An unusually quiet and sane Fourth is promised for Newberg this year.

C. H. Eggers, so long bedridden, is reported to be at the point of death.

Miss Lenora Parker entertained her Sunday School class at her home Tuesday evening.

Lee Hilton went to Amity today to see his married daughter and family. Who would take Lee to be a grandpa?

Adam Buehler has arrived from Connell, Washington, and will begin the erection of a house on the J. K. Blair property, which he purchased recently.

In J. M. Crawford's twenty-five acre alfalfa field, the first crop from which was cut June 8th and which yielded eighty tons of hay, the new crop already stands twenty-two inches in height.

Fred L. Ames and wife are arranging to leave next week for their old North Dakota home. Their route will not be direct, however, as they will visit relatives at various points on the way. They expect to be gone about three months.

The old boys and their "girls" who attended the G. A. R. encampment at Newport last week came home happy and are still talking of the good time they had at the popular seaside resort. T. Brouillette was elected a member of the State Council of Administration for the coming year.

The baseball write-up in last week's Graphic brought the youngsters a challenge from one of the good Portland teams, the manager being unconscious of the fact that the crack players with whom he wished a game belong to the knee pants brigade. The boys replied that their schedule was full and they couldn't accommodate late comers.

The new principal of the Newberg schools, Prof. W. W. Wiley, was in town the middle of the week and rented the neat cottage being built by Harlan Smith. He will not move his family, consisting of wife and two-year-old daughter, to Newberg until August, he having work to complete in Tillamook which will occupy him until that time.

The electric line people continue to make surveys through the gap of the mountain leading toward Newberg. One of the latest comes through below the David place, runs along the bench of the mountain north of and past Springbrook, turns south and crosses the valley, entering Newberg in the southeast part of town. Another enters the north part of town, passing the new cannery. Of course these surveys are merely tentative but they serve to keep the people occupied in the pleasing and diverting occupation of guessing. "Sometime we'll understand."

"Dog-gone!" was the exclamation made with particular emphasis by Clarence Crow, assistant at the depot, Tuesday morning when he found that a fifty-dollar Scotch Collie pup, which had arrived the evening before expressed from St. Charles, Illinois, to Lee Dadisman, had chewed his way out of his box to liberty during the night. Crow immediately got busy among the boys with offers of a liberal reward, with the result that the valuable little hunk of canine was brought in before noon. Russell Parker captured the wanderer which was busy making up with a common, everyday Webfoot pup, born of poor but honest parents.

W. B. Sims, the florist, doesn't lay claim to the powers of Rain-maker Hatfield, but he completed yesterday the installing of an overhead irrigation system by which, with the simple turn of the wrist, he can turn a gentle and even precipitation of moisture upon his gardens equal to an April shower. It is called the Skinner system and consists of a
