

Little Soldiers

In your blood are the millions of organisms that defend you against disease.

To make and keep these little soldiers healthy and strong, is simply to make and keep the blood of the right quality and quantity.

This is just what Hood's Sarsaparilla does—it helps the little soldiers in your blood to fight disease for you.

It cures scrofula, eczema, eruptions, catarrh, rheumatism, anemia, nervousness, dyspepsia, general debility, and builds up the whole system.

THE TRUE MAPLE FLAVOR.

Housewives Welcome a Maple Flavor That Has the Real Maple Taste.

Vermonters have a reputation for the quality of the maple syrup produced in their state. It is but a few years since the discovery was made of a method of imparting this delicious flavor to dishes without the use of maple syrup. The new flavoring extract was appropriately named Mapleine.

Strange as it may seem, Vermonters themselves cannot tell the difference between syrup made with Mapleine and that which comes from their own Green Mountain state. This is due to the purity of the ingredients and the care used in the manufacture.

Mapleine is perfectly healthful, is purely vegetable and makes a syrup that is equal to any and superior to many brands of maple syrup that are placed on the market.

Flavoring for cakes, icings, blanc manges, sauce, etc., that is delicious and has all the piquancy and delicacy of maple syrup can be readily made by the addition of a few drops of Mapleine to a little water in which granulated sugar has been dissolved. Mapleine makes such dishes as rice, tapioca, stale bread, etc., simply irresistible to children.

Mapleine Dainties is the title of a booklet full of wholesome receipts published by the Crescent Manufacturing company, who make Mapleine. The booklet will be sent free to anyone who asks for it. You can buy Mapleine of your grocer. Try it, you'll like it as thousands of others have. Here is a sauce for puddings that is delicious:

Whites of two eggs, one and one-half cups of granulated sugar, one cup of milk and one teaspoonful of Mapleine. Mapleine can be used anywhere that other flavoring extracts are used.

Seemed to Awaken Memories.

Tommy—Paw, what is three card monte?

Mr. Tucker—It's the most diabolical, infernal swindle that ever anybody—er—er—O, it's some sort of gambling game with cards, I believe, Tommy.—Chicago Tribune.

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

Where It Landed Him.

With a dazed look in his bloodshot eyes the man who had been on a jag for a week or more and had wandered over the country in a half delirious condition without knowing where he was going came to himself.

He was in a strange city. Everything around him looked unfamiliar.

"Officer," he said, stopping a policeman, "what town is this?" "Anaconda," answered the policeman. "Then I've got 'em again!" he groaned.—Chicago Tribune.

A Reason for Helping.

The poor help the poor more than the rich help them. An official of the Department of Charities in New York recently remarked this trait.

"Everything has its cause, its simple and striking cause. If we can but find it," he said. "Once, in a miserable slum, I heard two little girls talking about this matter of poverty and wealth and helplessness.

"Why is it," said the first, "that the poor allus is more willin' to help us than the rich?"

"The second child replied promptly, and not without some bitterness. 'Them wot don't mind givin' is the ones wot stays poor.'"

THE BLOOD-STAINED THRONE OF SERVIA

King Peter Finds It No Joke to Rule the Fiery Little European Monarchy.

HIS PREDECESSORS BUTCHERED.

The Crown Prince George Retires and Alexander, a Younger Brother, Takes His Place.

No monarch in modern times ever ascended a bloodier throne than that to which King Peter of Serbia was called in 1903. No one at the time expected that he would escape assassination or be permitted to reign for any length of time. In fact it was a long time before the powers accepted him with any cordiality, for it was hard to believe that he was entirely innocent of at least a previous knowledge of the terrible tragedy which was to shock the civilized world and place a throne at his disposal. But he has borne himself well and has held the hot-tempered and factional people of his little kingdom well in check. Lately his greatest danger has lain with his eldest son, the boastful firebrand, Crown Prince George. That danger now seems to be past, however, with the renunciation of his rights on the part of the prince and his retirement in favor of his more conservative brother, Alexander.

Newspaper readers will have no difficulty in recalling the tragedy of the palace at Belgrade on the night of June 10, 1903. King Alexander and his wife, Queen Draga, had exhausted the patience of their subjects. The King, deaf to all the suggestions of common decency, was wont to spend his time in the most questionable circles of Paris and to keep himself almost constantly in a condition of besotted drunkenness. Over and over again he would have resigned in compliance with the wishes of his subjects, but his Queen was made of sterner stuff, even though she was scarcely a more admirable character.

Finally came the tragedy. In the dead of night traitorous statesmen and soldiers broke into the palace and forced their way to the royal bed chamber. Then Alexander demonstrated that there was still a spark of manhood left in him. He fought valiantly and gradually retreated to a closet where he was hewn down. The wretched Queen shared his fate. Chopped beyond semblance to human beings, the bodies of the King and Queen were thrown out of the palace window into the court yard.

The Coming of Peter. Then Peter, a descendant of a former dynasty, residing in seclusion in Switzerland, was sent for and was elevated to the bloodstained throne. There was a demand on the part of the powers that he punish the regicides, but he was either unwilling or not strong enough to do this and the murderers retained their places of prominence and influence.

Half a dozen times it has been rumored that Peter would prefer to abandon his scepter and again seek the safety and comfort of private life, but the unpopularity of his eldest son made this impossible unless he cared to see some member of the old dynasty or some scion of one of the great powers of Europe elevated to the Serbian throne. The crown prince has been a thorn in the flesh of King Peter for several years. He has had as a following a large number of the younger and more erratic of these fiery people and has been given to some very silly boasting.

When a few months ago Austria-Hungary gobbled up Bosnia and Herzegovina Serbia went mad with indignation and there sprang into existence a party who would appeal to arms and declare war against their giant enemy. Peter realized the hopelessness of any such effort, but the crown prince, boastful and braggart, talked loudly in the cafes and jangled his sword as he walked or rode about the streets of the capital. He made a visit to Russia and expected to meet with every encouragement there, but the Czar advised the young man to go about his business and do less talking.

George returned to Serbia and sulked in his tent. His father threatened him with arrest unless he abandoned his warlike attitude, but there was still a large element which drilled and strutted and talked of wiping Austria off the map if George would only lead them to the fray.

Peter tried in every way to induce the powers to interfere and compel Austria either to restore the two provinces to their former state or to remunerate Serbia for the loss of Serb prestige. But, while the nations grumbled at the high-handed act of Austria-Hungary, the dual kingdom was adamant. Francis Joseph knew he had his people solidly behind him. He was prepared for an appeal to arms. He realized that Germany stood ready to side with him and to frustrate any effort Great Britain might make in favor of the Serbs. Russia, to the surprise and indignation of the Servians, instead of proving their champion, consented to the policy of Austria with scarcely a murmur. King Peter realized that war would mean the effacing of his little kingdom and has used his influence to keep his angry subjects in check. By the collective action of the powers at Belgrade the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina became a closed incident.
