W. H. Hitchen arrived home from a very pleasant trip to his former home in Minnesota the first of the week. Like others he brings the report of the early approach of winter in the middle states.

"Pat" Lawson, who for the past eight years has worked in the book binding department for the Irwin, Hodson Co., was up from Portland the first of the week on a hunting trip and visiting with relatives.

Dan Stahlnecker, who lives on the Hinman place on the Willamette river opposite Butteville, will have a public sale of his stock and farming implements and numerous other articles on Saturday, October 30.

The many friends of Miss Amy Heater will be pained to hear that since her return to the home of her parents in Corvallis, her physical condition has not improved, and fears for her ultimate recovery are entertained.

Dr. Littlefield reports the appearance of a disease among children which effects the spine and lower limbs, there being a number of cases in and around Newberg. By communicating with Dr. Yenny, of Portland, he learns that the same disease is appearing in other parts of the state. While it is not a new disease he says he has not seen it in an epidemic form before. The distressing thing about it is that it is liable to leave a victim with a deformed limb for life.

William Hash, a brother of George Hash, arrived here from Iowa a few days ago.

E. G. Litchenthaler, who lives in the Noah Heater property, is taking a look at the country along the coast in Lincoln county.
