Business Conditions.

The only unfavorable element in the situation is the unfavorable attitude of federal lawmakers ers and state officials towards the railways and the spirit which would prevent the companies from moderately advancing their charges to offset the increased cost of operation.

When the manufacturer is obliged to pay higher prices for raw material and increased wages he does the only possible thing in the circumstances and correspondingly raises the charge for his product.

The railways are obliged to pay increased prices for supplies and higher wages, and it is only reasonable that they should get more for what they sell, namely, transportation.

That they are impelled to raise their charges is plain from current traffic returns showing increased gross takings, while costs of operation have increased in still greater ratio, with resulting decrease in net earnings. Unless the greatest of all industries is permitted to prosper the country cannot be prosperous.—New York Herald.

When the Ballinger trial is ended, and the jury has said what it thinks; When the case has been made and defended

With the wonted political winks— We shall smile—and gods, we shall need to

That feel it as well had been dropped, And the Guggenheim crowd will proceed to Resume where it was when it stopped.

The signs shall come down in the timber, And the patents shall tie up the coal. The law will get flabby and limber, And the trusts will do well on the whole.

It always turns out in that manner, Although we may blush to confess it, And we do not regard it a banner Achievement, exactly, to guess it.

FOR JULY.
(Copyright 1910, by C. H. Rieth.)

When the Ballinger trial is ended, and the jury has said what it thinks; When the case has been made and defended

With the wonted political winks— We shall smile—and gods, we shall need to

That feel it as well had been dropped, And the Guggenheim crowd will proceed to Resume where it was when it stopped.

The signs shall come down in the timber, And the patents shall tie up the coal. The law will get flabby and limber, And the trusts will do well on the whole.

It always turns out in that manner, Although we may blush to confess it, And we do not regard it a banner Achievement, exactly, to guess it.

July is a tribute to Caesar. One day, with some other insurgents, he talked by the Pillar of Pompey on things of political urgency. He was just on the point of explaining the key to some government riddle when a party of regulars jumped him and cut him in two in the middle.

There were Decius Brutus, the speaker, and Cassius, boss of the Senate, together with others insistent upon some political tenet. "The party forever!" they shouted, and what with that terrible slasher Servillus Casca great Caesar as well had been run through a hash.

At any rate, Antony found him cut up into fodder for fishes, and begged this request of the Romans, who granted the least of his wishes. And thus it has happened and shall be so long as the Tiber runs by the Pillar of Pompey that Caesar shall live in the name of July.

The fat occupant of the White House Will lie on his back in the grass Beneath the green Beverly maples Observing the aeroplanes pass.

The chauffeurs will keep right on chauffing, With seeing it's no one but Bill, And they'll sigh just to think what had happened

Had they flown over Sagamore Hill.

But not every man can be Caesar, as someone has stated, alas! and in the due course of the matter somebody must lie in the grass. It's hard on a strenuous nation, afflicting us all in a way, but we'll look on the brighter side of it, and conclude it is good for the hay.

However, Time flies is a proverb, And one day, his foot on his gong And his engine back-pedaling, August Will come aeroplaning along.
