Queer Epitaphs.

Matrimonial infelicity is thus perpetrated by inference in an old English cemetery:—

"Within this grave doth lie
Back to back my wife and I,
When the last trump the air shall fill
If she gets up—I'll just lie still."

Large families were more fashionable seventy and eighty years ago than now. The following epitaph, written by a son, refers to one of these poor families:

"Our papa dear has gone to heaven
To make arrangements for eleven."
Evidently with such a family
it was cheaper to move than pay rent.

On the sarcophagus of A. T. Stewart, the mercantile millionaire, whose body was stolen from St. Mark's churchyard, New York, is the following, probably not meant as a double entendre:

"He is Not Here."

These queer lines appear upon a tomb-stone in Talkirk, England:

"Here under this sod and under these trees
Is buried the body of Solomon Pease;
But here in this hole lies only his pod,
His soul is shelled out and gone up to God."

High School Items.

(By Priores Press Committee.)

The pupils took great interest in the school fair, which was held at the school building last Friday afternoon. Each pupil prepared an exhibit for every subject of study. The fair was well attended by both pupils and parents, and all seemed to enjoy it immensely. Twenty-five dollars were made from the different candy and ice-cream booths.

Monthly examinations again this week, and finals approaching.

Complete lists of the books contained in both the school and town libraries have been posted in the various school rooms.

Our baseball team went to Portland to play against Hill's Military Academy last Saturday.

The juniors continue to practice their class play, "The Cricket On The Hearth."

Some of the H. S. classes have completed the work in the text books, and supplementary and review work has begun.

Only three more weeks of school, hurrah! or alas!, which? Both.

Chehalem Center.

School closed Tuesday after a very pleasant and profitable term of school by Prof. Chas. Hanson and Miss Ethel Barber. There were singing and recitations, and a picnic dinner enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Bank, of Dayton, gave a splendid talk at the church Sunday morning on missions in Africa.

Miss Lefa Collins is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Honey.

There will be a cottage prayer meeting held at the home of H. C. Paulsen's this, Thursday afternoon, Carrol Kirk, leader. The book of Jonah will be taken up as the lesson. All come and bring your bibles.

Miss Belle Newhouse is improving in health very much since coming home and enjoyed some Portland friends' over Sunday.
