Local Events.

Demsey Smith was down from his Washington ranch on the North Bank road the first of the week on business.

Mrs. W. S. Parker left here the first of the week for Vermillion Grove, Illinois, where she will spend some time visiting at the old home with her mother and sister.

Mrs. Clem Niswonger came down from Seattle last week for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Mills, of Springbrook. Clem is a student in the law department of the University of Washington.

The Andreas Bros. grocery business has been sold to Walter Larsen who comes from Vancouver, Washington, Mr. Andreas retaining the building. It is evident from the way Mr. Larsen takes hold that he is no novice at the grocery business.

C. N. Cornelius has leased the hotel and restaurant, the Latonia, six blocks from the Alaska-Yukon Exposition grounds at Seattle and goes this week to take possession of it. Of course he will be prepared to entertain his Newberg friends during the fair.

Palen Clark, who made the trip to Lake county with the Blair crowd and who arrived home last week, expresses himself as being entirely out of harmony with those who believe that will one day be a desirable farming country. He says that the altitude is too great and with no water for irrigation—well he has words of sympathy and pity for those who have taken up land there with a view of making farms.

J. D. Gordon, who recently purchased several head of Shetland ponies at the big stock show in Portland, furnished the principal attraction on the streets Thursday evening of last week when he drove a pair of them into town hitched to a pony buggy. Such a team is always the delight of the children and grown up people admire them as well. Mr. Gordon will no doubt find a ready market for all he will raise, at remunerative prices.

The basketball game and box supper at the college gymnasium last Friday night was a great success. The ball game played by the dormitory patrons and the Freshman team was snappy from start to finish and furnished good entertainment for the crowd, the score being in favor of the former. At the close of the game L. M. Parker auctioned off the boxes at good figures and the total receipts of the evening amounted to about $45, which will be spent in furnishing the parlor at the dormitory.

Commissioners Booth and Cummins were here Monday looking after the repairing of the Chehalis bridge, a span of which was knocked out last week by the Hagey traction engine. They found that the accident was not the result of rotten timbers. The wash of the dirt at the end of the bridge allowed the timbers to slip with the heavy weight of the engine. They contemplate making some long needed improvements there next season by pulling down the hills and filling in at both ends of the bridge, greatly reducing its length and at the same time reducing the grade on the hills. They say it makes them shudder almost when they drive over the county and see the many expensive bridges that are to be kept up, and they contemplate starting in to make fills wherever possible and to cut out all bridges across dry canyons and to shorten all others where fills can be made at the approaches.

Mrs. Alice Noel is expected back from Lake county this week.

The old veteran, J. M. Gilliland, was very sick last week but is better again.

N. C. Maris and son Ralph of Portland visited in town Sunday with relatives.

G. E. Metcalf, of Eugene, visited with his parents at their home northeast of town last Saturday night.

Mrs. D. P. Dowd and babe, of Portland, visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. R. Craven west of town last week.

Evangelist L. F. Stephens will deliver a lecture on his trip around the world at the Christian church Saturday evening.

G. H. Robinson has bought a thirty-five acre tract of land in the Hopewell district out from Amity and will remove to it this week with his family.

P. M. Tallman and wife, recent arrivals from Michigan, have bought a tract of 157 acres of land, mostly timber, near the Amos Nelson farm in West Chehalis.

Charles W. Corby, a Salem attorney, has rented office rooms in the new brick, built this season by Jesse Edwards, where he will open a law office.

Mr. McIntosh has resigned the principalship of the High School and Wm. Kletcher, a graduate of Ann Arbor of the class of 1905 has taken his place.

Mrs. Adna Fogg, of Mount Taber, in company with her sister, Mrs. Oliver Bundy and husband from Ohio, visited in town this week at the home of Arthur Hall on Meridian street.

James Fisher who was one of the "sojer boys" during the war, will make a pretty strong line-up for big William Taft on next Tuesday. His vote with that of six sons and two sons-in-law will make nine for the Ohioan, and it will be no straw vote either.

Newberg filled one coach almost full with teachers Wednesday morning who went to McMinnville to attend the County Institute. Those of the male persuasion who were in the crowd were so badly handicapped in point of numbers that mum was the word with them.

A game of football was played on the college grounds last Saturday between the High School team and a McMinnville team, the latter purporting to be from the county seat High School, but afterward admitted to be a hybrid set. The score was eleven to nothing in favor of the home team.

Judge Lowell spoke to a large audience at Duncan's hall on Monday night and those who heard him, speak in the highest terms of his speech. State Dairy and Food Commissioner J. W. Bailey came up from Portland with the speaker and helped to extend the glad hand. The band was out and gave the best they had on the street before the crowd gathered.

On account of the increasing heavy work at the Southern Pacific station, Clarence Crow, assistant to Mr. James, turned in his resignation to the company a few days ago, he having decided that life was too short to be thrown away for a grasping railroad company. This brought an additional helper and those who have business to transact at the station are glad to know that Mr. Crow will remain.

There is general rejoicing among the residents of town in the vicinity of the old Deskins farm residence, which is one of the ancient landmarks still standing in town, and there is talk of a bonfire and jubilee. It is all on account of the tearing away of the old woodshed and the prospective demolition of the dilapidated cow barn, both of which have been an eyesore to those interested in civic improvement in Newberg. A little of the same spirit shown one block south on First street would help natters some more.

Married.

On Wednesday, Oct. 21, 1908, Miss Grace E. Christenson, of Newberg, to Geo. R. Atkinson, of Goldendale, Washington, at 271 College St., Portland, Rev. Henry A. Barden officiating.

The bride was attended by Miss Hazel Beandry and R. C. Farrell performed the duties of best man.

After the ceremony the party went to the Perkins Grill where they enjoyed a seven course French dinner and after the repast had been given proper attention a large auto car was ordered and the entire company made a tour of the city.

Upon the arrival of the bride and bridegroom at the Christenson home in Newberg they found the family parlors filled to overflowing with young friends of the bride to give her the experience of a linen shower, at which time she received many pretty and useful presents. Just here Mr. Atkinson found that the joke was not to go all one way and a messenger was sent and a store of fruits, nuts and candies was presented and all partook. After the usual greetings the young couple retired, leaving the young couple to enjoy the quiet of home.

Grace, as she is called by her young friends, is the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Christenson, of Newberg, she, having grown to womanhood among us, is well and favorably known, always having taken a leading part in society. At the "Potter Meetings" last spring she embraced Christianity and united with the Methodist Episcopal church. The groom is a son of John Atkinson, a well-to-do farmer of Goldendale, Washington, he having moved from this vicinity some years ago.

Master George and Miss Grace were schoolmates in former years and it appears that ties were formed that could not be broken by the flight of years.

After a brief visit with friends in this vicinity the young couple go to Goldendale where they will make their home. A large concourse of friends unite in wishing them great joy and success in the journey of life. A FRIEND.

Passes Forged Check.

Connie Williams, the seventeen year old son of Ed. Williams, of Dundee, is languishing in the county jail at McMinnville, there to await the action of the grand jury at the March term of court, on a charge of cashing a forged check for the sum of $40.

At an early hour on Monday morning young Williams called at J. C. Porter's store, informing young Smith, one of the clerks, that he wished to purchase a suit of clothes which he selected without much delay. In payment he presented a check for $40 on the First National Bank bearing the name of J. D. Gordon, saying in explanation that he had been working on the Gordon stock farm near Dundee and had received the check in payment for his services. He signed the name "Harold Polky" on the back of the check and it was accepted, Smith retaining $13, the price of the suit, and paying him the balance, $27.

When Mr. Porter arrived at the store a little later and was shown the check his suspicions were aroused, and in communicating with Mr. Gordon he learned that it was a clear case of forgery.

Constable Woods was at once put on the trail of young Williams and in the evening he was located between Sherwood and Tualatin, walking the railroad track and headed in the direction of Portland. He was brought back and on Tuesday morning he was taken before Justice T. Brouillette who sent him to jail as stated above.

In telling his story to the justice he claimed that the check was given him by a stranger who said he would give him half the amount if he would cash the check for him, but he failed to explain his reason for signing a name, other than his own, when endorsing the check. He has spent some time in the State Reform School at Salem.
