting out five thousand eight page circulars on Chehalem Valley and Newberg—illustrated by the well known and widely circulated picture of the valley taken from the hills. These will be ready for distribution within a few days.

The next question is that of proper distribution and in this matter the Commercial Club asks the co-operation of all. Envelopes have been secured for mailing both the county and the Chehalem Valley publications and the Club has this proposition to make. All are asked to hand in the names of people away from here, who would be interested at all in Oregon, and all the publications issued will be mailed to them by the Commercial Club. Leave the names with W. C. Woodward, the secretary, at the Graphic office.

Every family in the community should represent a few names, at least, of people to whom such advertising matter should be sent, and all should be sufficiently interested to do this much toward helping along the aggressive work of exploitation. And call in and get a copy for yourself. After reading of some of the good things which can be said of our county and valley, some of which we fail properly to appreciate, you will become more enthusiastic over letting your friends know of the great country in which you live. Act promptly—we've waited too long already. And that means, write out your list of names immediately on reading the above.

Of Interest to Prune Growers.

The prune packers of the Northwest organized an association at Salem the first of the week for mutual protection and promotion of the interests of their business. It is said that the new organization will control the whole prune pack of the Northwest.

According to the report appearing in the city press, the new association has formulated two forms of contracts which all the firms in the combine will use. One contract is that to be used in selling fruit to Eastern buyers, and the other in buying from local growers. The packers have determined that they will no longer sell according to forms of contract put out by Eastern buyers, but will dictate the terms of the contract or will not sell at all. The new contract contains a number of conditions favorable to Oregon packers.

It gives the packer unlimited choice in selecting in case of arbitration of dispute where, as in the past, the arbitrators have been chosen from the New York Fruit Exchange. The new contract gives the packer the privilege of filling his contracts with smaller sizes of prunes if the crop produced does not contain the required quantity of large sizes. It gives the packer the right to route the fruit in shipping. It exempts the packer from liability in case shipment is delayed by congestion of traffic.

It provides that in case of dispute as to quality, samples for test shall be taken from one-fifth of the boxes of fruit; that no allowance for short weight shall be made unless it amounts to more than one per-cent, and that in the counting test the size shall include the seventh prune and not the fifth only, thus, that 47 prunes shall be deemed in the 40-50 size and not 45 only.

The new form of contract with growers will be very explicit in requiring growers to deliver fruit cured in a first-class manner, free from all burned or slack-dried fruit. The packer is to be sole judge of quality and there is to be no arbitration in case of dispute.

The packer is to have the right to weigh back to the grower any fruit slack dried or otherwise unsatisfactory. The packer will not be required to take more of a grower's crop than 10 per-cent in excess of the quantity estimated in the contract, but the grower must deliver all his fruit if the packer demands it, regardless of how much it over runs the estimate.

It is asserted that the association does not intend to regulate prices or limit competition.

The packers' combine will evidently be in complete control of the prune situation unless Eastern buyers refuse to accept the new contracts at one end, or the growers refuse to accept them at the other. As buying has not yet begun, it cannot be determined what course growers and Eastern buyers will pursue.

As Others See It.

Concerning the booklet issued by the Yamhill County development League, mentioned elsewhere in these columns, the manager of the Oregon Development League work who sees all the publications gotten out over the state, has this to say:

"There is an intense competition between the different communities of Oregon in issuing attractive and convincing literature. Many of the publications circulated to draw attention to this state today are superior to the most ambitious product of the metropolitan printers ten years ago. Up to the present time the most artistic booklet printed in the state is one gotten out by the Yamhill County Development League. Its reproductions of raspberries, cherries, prunes and grapes are done in natural colors, and like the pictures in the old fable, would almost deceive the birds."

AMERICAN HARVESTING MACHINES WIN HONORS ABROAD

At an important Agricultural Show held at Port Elizabeth, South Africa, the Walter A. Wood Binder, Reaper and Mower, were awarded first prize.

WALTER A. WOOD MOWERS Are Different From All Others

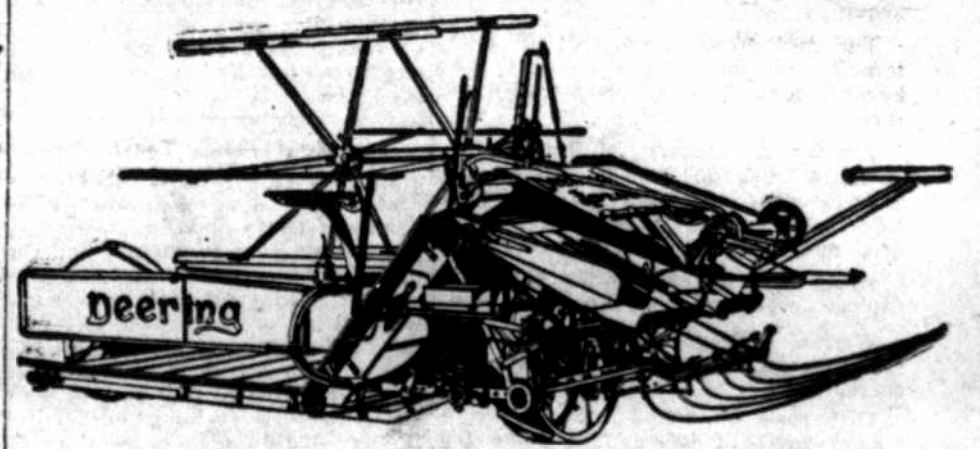

When the late Walter A. Wood built his first mower or reaper it was upon a principle entirely different from any other. That same principle today distinguishes our mowers from all others. It is the "floating frame" described so fully in our catalog. All manufacturers of mowers admit that the "direct under-draft" principle is the correct one—but they can't use it because genuine underdraft is possible only with the "floating frame" construction which is exclusive to Walter A. Wood mowers. We feel justified in asserting that our mowers are: the easiest running; lightest draft; handiest to operate; least expensive to keep in repair and longest lived. The mower that leads on these points is the mower it will pay the farmer to buy. There are many other good points—illustrated and described in our Catalog. Write for it today.
