A babe of E. S. Hall, of St. Johns, whose wife was buried here a few weeks ago, was brought here for burial last Sunday.

Mrs. Eva Hummer Hull and son, Alexander Hull, went to Philomath today to give a concert in connection with the college.

Miss Lena Spangle, who is teaching at Independence was in town last Saturday and Sunday visiting with some of her former college mates.

C. A. Eldridge was a member of the graduating class at the Dental College at Portland, the closing exercises of which were held a few days ago.

J. H. Douglas, the photo man, is at home again from Pasadena, California, where he spent several weeks with his father, who has been dangerously sick.

If you read the varied program of the entertainment to be given at Duncans hall on Tuesday evening of next week, published in this issue, you will want to attend.

D. D. Coulson writes his Newberg friends from Portland that he will attend the big convention of bankers as a delegate, which will be held in Seattle the latter part of June.

W. P. Heacock has a very attractive new house about completed on his seventeen acre tract, which is a part of the Bowerman place near town on the northwest.

Born, May 13 to Mr. and Mrs. Allen Johnson, a baby boy. The youngster is a great grandson of Mrs. D. M. Sivyver and is well supplied with grandparents on both sides of the house.

A. F. Fosdick, and Victor Fosdick with his wife and child, old Wisconsin friends of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Christenson, were up from Portland a day or two last week visiting with them.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Newberg Telephone Co., will be held in the Odd Fellows hall on Friday evening, for the purpose of reorganization under the increased capital stock.

Mrs. N. C. Maris, who was in attendance at the Woodward King wedding, will spend a few days in town visiting with relatives and friends, before returning to her home in Portland.

Rev. A. J. Weaver, Mrs. Maria Bowerman, Allen Pemberton and wife and Mrs. Ida Wiley, of Rex, were in Salem last Saturday and Sunday in attendance at Salem quarterly meeting of Friends church.

Jesse Edwards returned home from his trip to Ashland the first of the week feeling much better than when he went away. He visited a mineral spring up in the Siskiyou mountains, south of Ashland, located at an altitude of more than 4000 feet, and found the water to be very similar to the water at Shasta springs. He thinks it could be made a very popular resort if it was well advertised.

Rachel M. Edwards, aged eighty years and ten months, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Rocklette Eggers, in Newberg last Saturday night. Funeral services were held at the M. E. church on Monday.

Harvey D. Crumly left here on Wednesday morning for the Sound country where he will take up work for the season on his surveying contract with the government. Mack Kaufman went with him and others will follow later.

Owen R. Maris, who holds a position in the United States National bank in Portland, is off on a vacation of two weeks, and is intending to spend a good portion of the time roughing it at the Parker farm on Chehalem mountain.

The public school entertainment given on Friday night of last week was a success from every point of view. An enjoyable entertainment was given and a crowd was in attendance sufficient to turn in net profits above expenses amounting to $20.

Prof. Wallace A. Newlin, who, it was announced last week would pursue graduate study at the University of California next year, has since received notice of his appointment by the regents of that institution as assistant in the department of Mathematics.

The Mrs. Ann B. Lamb property on the corner of Fifth and Meridian streets has been sold to Mrs. Behneke. Mrs. Lamb, we understand, will buy property in Berkeley, California, where she and her daughter, Miss May, have been located for the past three years.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Horton arrived home from their visit with relatives at Corona, California, last Saturday. They visited a number of the various points of interest and were very favorably impressed with the country, especially so with the Riverside country.

D. W. Cummins, the Independence real estate man, who was in town the first of the week, said crops up the valley were needing rain very badly. In fact he said the outlook was very discouraging for farmers on account of the lack of the needed amount of moisture.

Dr. James A. Lyman, who owns a fruit farm on the side of Chehalem mountain above Springbrook, and who has been a professor in Portland Academy for a number of years, was a guest at the Imperial last Sunday. He recently returned from Southern California and next year he will occupy a chair in Pomona College in that state, a position which he went to investigate.

Charley Lapp, Wesley Boyes and Chas. E. Fuller have formed a partnership for the manufacture and sale of a black roof paint, which will be sold under the name "Black Beauty Roof Paint," the firm name being Newberg Paint Co. The paint has been given a thorough trial and has given such universal satisfaction that they feel that success is assured. Mr. Boyes has taken to the road for the sale of the output.

In working through the old files of the Oregonian at the Oregon Historical Society rooms in Portland, the writer found the other day the report of the proceedings of the first anti-slavery or free soil convention ever held in Oregon. The convention was held at Albany, June 27, 1855. The names of those in attendance are given and among them is that of J. B. Forsyth, who died in Portland but a few weeks ago. Thirty-nine names appear, and of all those in attendance at this historic meeting, Mr. Forsyth was the next to the last survivor. This is according to Geo. H. Himes walking encyclopedia on Oregon History, who says that the only one of the thirty-nine now living is W. C. Johnson of Portland, who was secretary of the convention.

Jas. Vestal attended Salem quarterly meeting of Friends church last Saturday and Sunday.

H. B. Hall, the salary and allowance man for the postal department, was in town today, Thursday, conferring with the new postmaster, C. B. Wilson, relative to new quarters for the local office.

Mrs. John B. Weed of Whittier, California, and Mrs. M. H. David of Grants Pass, Oregon, arrived last evening to make a visit at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heater, in the Springbrook neighborhood.

New ties are being laid on the railroad switch leading to the brick factory and sawmill and that part of the track running through the main part of town is to be ballasted with gravel. When this is completed it will be much more satisfactory, not only to the railroad company and the mill and factory people, but also to the citizens of Newberg.

Mountain Top school, district 54, Lloyd Northup teacher, gave an entertainment and basket supper, March 15, with a large number of visitors present. The main features were a play, "A Family Affair," which was well rendered by local talent, and two drills by the school children. The proceeds amounting to $39.45 will be used in the interest of the school.

The elements gave the timid ones, who were longing for an excuse for remaining at home from church last Sunday what they were hoping for, as a cloud of narrow margin passed over town at 10:30, giving us an old time soaker. It was evidently sent for the special benefit of Newberg as the district immediately north and west of town got scarcely enough rain to lay the dust. A more general rain came at night which was greatly appreciated.

Morris Heacock, in company with Walter Dunlap, made his first trip to Salem last Saturday, although twenty years of his life has been spent at Newberg. While there he visited the Hanson sash and door factory, and the owner of the plant would not let him get away until he had agreed to take a position as foreman in the factory at good wages. He says he dislikes to leave Newberg, but the offer was such he could not afford to turn it down. In the course of a week he will remove to the capital city with his family.
