

Dundee Items.

Miss Elizabeth Hatch spent a few days in Portland last week.

Miss Lizzie Gilmore is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. D. McEwan.

Bernard Groth is building an addition to his hardware store.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Baker are down from Sheridan on a visit.

Last week Charles Floyd sold his hops on the vines at a good figure.

Samuel Parrett and Elwin McCornack made business trips to Portland this week.

Edward Janssen, of Sheridan, made a business trip to Dundee the first of the week.

E. S. Greer and wife are visiting Mrs. Greer's parents in Tacoma and attending the A. Y. P.

There will be no church services Sunday on account of the absence of Rev. Knott. Sunday School as usual.

I. A. Hanning, the genial agent of the Capitol City Nursery of Salem, canvassed the Red Hills last week.

Thursday last Mrs. F. B. Keyes received from Maine a present of a beautiful decorated china dinner set.

Miss Rose Young and Miss Anna Lena Christopher, of Portland, are spending their vacation at Otterbrook Farm.

"Uncle" George Robison, a pioneer of Yamhill Co., who lives at North Yamhill, is visiting his nephew, Roe Robison.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fox and family, of Palo Alto, California, have been visiting Mrs. Fox's aunt, Mrs. G. W. Byers.

E. Bellich's new six-tunnel drier is nearing completion. Henry Holtzmeier has also erected a new six-tunnel evaporator.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, of Miller Mountain, are rejoicing over the arrival of a daughter. Mrs. Miller was formerly Miss Wolfe, for five years a teacher in Dundee.

Medric Greer thinks he is running Prof. Powell a close second in the extinction of the ground squirrel. With the assistance of his faithful collie, Medric has an even sixty squirrels to his credit. Next!

Charles Raker, formerly of Dundee, now teaming for the Portland Electric Co., lost a valuable span of horses recently from pink-eye. Mr. Raker's other span is also sick with the same disease.

Thursday P. M. Mrs. Fred Hess, assisted by Miss Lena West, entertained her music pupils with a candy pull. All but one of her pupils were present and report a delightful afternoon. Those belonging to the class are the Misses, Ella Groth, Sophia Groth, Jessie Conlee, Mabel Swink, Doris Parrott, Eva Parrott, Bernice Keyes, Rhoda Imus, and Elmer Shannahan.

"At this time of the year all men look alike to me." No, it was not the wall of a society belle anxiously awaiting the arrivals at a fashionable summer resort, but a remark of a staid matron of Dundee, in explanation of her failure to recognize a neighbor. No matter what a man's complexion or the original color of his clothing after he has worked in the harvest fields or done teaming on these dusty roads a few days, he looks exactly like every other man similarly employed.

Reinhart Groth, for the past three and one half years a member of Uncle Sam's navy, has finished his apprenticeship and intends to make his home with his parents in Dundee. Not even his position as chief blacksmith on the Cruiser Albany could compensate for the monotonous life of a "Jackie." Reinhart is glad to be master of his own time once more, and Pa Groth, the busiest and most necessary man in Dundee these days of preparation for prunedrying, now wears that smile that won't come off, since he has such an able assistant.

West Chehalem.

Frank Nelson started on his season's run with the threshing machine last Friday.

An ice cream social will be held at the church next Saturday night, August 14. A large crowd is expected and everybody will be made welcome.

August 5 at an early hour the Brisbane sawmill was reduced to a heap of smoldering ashes. It is thought the sparks from the engine caught in the sawdust.

The lawn social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Calkins was attended by a large crowd for this part of the country and both Mr. and Mrs. Calkins spared no time or expense in arranging and fixing up of the premises. The home was decorated with bunting of stars and stripes and magic lanterns were strung all over the yard. A table was also arranged where ice cream and cake were served and this was also decorated in a way to make a very pleasing effect. The crowd engaged in social games until a late hour and after partaking liberally of ice cream and cake and heartily thanking the host and hostess for the delightful evening the guests departed for their homes.

A Sad Case.

"Billy" Barnes, at one time district attorney, tells the San Francisco Call this story regarding former Judge W. T. Wallace, one of the best-known jurists in the history of San Francisco:

Wallace was examining a candidate for admission to the bar. All questions had been satisfactorily answered and the lawyer to be had passed so brilliantly that Wallace decided to put a simple question to terminate the ordeal. Gazing benignly at the young man, he asked: "What is the liability of a common carrier?"

Although lawyers the world over and from time immemorial have wrestled with this problem; though millions of words have been taken into the record of various cases in which this unanswerable question was involved, the fledgling calmly eyed the judge and at last solemnly replied: "Your honor, I must beg you to withdraw the question. I did know the answer, but, unfortunately, I have forgotten."

For a minute Wallace eyed the young man, then, turning to the lawyers who were grouped around him, remarked: "Gentlemen, this is a sad case; in fact, a calamity. The only living man who ever knew the liability of a common carrier has forgotten."

Card of Thanks.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Suggestive Quotations on the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Linacott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

Aug. 15th, 1909.

Paul's Third Missionary Journey—Ephesus. Lesson Acts xviii: 23 to xix: 22.

Golden Text.—The name of the Lord Jesus was magnified. Acts xix: 17.

Verse 23.—Is a systematic "follow up system," as essential in Christian work as it is to successful business?

Are any so strong that we cannot derive "strengthening" from the prayers and the experience of others, and are any so weak that we may not "strengthen" others?

Verses 24-26.—What is the minimum of knowledge necessary in order that one may be a true child of God?

What are the minimum qualities essential to become a preacher of the gospel?

What good qualities for a preacher did this man Apollos possess?

What did "the baptism of John" include, and what did it lack of full orb'd Christianity?

What percentage of present day preachers will exceed Apollos (1) in their zeal and ability, (2) in their Christian knowledge, i. e., personal experience, of Christ's gospel?

If Apollos had been conceited or anything less than a man of God, would he have submitted to teaching from a layman and his wife?

Verse 27.—Should laymen use the pen more frequently to help preachers, whom they know who are going to other towns?

Verse 28.—Why is it that God has conditioned all human progress and betterment, including a knowledge of the gospel, upon the zeal, ability and goodness of those who already enjoy its benefits?

Chap xix: 1-7.—Were these twelve persons whom Paul found at Ephesus, actually the reconciled children of God at this time?

What proportion, of present day Christians, have practically the same experience as these twelve disciples had, when Paul met them?

Is the Holy Spirit, as spoken of in this lesson, generally received at or subsequent to conversion?

If it is now the privilege of every Christian to receive the Holy Spirit, and to walk in Him thereafter, how may He be received?

Was the gift of tongues and prophesying then, or is it now, a necessary accompaniment of the baptism of the Holy Spirit? (See I Cor. 12: 4-11; 29, 30.)

Is there anything necessarily implied in receiving the Holy Spirit, other than the constant realization that God dwells in us, to keep us holy, to guide us in all things, and to give us necessary power and wisdom to carry out God's purposes concerning us?

Verse 8.—Why ought, or ought not, the pulpit now, as Paul did then, to "dispute," or argue, and bring convincing proofs, compelling men's reasons, by powerful evidence, of the truths of Christianity, and not be content with simple declamation as is now so common? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verses 9-12.—Apart from the miraculous power that Paul had, what was the secret of his success?

Verses 13-17.—Why do some today blaspheme the name of God; and dare the power of God; are they possessed with the devil?

Verses 18-22.—Does conversion always imply restitution, and the forsaking of every evil way?

Lesson for August 22, 1909—Paul's Third Missionary Journey—The Riot in Ephesus. Acts xix: 23-xx: 1.

Obituary Notices.

Mary Ola Heater died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heater, near Springbrook, August 7, after an illness covering nearly a year, at the age of 16 years.

When the Christian Church was organized in Newberg in the spring of 1907, Miss Ola was converted and united with that church as a charter member, and has since lived a faithful Christian life. She leaves a father and mother, two sisters and one brother, a great number of other relatives and a host of friends to mourn her early death.

The funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Geo. C. Ritchey, from the Friends church at Springbrook, Monday, August 9, at 10 a. m. The interment was in the cemetery near the David farm on the mountain north of Springbrook. The funeral was very largely attended as the departed was held in very high esteem by all who knew her.

Badley.

Almeda Gregg was born at Quincy, Illinois, Nov. 2nd, 1827. At the age of 16 years she united with the Christian church, and was a life-long and consistent member. She was married at the age of 22 years to James Badley. To this union eight children were born, four of whom survive her, and four having preceded her to the land beyond. In 1852 she, with her husband crossed the plains and settled on Chehalem mountain where she first resided in Oregon, afterward going to Grant County where she lived for twenty years, and where she was bereaved of her husband. Two years ago she came to Newberg and has since resided here until her death, which occurred on August 5th, 1909. She had attained a great age, being 81 years, 9 months and 4 days old at the time of her death. Her four children, U. Badley of Newberg, W. H. Badley and Washington Badley of Grant County, and Mrs. E. Gagne of Faltin, Nevada, and an aged sister, Mrs. P. A. Winters of Lents, and 12 great-grand children and other relatives are left to mourn her departure. But knowing the Christian character and the life-long service to Jesus her Saviour, they do not mourn as those that have no hope, but have great hope for her happy condition with the Lord. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from henceforth: yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; for their works do follow them. Rev. 14: 13.

Funeral services were conducted from her late residence on Third street near Main, by her pastor, Geo. C. Ritchey of the Christian church of Newberg, Friday at 4 o'clock.

Some Charming Recollections of Edward Everett Hale.

Edward Everett Hale's later literary life was intimately associated with Woman's Home Companion, to which he was a regular contributor in the last years of his life. The August issue of this magazine contains a number of charming anecdotes about Doctor Hale. His secretary, writing about Doctor Hale, says:

"He loved out of doors, and this was written mornings as we sat on what he called his quarter-deck, at the back of the house, overhanging the garden. So many times he would stop in the middle of a sentence and say, 'This is the kingdom of heaven,' or, 'Isn't this as nice as they they make it?' or some such phrase which showed his joy in life. I always had to make him stop dictating. And he would so often beg, 'Just one sentence more and then I'll be as good as you wish.'"

The house in Roxbury which was his home for so many years was, like himself, built upon generous lines. It is a wide, double house with stately pillars at the front. At the rear, on the first floor, was his commodious library, full to overflowing with all sorts of "books which are books." In one of his poems Tennyson describes his garden on the Isle of Wight as a "careless-order'd garden." Hale's library was a careless-order'd library, apparently responding to what his friend Star King would have called a law of disorder. What a captivating retreat it was—especially when its master sat and discoursed in it. He said to me one day when I was in Roxbury: "I'll tell you how I came to get this house. I advertised for it, and put in the advertisement,

"modern improvements no object."

Gustavus F. Swift, a Member of the Firm of Swift & Company of Chicago.

The secret of all great undertakings is hard work and self-reliance.

No young man is rich enough to smoke twenty-five cent cigars. No man is rich enough to waste his money in putting on style.

No man's success was ever marked by the currency that he pasted upon bill-boards.

The best a man ever did should not be his standard for the rest of his life.

The richer a man gets the more careful he should be to keep his head level.

Business, religion and pleasure of the right kind should be the only things in life for any man.

A big head and a big bank account were never found together to the credit of anyone, and never will be.

Every time a man loses his temper he loses his head, and when he loses his head he loses several chances.

The successful men of today worked mighty hard for what they have, and the men of tomorrow will have to work hard to get it away.

When a clerk tells you that he must leave the office because it is 5:30 p.m., rest assured that you will never see his name over a front door.

Given these two qualities—thrift and industry—and a residence in the United States of America, a young man has nothing else to ask for.

Next to knowing your own business, it's a mighty good thing to know as much about your neighbor's as possible, especially if he is in the same line.

WORK

Work is healthy if not indulged in too freely or seriously. It is better when mixed with a little time spent in enjoyments. I would be pleased to help you, and would suggest a fishing or hunting trip—a good outfit and the fun is great. I have the goods, and am anxious to serve you. Plenty of BICYCLES—new and second-hand, CHEAP. Repair most any old thing.

THEO. ST. PIERRE.
