FRIENDS SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNICS

Star Ball Game Feature of Entertainment—Band Furnishes Music.

The members of the Sunday School of the Friends Church enjoyed their annual picnic Tuesday afternoon on the college campus. These occasions are equally enjoyed by old and young and this gathering appeared unusually pleasant. Many swings had been hung from the oaks which were the delight of the children. The number of times the old cat died was sufficient to wipe out the nine lives of every old Tab and Tom in town—and that's going some. And then there was horse-shoe pitching for the boys, bean bag throwing and other forms of amusement.

The drawing card of the day however, in the way of athletic sports, was the ball game. Last year the old men defeated the boys in a close game. The memory of this victory made them a little chasty, with the result that "class 16" challenged the school. The boys have been practicing ever since their defeat, and to clinch things beyond peradventure of a doubt, imported a new twirler in the person of young Winslow who threw rings round the used-to-bes who faced him. Not all of them however, for the game resulted in the discovery of a new Hans Wagner (the old Hans has slumped you know) and after McCredie hears about it, the absence of a hefty member at Sunday School may be accounted for by the appearance of a new man in a Portland uniform. When banker Fred Crozer stepped up to bat, the boys made some unnecessary remarks about the easy meat they had in "fatty." But when Fred leaned his Lizzy Ann against that ball, it soared out of sight and dropped into a neighboring wood, while Frederick steamed ("steamed" is used advisedly, around the bases for a home run to the tune of wild plaudits from the bleachers. And just to show that this little trick was no accident, he repeated the performance next time up. Strictly speaking, this was more of a home "waddle" than a home run, but Fred took care this time to send the ball far enough to give him until twilight in which to make the round. And at that, his colleagues had to send out a relief expedition to get him home in time for supper.

But while speaking of stars, the old men's battery is deserving of notice. Rev. Weaver sent the shoots in over the home plate like a Texas leaguer and was ably supported at the receiving end by Dr. H. C. Dixon who caught a star game.

The youngsters took an early lead and it looked so easy that they took pity on their elders and replaced their imported speed artist with local talent. They proceeded at once to pound the ball so hard that the scorer was soon working over time, and Winslow went back into the box. But even he couldn't stop the swat-fest until the seniors had passed their youthful opponents. The latter were all but shut out when a mis-play on the other side revived their hopes, bringing them in as winners with a score of 17 to 12. W. C. Woodward umpired the game to the satisfaction of—the old men!

The players were as follows:
Class 16 Young men
Dr. H. C. Dixon c Meade Elliott
Rev. Weaver p Winslow
M. P. Elliott 1b R. Parker
Dr. E. P. Dixon 2b Van Blaricom
E. H. Woodward 3b B. Douglas
Prof. Reagan ss H. Haworth
L. S. Otis lf F. Colcord
Pres. Kelsey cf Paul Elliott
W. E. Crozer ri E. Thorne
Then came the eats on the lawn in front of Canyon Hall. The Newberg band honored and enlivened the occasion with its presence to the appreciation of all. The music gave just the proper finale to the jolliest kind of a day.

Inspectors Inspected by a Winchester.

Paul Maris and a brother deputy had the privilege of looking down a Winchester barrel from the wrong end the other day, down in Linn county. The Portland Journal gives the following account of the episode.

The first case in the history of the Commission of resistance to an official inspection on a dairy farm by the use of firearms was encountered last week by Deputies Maris and Duncan, near Harrisburg, Ore. Investigating the farmer's methods of dairying, the deputies found the cream separator in the kitchen in a very filthy condition, and lined on the inside with a quarter of an inch of slime. The farmer objected to their investigations, however, and when they attempted to remove a sample of the filth from the separator, in order to use it for proof in the prosecution of the farmer for his unsanitary methods, they were confronted with a Winchester rifle and ordered to leave the house. At this point the farmer's wife jumped between her husband and the inspectors, and, the latter, taking advantage of the opening, made gentlemanly tracks from the door, according to their statements later.

CELEBRATE FOURTH AT NEWBERG!

Preparations Under Way for a Big Time in the Old Town, July 4th.

Regarding the 4th of July Celebration next Monday we want it understood that we are going to have a great big time all day long.

The street parade promises to eclipse any thing of the kind ever given in the county as every thing will be in the procession. It will be unique in one respect, as there will be things represented entirely different from this class of parades, ordinarily for don't you know, we are to have a "sane time." It may be instructive for you to learn how insane and foolish one may be and still pass examination by the alienist!

The beautiful college campus is being mowed and raked clean, the oak grove trimmed into shape, seats arranged, the ball ground placed in first class condition, the stands for fire works erected, refreshment booths are being built and arrangements for care of teams and vehicles perfected. Ample shade and water are assured.

The various committees have every thing in hand so that care will be extended, that the speaking, the songs, duets, and other musical numbers, the races, the games and the fire works will be just right. That game of baseball between Columbia Hardware and St. Paul will be worth going miles to see, for the standing of the Columbias is the best in the state outside the league teams, while the fighting qualities of our St. Paul neighbors, as real ball players, will test the best skill of their opponents. The speaker of the day Hon. B. F. Mulkey, of Medford, has a well earned reputation as a speaker of entertaining qualities, concise, logical and eloquent. We expect our town to be filled with people, but however large the throngs may be, the proverbial hospitality of Newberg will be fully sustained as nothing will be left undone to insure our visitors a good time.

Come early, bring your dinner baskets filled, and stay late. Don't forget the splendid display of fire works at night.

Many North Dakotans Relive Old Days.

The North Dakota picnic, that was held on Friday, June 24, was a great success. The weather was ideal and the La Fayette Locks cannot be beaten as a picnic ground. There were about one hundred and fifty people present; some from Mandan, Devils Lake, Langdon, Wallhalla, Bay Centre, Neche, Minot, Fargo, La Moure, Oaks and Ellendale, N. D.

Thanks to the thoughtfulness of the President, Mr. Lyons, and his son, three long tables had been erected, which were soon groaning under the weight of good things to eat such as Oregon can boast of. After dinner an hour of quiet meditation was necessary, after which running, jumping and potato races, were in order with the boys and girls. The afternoon was all too short in which to recall old times in North Dakota, which tends to show us that although we love our Oregon home, we still have a warm spot in our heart for North Dakota, even if the thermometer does frisk around the forties in the winter time.

At three o'clock a short program was rendered, with speeches from Mr. Lyons and J. D. Gordon which were enjoyed by all. A vote of thanks was tendered the president and vice-president for their efforts in making the picnic a success. At five o'clock the happy crowd dispersed with the promise of meeting at the annual dinner of the North Dakota people, on February 22nd, 1911. A North Dakotan.

No Firecrackers on Fourth.

Attention is called to the ordinance forbidding the use of firecrackers or other explosives within the city limits on July 4, and all citizens are requested to cheerfully comply with the same.

N. C. CHRISTENSON, Mayor.

FRIENDS' OREGON YEARLY MEETING

Partial Program of the Annual Meeting of the Friends Church

The sessions of Oregon Yearly Meeting of the Friends Church begin next week. The first session of the yearly meeting proper will be held Wednesday at ten o'clock. However on Tuesday, important conferences will be held, which the public is invited to attend. The first one will be held Tuesday morning, beginning at ten o'clock, when the subject under discussion will be, "Opportunities for Friends in the Northwest." In the evening there will be an address by Rev. Phipps, superintendent of the State Sunday School Association.

The program of the week's sessions cannot be given entirely at this time, but some important features can be announced. Willis Hotchkiss, the well known African missionary, will deliver the missionary address on Friday afternoon and will probably speak again in the evening. As he has spoken here before, the mere announcement assures a large attendance.

Another speaker who has already made good with a Newberg audience is Mrs. L. L. Shepard, of Salt Lake, who will deliver the address at the Temperance session of the Yearly Meeting on Friday morning.

The Educational session, always one of the most interesting and important, will take place Saturday afternoon, July 8.
