

Newberg Sash and Door Factory Destroyed by Fire.

Newberg suffered the loss of one of its substantial manufacturing plants by fire Monday forenoon. The alarm was given about ten o'clock, but the fire had made good progress before it was seen, and no hope was entertained of saving the factory. In a very few minutes the whole thing was one sheet of roaring flames and within twenty minutes had burned to the ground. The origin of the fire is uncertain. It started under the building, either from a hot box or from a stray spark blown under from the yard.

It looked for a time that the sash and door factory would not be the only building to go, others being greatly endangered close by, including the cottage and depot and even the grain elevator on the southwest and the warehouse across the street east. Indeed the latter would probably have gone had not the wind changed at a critical moment. In saving these buildings as well as one of those connected with the factory in which a good deal of stock was stored, too much credit cannot be given to the fire companies and other volunteers for hard and efficient work in the very face of the raging flames. In this connection the owners have asked the Graphic to express for them their sincere appreciation and gratitude.

The loss sustained Monday represents years of hard work and worry on the part of W. P. Heacock & Sons. Beginning in a modest way several years ago, they had, by dint of industry and determination, built up a thoroughly equipped plant with a business in proportion, which had become no inconsiderable factor in the industrial welfare of the town. But by one of the queer turns of the wheel of fortune, the brunt of the loss is not borne by them. About two weeks previous to the fire a re-organization had taken place, W. P. Heacock and son Morris withdrawing from the company, the new owners being Everett Heacock, N. C. Christenson and Thomas Herd, each taking a third interest.

The plant carried $4000 in insurance, which will make the net loss from $5000 to $6000. With the exception of the boiler and engine, none of the machinery can be worked over for further use.

As to the matter of rebuilding, the proprietors are not ready to state what they will be able to do, as they do not know what to expect from Newberg in the way of co-operation. They would like to rebuild, and build better than before, but they state candidly that this they will be unable to do without the united support of the people of Newberg. The latter know what the factory is worth to them and it's up to the people to show whether they want a sash and door factory here.

AMERICAN HARVESTING MACHINES WIN HONORS ABROAD

At an important Agricultural Show held at Port Elizabeth, South Africa, the Walter A. Wood Binder, Reaper and Mower, were awarded first prize.

WALTER A. WOOD MOWERS Are Different From All Others

When the late Walter A. Wood built his first mower or in 1858 it was upon a principle entirely different from any other. That same principle today distinguishes our mowers from all others. It is the "floating frame" described so fully in our catalog. All manufacturers of mowers admit that the "direct under-draft" principle is the correct one—but they can't use it because genuine underdraft is possible only with the "floating frame" construction which is exclusive to Walter A. Wood Mowers. We feel justified in asserting that our mowers are: the easiest running; lightest draft; handiest to operate; least expensive to keep in repair and longest lived. The mower that leads on these points is the mower it will pay the farmer to buy. There are many other good points fully illustrated and described in our Catalog. Write for it today.
