

WHEN JENNY LIND SANG.

A Nightingale That Charmed Hearts as Well as Ears.

Nothing in Richard Hoffman's musical recollections in Scribner's is more charming than his description of Jenny Lind.

"She would trip on and off," he says, "as if in an ecstasy of delight at the opportunity of singing, bowing and smiling to her audience and giving every one present a flattering sense of contributing in a measure toward the success of the evening. She had three or four songs which showed the wonderful compass and power of her voice, and one or more of these were called for at every concert—a Swedish echo song in which she would echo her own voice by a sort of ventriloquism that was quite marvelous and another in which she made a remarkable diminuendo, reaching a pianissimo as faint as a sigh, but with a carrying power that made it distinctly audible at the most extreme limits of Castle Garden or Tripler hall, where the later concerts were given.

"This was a fine building situated at Broadway and Bond street and just finished in time for the second series of concerts. The hall had fine acoustic advantages, and it was a great loss to the city when it was destroyed by fire a few years later. The Winter Garden was afterward built on the same site.

"One of the most haunting things to me was her singing of Taubert's bird song, 'I Know Not Why I Am Singing.' Her shake was the finest I ever heard, so close and even as to be altogether perfect. Her voice, which she said herself was naturally stiff and stubborn, she had educated and practiced into such a degree of perfection that her roulades and cadenzas were unparalleled in their execution.

"In her sacred songs she rose to the sublime, and on one occasion as she finished singing the aria 'I Know That My Redeemer Liveth' I recollect that Daniel Webster, who was seated in the center of the balcony, rose from his seat and made her a profound bow. Her rapt expression of face and never ending volume of voice made her appear like some inspired seraph delivering a divine message.

"She was indebted to Sir George Smart, with whom she had studied in England, for all the traditional renderings of oratorio parts, he being at that time the greatest living authority in this school of music, but her vocal training was done under Manuel Garcia in Paris."

The Tourist in Japan.

All Japanese inns of course charge a great deal more to the globe trotting European tourist who does not speak the language since he or she is not content to travel strictly a la Japanese and worries the entire household with a variety of strange demands—extra quilts to sleep on (because they find the floor hard), an improvised pillow, special food (the ordinary guest takes what is given him and at the hour that the host pleases and is thankful), knives, forks and spoons (because he has neglected to practice eating his food with chopsticks), a bath with fresh water in it (because he will not follow the custom of entering the bath as soon as he arrives, thus getting the opportunity of first bath and the water while it is fresh) and half a dozen other requirements.—Exchange.

New York's Obelisk.

The obelisk in Central park, New York city, is a granite monolith presented to the city, through the department of state, by the late Ismail Pasha, khedive of Egypt, in 1877. It was brought to this country by Lieutenant Commander Gorringe, U. S. N., and placed in position Jan. 22, 1881, the entire expense of removal and erection ($103,732) having been borne by the late William H. Vanderbilt. Its height from apex to base is 69 feet 2 inches and its weight about 220 tons, or 440,000 pounds. It is sixth in size of the famous monoliths of Egypt and is one of two obelisks erected at Heliopolis by Thothmes III. (1600 B. C.) and removed to Alexandria by Augustus about 23 B. C., or, as some authorities say, by Rameses II.

Who Told the Fib?

The bell rang, and the occupier of the apartment started to the window to see who the visitor might be. To his annoyance he saw a persistent creditor who had evidently called again for payment of his long outstanding account. The impetuous one instantly called to his youthful son and said:

"Tommy, go to the door at once. I don't want to see that man. Tell him I'm not at home."

"Oh, papa, I thought you never told fibs!" remarked Tommy.

"I don't, my boy. It's you that's going to tell one. Now run off."—Exchange.

Why a Boiled Lobster is Red.

In all crustaceans, as, indeed, in almost everything in nature, there is a certain per cent of iron. Upon boiling the lobster is oxidized. The effect is largely due also to the percentage of muriatic acid which exists naturally in the shell. The chemical change which takes place here is almost similar to that which occurs in the burning of a brick. In boiling a lobster its coat ceases to be a living substance, and to a certain extent it takes a new character. It is as a brick would be after burning. This effect can also be produced by the sun, but necessarily not so rapid, as the heat of that luminary, although more intense, is not concentrated sufficiently to produce the result. The sun also exercises a bleaching influence which consumes the oxide almost as fast as it is formed, leaving the shell white or nearly pure lime.

War Caused by a Kiss.

In the year 1703 a stray kiss was the means of bringing about a bloody and expensive war. Prince Ferdinand of Bavaria was journeying in a neighboring state. One day he visited "the royal household," and while there his eye caught sight of a most beautiful maiden who happened to be near him. He was so bewitched with her charming personality that he impulsively and thoughtlessly implanted a kiss upon her fair cheek. She was a princess of the royal household, which the prince knew not. Neither did he know that she was an affianced bride and that her betrothed was near by and saw the whole affair. A duel was fought, and both principals were severely wounded. Diplomatic relations between the two kingdoms were suspended, and a long and bloody war ensued, all on account of a kiss which was paid for most dearly in blood and treasure.

The Power of Suggestion.

It was the reserve force stored up in the years of conquest and the habit of triumphing in whatever they undertook that gave such power to the Washingtons, the Lincolns, the Gladstones and the Disraelis, says Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine. It is the reserve power which we feel back of the words and between the lines of a powerful book, not what is actually in the printed words, that impresses us most. We are not so much affected by what an orator like Webster actually says as we are by what he suggests—the latent power, the mighty reserve force, that we feel he might put forth were the emergency great enough.

An Honest Man.

A man well known in New York and the possessor of much dignity of the impressive sort was strolling through a Long Island village recently when a well dressed, prepossessing little girl of perhaps seven years halted him.

"Are you an honest man?" the child queried.
The dignified man gasped.
"Yes, I—I think so," he replied.
"But are you quite sure?"
"Yes, I am quite sure. Why?"
"Because you can hold my dolly while I tie my shoe."
And it came out that way.—New York Globe.

He Was Too Slow.

Magistrate—Your husband makes a charge of assault against you. Thespis—What are you doing now?

Bluejowls—Acting a part I created in the new play that is now running in the Thunderbolt theater.

Thespis—What is the nature of your part?
Bluejowls (deep bass voice)—I am the mob that roars outside when the unmasked villain is being hunted down.—London Scraps.
