NEWBERG, OREGON.

Local Events.

Miss Emma Dorrance spent Sunday with Miss Freda Gist at North Yamhill.

Master Edwin Parker has been up from Sellwood this week visiting with Ralph and Dale Butt.

Roy Hutchinson, of Portland, formerly of South Dakota, visited the family of Alex Buchanan, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. James Chesney, of Columbus, Kansas, visited here this week with the families of F. A. and Orange Elliott and W. S. Parker, of whom they are relatives.

Mrs. Mary F. Sibbett, of Kansas, who has been attending the sessions of Oregon Yearly Meeting, gave a very able and interesting discourse to an appreciative audience at the Baptist church Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. VanBlaricom left for Salem Monday evening in response to a subpoena to appear as witnesses in a civil action, expecting to be gone from home for several days. F. H. Rogers is representing them behind the counter at the store in their absence.

The town of Heppner suffered from the effects of another cloudburst Monday. Some damage was done to buildings by the mud and water and many gardens and lawns were spoiled but no lives were lost. It was nothing like the terrible cloudburst they had in 1903, but appearances for awhile led people to believe they were about to have a repetition of that disastrous time.

It is related that one of Newberg's young men recently made a fishing trip to the lake across the river. The fish "bit" good and he secured a fine catch. Filled with happiness and visions of fried trout he was just on the point of starting home, when a woman appeared on the scene and by the force of her logic convinced him that she had a better title to the aforesaid trout than he. Ask Si Hamnett, he will tell you all about it.

When coming home from Portland by auto Thursday night, Mayor W. T. Macy and Doc Wright, of McMinnville, failed to hit a bridge out east of town square and as a result all were laid out by the roadside for repairs, the machine suffering the most injury. Dr. Littlefield brought the unfortunate pair on into town in his runabout near the midnight hour, and a relief expedition sent out from McMinnville early next morning took them on home.

After looking over the ground thoroughly last week, County Commissioners Booth and Cummins decided that suitable rock to be crushed and put on the road in this end of the county could be secured on the Schaad place out east of town, on Chehalem creek just below the Grate mill and on the Rogers place in West Chehalem. The county now has three rock crushers, one of which the commissioners expect to put to work in this vicinity this fall, while they say that in the spring they will probably purchase another for the exclusive use of this part of the county.

The following comes from the pen of John Fleming Wilson, editor of the Newport Mail, who has an enviable reputation as a writer of fish stories: "Bob Voeth caught an immense halibut off the Newport landing yesterday with a hook and line. This is the first of the season and the biggest since Lee Williams gained immortal glory two years ago by crawling on his hands and knees off the Government wharf dragging a 125-pounder out of the depths after him. Bob states that this halibut is but a little finger to the fists that lie outside the bar. It disappeared within an hour into various parcels carried out of the Palace Market."

L. E. Brown left for Newport Tuesday morning for a weeks' outing.

Gus Pool, of Portland, stopped off here Tuesday evening for a short visit with friends.

Rev. Aaron Bray returned to Boise, Idaho, Tuesday evening, having been here the past week.

Allen Jay and wife, attendants of the Oregon Yearly Meeting sessions, returned to Rosedale the first of the week.

Mrs. Mary E. Allen came down from Eugene Tuesday and is visiting with Mrs. E. H. Woodward and other relatives.

Pres. W. Irving Kelsey and Prof. W. A. Newlin were in Oregon City the middle of the week in the interests of the college.

An important meeting of the Yamhill County Development League is announced to take place on Friday, July 24th at McMinnville.

W. A. Moomaw, who lives at Twin Falls, Idaho, visited friends and relatives in town the fore part of the week, accompanied by his family.

Father J. H. McDevitt, of St. Marys Cathedral, Portland, will celebrate Mass at Duncan's Hall Sunday, July 19, at 10:30 morning and at the usual hour evening.

Newport is rejoicing over an extra arrival of mail in the early afternoon which will help relieve the evening congestion that has heretofore existed in the post-office at that place.

Will Vaughan, of Coos Bay, passed through town Monday returning home from a business trip to Portland. He speaks very enthusiastically of the future prospects of his home town.

Miss Gertrude Minthorn came out from Newport last week returning Tuesday with her mother who had been convalescing rapidly in a Portland hospital after a surgical operation performed there recently.

Mr. Wm. Corbett is so much improved from his recent illness that he went home with his daughter, Mrs. Nellie McLain, of Portland, for a couple of weeks stay. He did not go to a Portland hospital as was erroneously reported by some around here, there being no occasion for so doing.

An automobile, filled with Portland parties, running at a high speed frightened J. L. VanBlaricom's delivery horse Monday afternoon resulting in a runaway. On being held up by the marshal until an investigation of the damage done to the rig was made, they "dug up" rather unwillingly before going on their way.

Cards came some days ago announcing the arrival of a ten-pound son at Pasadena, California, to Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McKillop, the young man being named Keith Douglas McKillop. The parents got back from the Philippines a couple of months ago and will be up here in a few weeks to visit Grandpa Frank Taylor.

Geo. A. Lyman, postmaster and editor of the Journal at Annapolis, Md., who is making his annual visit to the coast, was a pleasant caller at this office the first of the week. He is stopping at Springbrook, at present, with his son, Dr. J. A. Lyman, of Portland, who is taking care of the fruit crop on his Chehalem mountain farm.

A company of young people, mostly from Newberg, enjoyed a delightful time at the pleasant country home of Harry Gordon, south of Dundee, Monday evening. Dinner was served on the spacious veranda after which a couple of hours were spent in launches on the river. The guests were the Misses Langton, Lenora Parker, Maybelle Edwards, Olive Stratton, Emma Dorrance, Maybelle Gardner, Ella and Gussie Crawford and Messrs. J. G. Bennett, C. W. Parker, A. C. Seeley, Sherman Seeley and John Crossby.

Miss Julia Cummins was down from McMinnville visiting with relatives the first of the week.

Born, on Sunday morning, July 12, to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burgoyne, of Springbrook, a daughter.

Mrs. E. W. Evans and Mrs. Riley and children came down from McMinnville Wednesday on a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Cook returned to Portland Monday after enjoying the Oregon Yearly Meeting during the previous week.

M. O. Lownsdale was down from LaFayette Friday collecting some fancy cherries from this vicinity to exhibit at the Salem cherry fair.

Miss Hattie George, who is a nurse in the Good Samaritan hospital in Portland, visited at home two or three days the last of the week.

C. F. Moore and family went to Newport Wednesday where they will occupy their cottage by the sea for the next three or four weeks.

Harvey Ratliff and wife, of Marion, Indiana, who have been attending Oregon Yearly Meeting, went to Salem Monday for a short visit.

Arthur Cory and family are here from Chehalis, Washington, where Mr. Cory is in the banking business. He is a cousin of W. B. Cory and S. W. and C. E. Newhouse.

Dr. Tom Hester, of Jacksonville, who had been spending a few days at Caldwell, Idaho, with his sister, Mrs. S. A. Mills, and family, visited Newberg friends Saturday on his return.

Those from this vicinity who have been attending the summer normal school at Monmouth are the Misses Nellie Paulsen, Mabel Rush, Elsie Winters, Eunice Lewis, Lela Hevland and Jo Hollingsworth.

The Oregon Agriculturist says: "Mr. L. M. Gilbert, of Salem, one of the most prominent prune growers of Oregon, recently discussed the matter of marketing prunes with too much moisture in them. He is convinced that a large proportion of Oregon's crop of prunes last year was not dried enough, and that all Oregon prune growers this year will have to pay the penalty. Both growers and packers must share the blame, and for the common good both should see to it that the reputation of Oregon prunes does not suffer further harm by marketing too much water with them. He did not make the suggestion, but it appears probable that under the far-reaching provisions of our national pure food law the selling of too much water in the dried fruits will be deemed an adulteration. If so much water is left or put into dried fruit that it will not keep, its sale is virtually a fraud and we can not see why the percentage of moisture which may be left in dried fruit with safety should not be ascertained and a regulation made which would prevent the sale of dried fruit with more than this amount of moisture. We have been informed by a gentleman who happened to be in a position to know that a fruit packer at a town in California last year insisted upon having his fruit dried to the limit. He then soaked it and charged it with sulphur to make it keep, pocketed thousands of dollars of profit by the transaction and was one of the loudest in protesting against the 'ruinous' regulations of the U. S. Department of Agriculture as to the amount of sulphur which may be permitted in dried fruit."

Eugene Knox Coming.
