Then He Hugged Her.
The Male Graduate—I propose to sirdle the earth.
The Female Graduate—Why do you begin on such a big thing?
Extreme Conservatives.
It is the habit of some people to condemn everything they are mentally incapable of understanding, and they insist upon calling it "conservatism" instead of ignorance.

With His Usual Thump.
Mrs. Jenner Lee Oudego—Did you feel that earthquake shock this morning?
Mrs. Selidom Holme—Very distinctly; but I thought it was my husband getting out of bed.

His Building Site.
"That lot you sold me at Lonesomehurst is all covered with water," said the city man to the agent.
"Sure!" said the fleshy man; "we're going to stock it for fishing next season!"—Yonkers Statesman.

A Sad Lack.
Speeder—That auto of mine doesn't go fast enough.
Roaster—What's the matter?
Speeder—Several victims have complained that they knew what struck them which means something defective. And I am not cruel.

Suicide for a Scorpion.
If a scorpion finds himself licked by a centipede, which is usually the case, though both little things put up a desperate fight, the scorpion commits suicide. It twists its tail portion and stings itself in the back of the neck and drops dead.

A good locomotive will travel about 1,000,000 miles before it wears out. With ordinary care it ought to last twelve years.

Not Yet, but Sometime.
Man from the City—You intend to keep bees, I suppose.
Suburbanite—Some day, perhaps. At present we are devoting our entire energies to keeping a cook.

Only a Contributor.
"He's a regular contributor to your paper, isn't he?" asked the caller. "O, yes," replied the city editor; "but we haven't used any of his stuff for years." "But I thought you said he was a regular contributor?" "So I did. He contributes just the same."—Yonkers Statesman.

Stalling Him.
"You people are at peace with all the world," remarked the foreigner.
"What do you need of a standing army and a big navy?"
"Principally," said the native, "to keep Capt. Hobson quiet."—Chicago Tribune.

Of all the boy workers in London, newsboys are the healthiest, barbers' boys the most unhealthy—a tribute to the open-air life.

A statue of King Henry VI is being placed outside of Salisbury cathedral, England, as a memorial to the late Dean Webb.

BLEN UP, BLEN UP.
"Bertha, where is my hat? I laid it down here a little while ago."
"Sure, missus, Fido's takin' a nap in it. Don't talk so loud, or ye'll wake the little darlin'!"

Looking Ahead.
"Old chap, what are you growing those umbrageous side whiskers for?"
"I'll tell you if you won't say anything about it. I know of a big department store where there's going to be a vacancy in the floorwalker's job in a few weeks, and I'm going to apply for it."—Chicago Tribune.

From the Servants' Table.
Van Antler—I think we are sure of a good dinner to-night. You know my new English butter does the entire catering for the household. Grubb—Can you rely on him to—? Van Antler—Not always, but this evening I requested him to send us up something from the kitchen table.—Puck.

RAM'S HORN BLASTS.

Warning Notes Calling the Wicked to Repentance.

The devil often grinds the ax with which God hews.
There is nothing blinder than religious hate.
The man who has no faith shows it in everything he does.

God never saves anybody on the installment plan.

The man who sets out to follow Christ should never look back.

When you go to the Lord for a big blessing don't take a little basket.

You never can tell where good is going to stop when it once gets started.

What a man can do always depends upon what the Lord has done in him.

When we expect the Lord to keep His promises to us, we will keep ours to Him.

The kind of love that is trying to make the world better has no fear of criticism.

When the scribe said, "I will follow Thee whithersoever thou goest," there was no cross in sight.

If God has helped us out of one trouble it is a sure evidence that He will help us out of another.

When a man takes any kind of case to the Lord he ought to believe that God has as much interest in it as he has.

Some men who vote and cuss and lead boys astray would never be called men if they didn't wear pantaloons and whiskers.

Give the average boy a keg of nails and a hammer and something to drive them into, and it will keep him out of a lot of other mischief.

"A CLEVER FRENCHMAN."

The first eight dollars that Laurence Hutton earned—so he declares in his "Talks in a Library"—were invested in a sentimental way, as a finger-ring, of a small shell- cameo profile portrait of his father, cut by a boy of about Laurence's own age, with whom he had gone to school for a short time. Very many years later, says the writer, a shell- cameo brooch, in what is called a shadow-frame, had its place in the Thirty-fourth street house, upon a piano in the dining room; and one night at a large dinner party, at which were gathered many distinguished men and women to meet Sir Henry Irving, the box and its contents attracted the attention of a guest who happened to sit opposite to it.

In the middle of the symposium he jumped up, grasped the object in both hands and said:

"Laurence, where did you get this, and who is it?"

"It's my father, given to my mother on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. She wore it a little while, but it was too conspicuous as a personal ornament; and after his death she put it in that frame."

The excited guest exclaimed, "Your father?"

"Yes, my father."

He then asked in great excitement who did it. I replied:

"I don't know. It was cut long ago by a little artist in a studio over Brougham's Lyceum, afterward Wallack's Theater, on the corner of Broadway and Broome street. Who he was or what his name was I do not know, except that he was a clever little Frenchman."

The attention of the whole party was by this time attracted to the dialogue. Looking at the cameo in its case, and his hand shaking a little, the guest said:

"He was a clever little Frenchman, was he? And you don't know his name? Well, I'm the clever little Frenchman, and my name is Saint-Gaudens. It's the earliest piece of my work extant, and when you and Mrs. Hutton get through with it I want it for Gussie and the boy."

And when we do get through with it they are to have it.

Interrupted the Wedding.

The other day, at the Shawnee county courthouse, Probate Judge Schoch was about to marry a young couple. He pronounced the preliminary words and told them to join hands and started on the ceremony.

"Hey, there! Hold up a minute! Wait, I say!" This series of startling exclamations came from the door.

The groom was horrified—the bride badly scared.

"Just a minute. I want to give you each an apple before you are married," said the man who had made the noise. And in he calmly walked and handed each of them a Grimes Golden.

It was one man's idea of a joke.—Kansas City Journal.

Just Shopping.

The woman question always has been, and probably always will be: "Is my hat on straight?"

Mrs. Briggs—Does your husband take any special exercise? Mrs. Griggs: Yes; he's all the time kicking.

Mr. Summerboard (politely)—Shall I help myself to the beans? Hired Man—You will if you git enny!

Knicker—When he graduated he thought he would save the State. Bocker—And now he is trying to save a dollar a week.

"Your wife doesn't seem to care much for that friend of yours." "No; he's the man I lay the blame on when I'm detained downtown."

"Who's that homely girl you spoke to?" "Sir, that lady has promised to be my wife." "Cheer up. Lots of women don't keep their promises."

Editor—What are you writing? Reporter—A race with death. Editor—Say we call that race off and get it up in some other form this time.

"I've moved to the country now, and planted a garden." "Anything coming up?" "Sure. My wife's family is coming up to spend the summer."

She—Better join our picnic party. He—What's the use, when I can more easily enjoy warm lemonade and sandwiches with ants on 'em in my back yard?

Customer (looking at electric fans)—No, I don't believe I care for a second-hand fan. Dealer (waving his hands)—Vy? Ah! second-hand air as good as any?

Hub—Reckless and extravagant—? When did I ever make a useless purchase? Wife—Why, there's that fire extinguisher you bought a year ago; we've never used it once.

"I don't believe in hiding my light under a bushel," remarked young Sapsleigh. "You would be foolish to do so," rejoined Miss Slasher, "when a pint cup would more than hide it."

Fond Mother—Tommy, darling, this is your birthday! What would you like to do? Tommy, Darling (after a moment's reflection)—I think I should enjoy seeing the baby spanked.—Figaro.

"It's hard to lose a beautiful daughter," said the wedding guest sympathetically. "It's a blamed sight harder to lose the homely ones," replied the old man who had several yet to go.

"Mean thing!" exclaimed Mrs. Newlived; "it's just brutal of you to call it 'this stuff.' You said you'd be glad if I baked my own bread." "Yes, dear," replied the brute, "but I didn't say you should bake mine."

Critic (as the composer plays his last piece)—Very fine indeed. But what is that passage which makes the cold chills run down the back? Composer—That is where the wanderer has the hotel bill brought to him.—Fliegende Blaetter.

Mr. Budworthy—Rather clever fellow, that young Dulong, don't you think? Miss Pawestles—I really could not tell. He scarcely uttered a word the whole time he was here. Mr. Budworthy—Sly dog! He knows when he is at his best.—Puck.

"How did you manage to see everything in Rome inside of two days?" "Well, you see, we got up early, my wife went to the shops, my daughter to the picture galleries; and I took in the restaurants. In the evening we compared notes."—Fliegende Blaetter.

Miss Passay—This gold dollar was given to me by my grandfather when I was christened. It was just coined shortly after my birth. See, it is dated 1880. Miss Sharpe—Yes, how considerate of them to have the coins date it so far ahead.—Philadelphia Press.

Towne—It's all well enough to talk about forgiving our enemies, but I tell you, it's a hard thing to do. Browne—That's what it is. We should not be expected to forgive our enemies except when they freely admit that they don't deserve our forgiveness.—Philadelphia Press.

She (indignantly)—Why did you fall to keep your appointment with me yesterday? He—I'm awfully sorry, but I was compelled to wait in a restaurant until it was too late. She (lily)—Pardon me, but I thought you had a position in a bank. I wasn't aware that you were a waiter.—Tit-Bits.

Merchant's Wife (suddenly appearing in her husband's office)—Ha! I thought you said your typewriter girl was an old maid? Merchant (much confused)—Um—er, yes, m'dear, of course, of course; but she is sick to day, and she sent her little granddaughter as a substitute.—Philadelphia Record.

Epicure—Waiter, this steak is positively bad. It must be three weeks old. Waiter—Ah, pardon, monsieur! I have made so mistake, and have brought you so venison. Epicurean—Venison? Oh, yes! Then you may leave it. (Tastes it.) Ah! to be sure it is venison; and very nice, too—very nice, indeed!—Town Topics.

Mrs. de Temper (looking up from the paper)—Well, I declare! Another woman, single-handed, has captured a burglar. I should think she would have been killed by the brute; but the papers say the moment she grabbed a poker and made a dash for him, his knees trembled and his teeth shook, and he sank to the floor in affright. Mr. de Temper—He is probably a married man.—New York Weekly.

LEADER PNEUMATIC WATER SUPPLY SYSTEMS FOR COUNTRY HOMES
The best and most logical method of furnishing water yet devised. The tank is placed in the basement or in the ground near the house and keeps the water cool in summer and proof against freezing in winter. It never leaks. It is impossible for impurity to get into it. It outlasts the building in which it is installed. It costs a little more to begin with, but there is no second cost. We have a catalogue which illustrates and describes the Leader system. Ask us for it.

STOVER GASOLINE ENGINES
