A little vanity keeps a man keyed up to his best, while too much renders him obnoxious to his fellows.

War Caused by a Kiss.

In the year 1703 a stray kiss was the means of bringing about a bloody and expensive war. Prince Ferdinand of Bavaria was journeying in a neighboring state. One day he visited "the royal household," and while there his eye caught sight of a most beautiful maiden who happened to be near him. He was so bewitched with her charming personality that he impulsively and thoughtlessly implanted a kiss upon her fair cheek. She was a princess of the royal household, which the prince knew not. Neither did he know that she was an affianced bride and that her betrothed was near by and saw the whole affair. A duel was fought, and both principals were severely wounded. Diplomatic relations between the two kingdoms were suspended, and a long and bloody war ensued, all on account of a kiss which was paid for most dearly in blood and treasure.

The Power of Suggestion.

It was the reserve force stored up in the years of conquest and the habit of triumphing in whatever they undertook that gave such power to the Washingtons, the Lincolns, the Gladstones and the Disraelis, says Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine. It is the reserve power which we feel back of the words and between the lines of a powerful book, not what is actually in the printed words, that impresses us most. We are not so much affected by what an orator like Webster actually says as we are by what he suggests—the latent power, the mighty reserve force, that we feel he might put forth were the emergency great enough.

The Valuable Match.

There was a loud splash, and a moment later a dripping head appeared above the waves. On the end of the dock was a stevedore nonchalantly lighting his pipe. "Help, man!" cried the chap in the water. "Can't you see I am overboard? I can't swim." "How often you been down?" asked the stevedore, shielding the flickering match from the wind. "Once, I believe, but hurry up, man! Give me a hand!" "You wait! You have two times yet to go down, and I have only one match. I'll catch you on the last trip."—Chicago News.
