Local Events.

The ground is getting dry and a warm rain would be welcomed. Miss Effie Vantress, of Portland, visited in town last Sunday with Miss Ida Wood.

Dr. John S. Rankin went to Champoeg Wednesday afternoon to attend the Hoefer funeral.

Dr. A. M. Davis went to Middleton Tuesday to attend the funeral of his grandfather, John Winters.

Editor Hammerly of the News-Reporter dropped in between trains last Saturday afternoon for a handshake.

Mrs. R. W. Kirk and little daughter have been down from Independence during the week, visiting with relatives.

G. H. Greer is at home again from Pacific Grove, California, where he spent the latter part of the winter very pleasantly.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Switzer, aged one year and two months, and named Hugh Albert, died on last Friday after a short illness.

It is reported that Arthur Hodson is to leave the store the first of the month and assist G. A. Graves in steering the course of the Enterprise.

A shipment of tile making machinery was received by the Newberg Brick and Tile Co., direct from the eastern factory, the first of the week.

J. B. Hunt, a jeweler by trade, arrived here with his family from Henderson, Nebraska, the first of the week. Mrs. Hunt is a niece of Mrs. C. R. Williams.

Will Morris, a former resident of Newberg, who is living in Portland, was shaking hands with former acquaintances in town the first of the week.

C. R. Williams returned from Cloverdale last week, where he went for a short visit with one of his sons who is working on a dairy ranch in that vicinity.

Dr. John S. Rankin is expecting his parents out from Iowa on a visit next month. They are coming by way of Dallas, Texas, where they have a son, and by Los Angeles.

Fred Crawford returned home from a trip to Lake county a few days ago where he went to take a look at the country. It did not appeal to him sufficiently to cause him to file on a claim.

G. M. Bales and wife are expecting to leave here next Monday for California, where they will spend a month or more visiting with their sons and daughters at Bakersfield and Whittier.

Since the change in ownership of the Commercial hotel the front has been given a fresh coat of paint, and a new cement walk has been laid in front, which adds much to the appearance of the property.

L. M. Krick, who bought a farm out in the Springbrook neighborhood a short time ago, is now living at home and boarding at the same place, since his family arrived a few days ago from Kansas.

Mrs. Henry Crow returned home from a five days trip to Portland the first of the week, where she attended a meeting of the Presbyterian board, comprising the states of Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

Rev. A. J. Weaver exchanged pulpits with Rev. L. A. Wells, pastor of the Friends church in Portland last Sunday. The latter preached a strong missionary sermon at the morning service at the Friends church in Newberg.

In the field meet held on the college field on last Saturday afternoon between the Hill Military team and a combination of the college and High School boys, the former were winners, the points won being 71 to 46.

W. F. Hazenburg who owns a farm on Chealem mountain has bought a lot of B. L. Evans, north of the college grounds, which he expects to build on later and remove to Newberg, in order to get the advantage of our schools.

T. E. Wright has sold his interest in the feed and implement business to his partners, Mackie and Taylor, who will continue the business at the same place. He has secured a position with the Newberg Manufacturing and Construction Co.

The McMinnville lads of fourteen to sixteen years who came down last Saturday morning, dressed in glaring red suits, to cross bats with the South Side team, suffered defeat by heavy odds, but they were good natured and game to the last, which showed the right spirit.

Jesse Pressnall was awarded the job of painting four hundred street names for the city at nineteen and a half cents each, and is at work at it. The same size and style of letter as used in the Portland street signs, has been selected, the letters being in black on white background.

The poles of the Yamhill Electric Co. are being treated to a coat of brown paint with a band of black extending up seven feet from the bottom, which adds much to the appearance of them. Now let all the other poles in town be painted and then prohibit bill posting on the poles, and progress may be reported.

Dr. and Mrs. H. V. Hatfield, the former a nephew of Mrs. A. E. Bowman, Charles A. Baxter, superintendent of the Portland Cordage Co., with his little daughter, and Charles Hirschbuhl, master mechanic of the Columbia Steel Works, with his son, came out from Portland and spent Sunday with A. E. Bowman and family at their home north of town.

George Sykes has traded his property on River street to a Portland railroad man named Harris for property in the city, and will probably remove to Portland in about a month. Mr. Harris says he hopes to get out of the railroad harness in the near future, when he proposes to remove to Newberg, a town which he says looks good to him.

John Winters, a Mexican war veteran and Oregon pioneer, whose home was at Middleton, died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Alice M. Clark in Portland, at an early hour last Monday morning. He was over seventy-eight years of age and was a well known figure among the early pioneers. He emigrated from Wetzlar, Prussia, in his early days, and took up his first residence in this country. He is survived by seven children, four sons and three daughters. The sons are, Francis F., John W., Lewis L., and Andrew J. Winters, while the daughters are Mrs. Joanna C. Davis, Mrs. Clara R. O'Connell and Mrs. Alice Clark. Interment was made at Middleton on Tuesday.

John Hoeler, an Oregon pioneer of 1853, died at his home on the farm at Champoeg last Sunday, at the age of eighty-three years. The deceased was born in Germany. For a long term of years he has been associated in business with another old countryman named Zorn, both being hard workers and having the ability to make the most of every turn, and the landed holdings of Hoeler and Zorn in Marion county amount to 5,000 acres, the estimated value of the estate being not less than half a million dollars. John Illig, of Newberg, has been at the bedside of the deceased the greater part of the time for the past month, and he executed the will which disposes of the Hoeler share of the large estate, which it is understood goes to his relatives, Ernest Hoeler, of Newberg, is said to be handsomely remembered in the will, his father being a nephew of the deceased.

President Kelsey and Dr. Nelson Morrison were in Salem Wednesday, in attendance at the State Sunday School convention, the former filling a place on the program.

Ralph Rees was down from O. A. C. to spend Saturday and Sunday at home. He has been trying his hand at walnut grafting this spring, which is something of an art, as few men are able to make a good per cent of walnut grafts grow.

Mrs. Timothy Brownhill and little son, of McMinnville, in company with her sister, Miss Lula Hill, of The Dalles, were in town Wednesday night visiting with the family of Rev. F. C. Stannard. Miss Hill has been attending McMinnville College, but has returned home to take a position as stenographer in the office of Judge Bennett.

W. E. White returned home from Moro, Sherman county, Wednesday evening and reports the sale of his farm at close to $12,000, he retaining this season's crop. He says the prospect for a good wheat yield is very promising, and Sherman county people are feeling their oats to the extent that they are riding about the country in autos.

The ladies aid society out at the new church in West Chealem held a bazaar and box supper one evening last week, for the purpose of raising money to put a cement floor in the basement of the building, which proved to be a great success in every way. The neighbors got together and had a royal good time, and after the men folks had all bought aprons and new spring bonnets, and had stored away all the good things placed before them by the ladies, a count of the cash box showed receipts amounting to the neat sum of $75.36. Of course the ladies were gratified with the results.

Andrew Pickett, whose sickness was announced in the Graphic a short time ago, died at his home at Waitsburg, Washington on April 17, at the age of fifty-eight years. The deceased came to Oregon from Iowa about thirty years ago and settled on a farm near Newberg, which, with the exception of a couple of years spent in California, was his home up to a few years before he removed to Waitsburg some three years. He was a member of the Friends church and a citizen who always held the esteem and confidence of the public. He was a member of the school board when the site of the Newberg public school was selected, the other members being Noah Heater and E. H. Woodward.

Largest Filbert Orchard in Oregon.

H. C. Eakin, Dallas' newly elected Mayor, now boasts the largest filbert orchard in Oregon, his fruit and nut farm near Rickreall having 4000 trees of that kind planted upon it. In addition to the tract set in filberts, he has another planted with 950 apple trees and still another on which 1050 walnut trees are set out, making a total of 6000 trees in the entire orchard. Until the fruit and nut trees come into bearing he will plant other crops between the rows, so that the land may not be entirely unproductive in the meantime. The crop planted last year was potatoes and the product more than paid expenses of maintaining the orchard in proper cultivation.—Observer.
