

Pacific College Notes.

The quarterly meeting of the Board of Managers of The College occurred Saturday evening, May 8.

Lillian and Martin Johnson, who were students at the college during the first two terms this year, left Wednesday for their home at Heppner.

Work is progressing nicely on the Shakespearian entertainment, which will be given Tuesday, May 25. The scene from "Merchant of Venice" will be of especial merit, while "The Perplexing Situation" is always entertaining. Remember the date.

Rev. A. J. Weaver's educational address at the Saturday evening session of the quarterly meeting of the Friends church, showed vividly the need of a college education. His address was made forcetel by statistics showing the excess in income of the college graduate over that of others.

The ones having in charge the entertainment for Tuesday, May 25, are endeavoring to secure Prof. Rayner W. Kelsey to give some readings from Riley on that evening. Prof. Kelsey is well known by many of the people of Newberg, and will add greatly to the value of the evening's program.

High School Items.

(By the Priores Press Committee.)

The debating team accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Wiley went to Pendleton Tuesday evening to participate in the fourth debate of the season which will be Thursday evening. The question is the same as that of the last one, "Resolved that the U. S. should maintain a system of bounties and subsidies for the protection of the merchant marine." Our team has the affirmative. They expect to return Friday morning.

The Priores and Zeta Alphas are well pleased with the pictures they have had taken although several attempts were made before coming to a satisfactory result. The officers of the societies, classes and Y. W. C. A. and base ball team also had theirs taken. All of these are for the senior annual.

Carola Sold.

The Commercial Club has purchased a carola from Sherman, Clay & Co. This instrument differs from all other player pianos in that all melody notes are accented, thereby eliminating the mechanical effect so noticeable in other player pianos. In addition to this feature the Carola contains a transforming device which enables the operator to accompany the voice in any key desired. It can also be played by hand in the usual way. This instrument is a wonder and should be heard by everyone. Carola recitals every afternoon and evening at Sherman, Clay Co's store near Moores drug store on First street.

Chehalem Center.

W. R. Carter, who has been down with a lingering illness for a long while is gradually declining, much to the sorrow of his many friends. His sisters and a cousin, the Madams, French, Hinkle and Leveritch, also a half brother Chas. Adams, and other relatives arrived the first of the week.

J. P. Barnhart and family departed for Texas Wednesday of last week. While their many friends here look for their return to old Oregon, they wish them well in their new home.

Last Tuesday afternoon a number of the ladies of the W. C. T. U. gathered at the home of Mrs. Hyde to hold a Mother's Meeting. After bible reading, prayer and singing, a number of good papers were read pertaining to the rearing and management of children. How they should be taught from infancy, to be temperate, industrious, neat and tidy in every way. A number of the ladies discussed their methods and experience in training in ways of neatness and after a very profitable meeting adjourned to meet again in the near future.

A "Murphy" Story.

Kansas newspapers are "passing on" this story which is going the rounds, and the unanimous verdict is that it is good. It is to the effect that a freckle-faced girl stopped at the post office and yelled out:

"Anything for the Murphys?"

"No, there is not."

"Anything for Jane Murphy?"

"Nothing."

"Anything for Ann Murphy?"

"No."

"Anything for Tom Murphy?"

"No."

"Anything for Bob Murphy?"

"No, not a bit."

"Anything for Terry Murphy?"

"No, nor for Pat Murphy, nor Dennis Murphy, nor Pete Murphy, nor Paul Murphy, nor for any Murphy—dead, living, born or unborn, native or foreign, civilized or uncivilized, savage or barbarous, male or female, black or white, franchised or unfranchised, naturalized or otherwise. No, there is positively nothing for any of the Murphys, either individually, jointly, severally, now and forever, one and inseparable."

The girl looked at the postmaster in astonishment, and said: "Please to look if there is anything for Clarence Murphy."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Suggestive Quotations on the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Linacott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

MAY 23rd, 1909.

The Council at Jerusalem. Acts xv: 1-35. Golden Text.—We believe that through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ we shall be saved, even as they. Acts xv: 11.

Verses 1-5.—Are good men liable to hold wrong opinions? When good men differ in opinion what is the better way in order to reach an understanding? When a professed Christian gets angry with another Christian, on a mere matter of opinion, has he or not backslidden from the love of God, and what spirit does it show? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Circumcision no doubt originated from supposed purposes of health, and physical cleanliness, and afterwards became a national institution of the Jews. State when God first made circumcision the sign, or token, of the covenant between him and Abraham and his seed, and to whom the rite of circumcision and God's covenant extended. (See Gen. xvii.)

Is circumcision now essential to salvation? Is the belief of any doctrine essential to salvation?

Verses 6-11.—Is experience of God and his dealings with us, conclusive proof of the will of God in the matters which the experience covers?

Is thorough discussion in church courts, a perfectly right way to arrive at the will of God on any matter?

Were those who taught that circumcision was essential to salvation, as well as being narrow, necessarily untrue men?

What is the difference between the "yoke" of the law and the "yoke" of Jesus? (v. 18.) Verse 12.—Recall some of the wonders done through Paul and Barnabas, among the Gentiles, and say what bearing they had upon the dispute concerning circumcision?

Verses 13-21.—Who was James, who next addressed the council? James, the brother of Jesus, was the president of this council; it is probable that his address was of the nature of the judgment of the council on this question?

Verses 22-29. There seems to have been no formal motion passed by the council, but they appear to have reached an unanimous decision as outlined in the address of the president; say whether we are bound to take this decision as the vote of God.

In what particulars is the great wisdom of the council shown in settling this dispute? Were each of the commandments given in verse 29 intended to be of lasting obligation, or were some of them only temporary?

From whom are Christians to get guidance on all matters in this day? Verses 30-35.—There never will be a time when disputes may not occur, in the church and between individuals; how should they always be settled?

Did this trouble in the church help it or hurt it, and does God always over-rule trouble whenever may be the cause of it, for the good of his children?

Lesson for Sunday, May 30th, 1909. Believing and Doing. James 1:14-25.

No man's sore is as big as his groan.

Osteopathy and Chemistry.

How can he get well unless he "takes something" is often asked. I know there is a traditional rut many fathoms deep that this "take something" class love to revel in and tho they have been at it a score of years they still continue—don't want to get well so couldn't be induced to change.

Showing a group of women the catalogue of the osteopathic school at Kirksville, Mo., and pointing out a half tone photo of a group of students in the chemical laboratory several of them asked together: "What! Do you osteopaths study chemistry? What do you need with it?" "Osteopaths need to be well rounded physicians, as much as anyone." They study chemistry to learn of antiseptics, antidotes to poisons, and to know the action of chemicals (drugs.) Then again physiological chemistry, the chemistry of the body is most important. The natural secretions of the organs of the body have their chemical action, reaction and interaction on the body tissues, on each other and on food. Physiological Chemistry is one of the most important branches of study for any physician. Osteopaths study it the last half of their course (for a year and a half.) It is a fascinating study, yet the older Schools of Medicine give it but slight attention. Dr. E. R. Booth of Cincinnati well puts it when he said in his address at Albany, N. Y., before the State Osteopathic Ass'n on "The Adequacy of Osteopathy," Oct. 08. "While it is true that almost every cult harps upon the necessity of relying upon nature to correct abnormal conditions, nearly all except osteopaths resort to the most unnatural means. The drug doctor uses chemicals, uncertain of their composition and much more uncertain as to the exact quantity to be used in each case, notwithstanding the established fact, that the body does, every day, every hour, and every minute manufacture its own chemicals in absolutely correct compositions and in the exact quantities required to antidote toxic conditions. Practically all of the thousands of drugs that have been exploited as sure cures are poisonous, foreign to the body and unnatural."

Osteopaths study and understand chemistry, especially the chemistry of the human body. If there are those who prefer to take something—some chemical, foreign to the body—and continue to suffer and be miserable a No. of months or years when any real, genuine osteopath could relieve and cure them in a few weeks or months, sometimes in a few days, why, we would say, that is their privilege. If they enjoy it they will go on and continue to suffer. We certainly have no reason to complain.

Think of using crushed spiders or the poison of asps for sores and diseases of the body, as do the ancient Hindus or the Heathen Chinese and Koreans. How much better is it for enlightened physicians to use the poisons of the dead tubercle bacilli in treating and testing tuberculosis? That is what this "tuberculin" is. At least that is what the magazine, "Life and Health" says in an editorial on "The Early Diagnosis of Tuberculosis," in the last April issue.

In the July Lancet-clinic 1908, of Cincinnati, Ohio, H. B. Weaver, M. D. of Ashville, N. C. has an article on "Vaccine or Tubercular Therapy in the Treatment of Tuberculosis," in which he says:

Hear the Great Carola, the Most Marvelous Piano Ever Built.

Policy of the Sherman, Clay & Company Organization.

Reliability. One price to all. Superior quality of goods. A "square deal" to everybody. A small margin added to wholesale cost is our profit. Easy terms of ownership is the explanation of our large and increasing business. No fake sales or spasmodic reduction of prices in any of our line of stores. To offer an expensive article today at one price, tomorrow at another and later at half price indicates either an enormous profit or an unreliable policy. Sherman, Clay & Company shuns such deceptive methods, believing that an instrument of merit is worth as much today as it was yesterday or will be tomorrow. A child can buy a piano as safely and as cheaply from us as can the most experienced business man. No firm can build a large and permanent business unless it be founded upon honor. The fundamental principle upon which Sherman, Clay & Company is operating is honesty, believing,

"To thine own self be true and it must follow as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man."

The secret of successful selling is found in successful buying. Sherman, Clay & Company buys direct from the manufacturer, carloads at a time, saving much money by this wholesale purchasing method as well as by large freight shipments. Hence, the reasonableness of our prices.

It is recognized by this company that a very large percentage of pianos is sold on easy terms of ownership. It has been made a definite policy of this firm, therefore, to make these purchasing terms as convenient for the buyer as sound business principles will permit.

In line with its policy to sell none but the best, Sherman, Clay & Company is able to announce that every piano that it handles, of whatever price or quality, is the very best that the price can buy. For instance, the Steinway, Everett, A. B. Chase, Conover, Packard, Ludwig, Estey, Emerson, Kingsbury, Kurtzmann and Wellington.
