His Position.
"Yassah! Yassah! Hol' on a minute, if yo' please, sah! Deas lemme tell yo' how 'tis!" expostulated a colored citizen who was down on his back and being elaborately chastised by a larger and somewhat harder headed gentleman of his own race. "T'll pay yo' de money if yo' puts de argymunt to me in dis mannah—yassah, pay yo' de money right now, widout no mo' o' dis yuh beatin' and hammerin'. But I want it understood, sah, dat I isn't no ways 'thuasiasm' 'bout it. I bows to de indelible when I meets it, sah, but I keeps muh 'thuasiasm to muhse'f—yassah, keeps it to muhse'f to de bitter end!"—Puck.

A Beautiful Day.
Two Scotchmen were going home very drunk together, and the one said to the other: "Weel, Donald, we've had a beautiful day. But what bothers me is that I canna remember what like the bride was." "Whist, man," said his friend, "it wians a marriage; it wis a fun'ral."

STORY IN FIVE WORDS.

It Told of the Massacre of General Custer's Command.

Probably the most startling piece of news that was ever sent out into the world was the announcement of the massacre of General Custer and his command in 1876. The terrible news was so unexpected that it came like a bolt from a clear sky. It brought a feeling of sickening horror to the heart of every man who read it or heard it on the street. It passed from lip to lip as it became known in the west and the east. There were friends and relatives of the murdered men in all parts of the nation, and the gallant commander was himself a national hero. For two days the nation waited breathlessly for information regarding the disaster additional to the brief general announcement of the calamity that had been sent out as soon as the news was known in Bismarck, N. D., which was then the extreme northwestern office of the telegraph company. That first message was a brief one; but, after all, it told the whole story.

That message was a bit of "wire talk" sent from Bismarck to Fargo on the morning of July 5, 1876, and it said, "All the Custers are killed." The message was sent by J. M. Carnahan, manager of the Western Union office in Missoula, and it was thus that the news was first sent eastward. From Fargo it was repeated to St. Paul, and St. Paul sent it, in turn, to Chicago, and from there it was passed along to cities, towns and hamlets, telling its brief but terrible story tersely, but completely.

There was but a single wire east from Bismarck in those days, and government business had the first call upon this; consequently Operator Carnahan had only time to flash forward this brief message of general information before he was compelled to begin the transmission of the official report of General Terry to the war department. For twenty-four hours he sat at his key clicking off this mass of official correspondence.

All this time the eastern papers were clamoring for news, but it could not be given to them. So persistent were these demands for news that Mr. Carnahan obtained the permission of Colonel Smith, the member of Terry's staff who had brought in the official dispatches, to make up a short "special" from the information contained in the reports of the officers. This special was sent to the New York Herald and is believed to be the first authentic news of the Big Horn massacre that was sent out, aside from the official dispatches.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

CORNER FIRST AND MAIN

A Professor's Fact.

While conducting examinations at an English university Professor D'Arcy Thompson learned that one of the students to be examined, a young woman who was a candidate for a degree, was so timid and nervous that it was likely she would not do herself justice in the examination, and he was asked to make allowances for this. Professor Thompson asked to be presented to her before the hour for examinations, and after meeting her he suggested that as they had a few moments at their disposal he would be pleased to have her show him about the museum. She gladly agreed, and they spent a delightful half hour. But when the dreaded time approached the nervousness of the young woman became apparent. Finally she summoned courage to ask when the ordeal would take place. The conclusion of the story is obvious—Professor Thompson told her the dreaded hour was over. While they sauntered about the museum he had put her through a rigid examination. She had answered his questions brilliantly, and she received her degree.

"1892" Pure Spun Aluminum Ware

15 Days at Our Risk

Buy any piece of this ware from your dealer—try it fifteen days. If in that time you find that all the claims we make for it are not true, and if it is not just as represented, take it back and get your money.

Here at last is the ideal kitchen and cooking utensil—"The Ware That Wears"—made from Pure Spun Aluminum, and guaranteed by the makers to last 25 years with average usage. "Spun" Aluminum, mind you, not cast Aluminum, which will sometimes crack and scale. Spun Aluminum Ware will never crack, peel, scale or break.

Enamel ware is iron coated with colored glass. Iron expands with heat. Colored glass does not, but chips off into the food with dangerous results to those who eat it.

"1892" Pure Aluminum Ware Will Not Scorch or Burn
—is easily cleaned, will not rust or corrode. Handsome in appearance. Looks like silver, but weighs only about one-fourth as much, and is light and convenient to handle.

"1892" Pure Aluminum Ware Saves Doctors' Bills.
It enables you to bake bread, pies, pancakes, etc., without grease, which is the great cause of dyspepsia and indigestion. Aluminum griddles require no grease; hence are smokeless and odorless.

The original and only genuine Spun Aluminum Ware is made by the Illinois Pure Aluminum Co. at Lenoir, Ill. Every piece bearing their trade-mark, the Maltese Cross, and marked "1892" Pure Aluminum Ware is absolutely pure, wholesome and hygienic—guaranteed for 25 yrs.
See that you get the right goods and accept no substitute.

ENAMEL WARE CAUSES CANCER, SAYS DOCTOR

Tells Homeopaths Particles From Dishes Start Growths in Stomach.

Special Dispatch to The North American.

INTRODUCTION of modern enamel ware in the kitchens of the country is responsible for many cases of cancer, was the striking theory advanced by Dr. William H. Dieffenbach, of New York, in a paper entitled, "Observations on the Etiology of Cancer," read before the Bureau of Sanitary Science and Public Health, at which leading experts of the International Homeopathic Congress met today to discuss questions of public health.

The argument advanced was that chipping of the hard-coated dishes used in preparation of meals allowed minute but dangerous particles of foreign matter to become mixed with the food. These are taken into the stomach, where the cancerous growth is caused by abrasions which they make in the walls of the organ.
