Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Edwards, who spent a week at the mineral springs at Coletsin, in the Siskiyou mountains in the southern part of the state are at home again.

S. W. Atkinson reports the sale of ten head of Jersey cows and heifers to a party at Corvallis named Bristow. Shipment of the stock was made by boat last Saturday.

There will be no services in the Baptist church Sunday evening, June 6 on account of the Baccalaureate sermon by Chaplain Gilbert to the High school graduating class.

L. M. H. Elliott and wife, of Carthage, Missouri, who have been visiting with a daughter at Napa, California, are here this week visiting with his brother, M. P. Elliott north of town. Mr. Elliott has been a resident of Missouri for a number of years and is president of the Bank of Alba, at Alba, near Carthage.

The ladies' Wednesday club and the honorary factors represented in "mere man," were entertained Friday evening at the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Terrell.

Mrs. Ida Yeager, of Chicago, who lost her husband recently, arrived here a few days ago and will spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Fisher, in Newberg.

A special meeting of Willamette Presbytery will be held in Newberg Monday evening June 7 to install Rev. John F. Lyons as pastor of the Presbyterian church. The public is invited.

Mrs. Jennie Remington and daughter, Miss Hallie arrived home a few days ago, after a three weeks visit with relatives and friends in Clackamas and Marion counties.

Prof. and Mrs. R. W. Kelsey, who spent two weeks here visiting with relatives, left for Tacoma and Seattle Monday, on the way to their future work at Haverford, Pennsylvania.

H. D. Crumly and his government surveying crew, who are working in the mountain district of the Sound country in Washington, write that they have been wading in two feet of snow.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Steddum, relatives of the Terrells, arrived Saturday from Oskaloosa, Iowa, with the expectation of remaining two or three months, just long enough to spoil them for the "Iowa Idea."

A laborer at the sawmill west of town was so badly crippled in an accident occurring one day last week that he was taken to a Portland hospital. One leg was broken in two places and one hip badly crushed. He was a new man out from Portland.

Rev. J. M. Moore of Boston, Massachusetts will deliver an address in the Baptist church Friday evening, this week on the Missionary Forward Movement. Mr. Moore is an interesting speaker and should have a good hearing. All are invited.

On Wednesday evening of last week in the city of Boise, Idaho, O. H. Allen, formerly of Newberg, was married to Mrs. Mary Dell Averill, the ceremony being performed at the residence of the grooms brother, O. V. Allen. They will reside in Boise.

Miss Carrie Raphael, a Jewish woman and an invalid, who was being cared for by Mrs. Marion George at her home near the college grounds, died on Monday morning. The remains were shipped to Portland for burial, where her relatives reside, on Tuesday afternoon.

Ernest Hofer recently returned from a trip to the upper Columbia country, where he spent several days seeing the Hood River valley, the Mosier country and the farming and fruit growing land back of The Dalles. He came home convinced that Chehalis valley is the cream of the country.

Jay Heston, who had been lingering with tuberculosis for several months, died at the home of his mother, Mrs. Ruth Heston on Wynoski street Wednesday night. Funeral services will be conducted at the home on Friday evening at five o'clock. Friends may call between the hours of one and three o'clock.

One day, last week it was reported that a babies' finger had been drawn from a faucet at the brick factory, and by the next day the find had increased in size until it was a baby, and it had been taken from one of the reservoirs supplying Newberg with water. It was all so silly the Graphic did not deem it worthy a denial, but since the report has gained wide circulation some think it best to nail the fabrication. If the report is still going, no doubt a whole family, including the hired girl, have been dragged from the concrete pool ere this. When the reservoir was cleaned five eggs were found in the water, one of which was broken.

F. C. Mills visited in Portland Sunday with his brother-in-law, Hinchman Cooper, who has sold his furniture business in Estacada and gone to the city to live in the family with his son-in-law, Willard Grabel.

Clarence Crow, who recently took a layoff and went to his home at Merlin in Josephine county, is back again at his old place, slinging baggage and milk cans at the Southern Pacific station. He says they have had no rain to speak of at his home for three months and the hills are dry and parched, but the rain of this week reached them. The prospect for a good peach crop he reports to be excellent. Much interest is being taken in the planting of grapes, the famous Tokay being the favorite, and land is selling at a good figure.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Terrell gave the college faculty contingent a jolly time Saturday evening and also some very toothsome eatings. The favored ones were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Douglas Jr., Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Rengan, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Steddum, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Kelsey, Pres. W. I. Kelsey, Miss Esther Andrews, Mrs. Eva H. Hull, Messrs. Alexander Hull, W. A. Newlin and W. C. Woodward. Prof. R. W. Kelsey with readings and the Hulls with music, contributed much to the pleasure of the evening.

Miss Ida May Stone, Newberg's representative in the Telegram contest for the Alaska trip, came out second among the contestants of this district, the young lady from Hood River coming in first. However, the margin between the two was so narrow, that Miss Stone has the promise of the Telegram people that if by June 16th she brings in fourteen more one year subscriptions, they will also take her on the coveted excursion trip. She has worked long and faithfully and at a good deal of expense, in this contest, and we don't believe Newberg people will be willing to see her disappointed when so near the goal.

The South Newberg ball team, made up of lads, went to McMinnville to play Monday, and brought back the scalps of their opponents, the score being 7 to 1, though the team was crippled by the absence of the regular second and third basemen. Armstrong, the short stop, went to play for the High School, Slater filling his place and proved to be a good man. Coffin, former second baseman, is now working behind the bat and filled that position, while Elliott, of the North team, played second, and Vincent of the North team filled the place of Bisset on third, who was unable to play. Parker did some foxy work on first and the way he got onto the high ones was a wonder. There was some hard hitting done, which availed little however, as Slater and Parker raked them in like hot cakes. A good game was played by both teams.

C. D. Darst has sold his interest in the furniture business to W. W. Hollingsworth, who has taken his son, Jo as partner, and the firm name is now W. W. Hollingsworth and Son. During the year Jo has completed the course at the Holmes Business College, in Portland, and has also taken a thorough course in embalming, and consequently he is now well fitted to take an interest in the store. The Hollingsworth furniture and undertaking business has built up steadily, since the beginning in a small way a few years ago, and the past year has shown a very satisfactory balance on the right side of the ledger. No undertaking establishment in the Willamette valley is better fitted than theirs, a fact that is conceded by those who are posted. A new brick building has been under consideration for some time by Mr. Hollingsworth, but since buying out his partner he has decided to let it go over until next season.
