Dundee.

There is a general feeling of thanksgiving in the Dundee district. The children are thankful that so long as attendance at school is compulsory, they have such likable teachers and that the road to learning is made attractive.

Frank Keyes is thankful that the continued rains have made out-of-doors work impossible, thereby getting an enforced rest, while Roe Robinson also gives thanks for the rains. He further more is grateful that he can put his feet under the table three times a day.

R. W. Swink and W. J. Gordon seem to be the most thankful men in the community. Mr. Swink "for things too numerous to mention" and Mr. Gordon for "so many things it is hard to specify."

Appetite also figures in Prof. Powell's thanksgiving. He not only being thankful that his wife is able to cook all he can eat but also that she is good-natured while doing it.

F. C. Barbour is thankful to exchange the dust (?) of the city for the mud of the country and K. D. Hatch rejoices that he lives in a wet country instead of a cold one.

Wm. Meyer says that, being a forlorn bachelor, he supposes he should give thanks for good health and the ability to take care of himself.

H. B. Powell gives thanks for good workmanship on his new house and Mr. Lehman that his pretty bungalow is so universally approved.

John Goens and D. Hunter both express gratitude for being alive, while Fred Hess is grateful that his head is revolving on its axis once more.

Wm. Allan's thankfulness is that he is not baldheaded, his wife having ruled all summer with two wooden rods.

Samuel Parrott gives thanks for the general health and prosperity of the community as does also A. A. Parrott.

E. S. Greer has hirsute thoughts, being thankful for the moderate charges of the local barber.

M. Miller is thankful for the occasional bits of sunshine and John Egli that it is not haytime.

A. D. McEwan gives thanks that his wife is home again so he does not have to wash dishes.

George Wilson's thanks are that his brother does not live farther from the station.

Wm. Hill is thankful he is not an alligator and Francis Keyes that he is no centipede.

Mr. and Mrs. Holtzmyer are rejoicing over the arrival of a son.

Thomas Prince has been confined to the house for a few days with a severe cold.

George Wilson and family and Norman Wilson, of Portland, are visiting Wm. Wilson.

Remember the temperance literary program to be given by the W. C. T. U. and the Sunday School Sunday evening.

Mrs. A. D. McEwan returned from Portland Monday, her sister, Miss Jennie Gilmore accompanying her to spend the Thanksgiving holidays.

The residents of the Red Hills are proud to be represented even in a small way in the prize winning class at the National Apple Show held in Spokane last week. Otterbrook won first prize on apple marmalade.

When the blacksmith starts to doctor up a broken-down wagon he doesn't say "Stick out your tongue."

Chehalms Center.

A. J. Palmer is able to be up and about again.

Miss Robinson, a relative of Mr. and Mrs. Hays, who live on what was the Hans Hanson place, has come to spend some time with them.

The revival meetings held at the church by Geo. Farrow and Ira Bowen and assisted during the last week by Daniel Ramsey closed Sunday night. While the people of the neighborhood were benefited by their helpful, earnest sermons, there were not many new conversions. Mr. and Mrs. Hendrickson united with the church and will be a help to our little handful of members and it was hoped there would be more. Mr. and Mrs. Hendrickson are highly estimable people who lately moved into the neighborhood.

Jack St Germain is spending a few days reflection, confined in the court house at McMinnville as a consequence of gratifying the thirst of some of the poor, old drunks and, sad to say, of quite young fellows in and about Newberg. He was not alone in the work, but was left to take the consequences alone. While his friends here are truly sorry for him they hope it will be a life-long lesson to him not to touch taste or deal out the vile stuff which causes so much sadness and misery in so many homes.

Pacific College Notes.

The referee's whistle is right lively from 3:30 to 5 in the afternoon.

The girls gymnasium class meets on Monday and Wednesday at 3:15 P.M. for gymnastics.

Students and teachers were glad of J. C. Hodsons visit to recitations last Thursday.

All the numbers on the literary program last Friday evening were performed except one. The visitors present stimulated the efforts of all.

Mrs. Hull and Prof. Marcy were in Portland Saturday. Pres. Kelsey went on Tuesday of this week.

Students interested in oratory and debating subjects are testing the library facilities of school and town for material.

Rev. John F. Lyons made us feel the purpose of the week of prayer that was observed by the Christian Associations the world over last week.

Rev. G. J. Rieker condemned football in a very naive and genuine manner in a recent talk before the students, using for argument the startling statistics of accidents of this season.

A college basketball league has been organized and our boys will play their first game at Philomath December 10.

In a recent chapel talk Rev. F. C. Stannard brought to the minds of the students the prevalence of the flippant attitude toward sacred institutions and personages.
