

Like His Mother Used To Make.

"I was born in Indiana," says a stranger, lank and slim. As us fellers in the restaurant was kindo' guying him. And Uncle Jake was slidin' him another punkin pie. And an extra cup o' coffee, with a twinkle in his eye. "I was born in Indiana—more'n forty year ago— An' I hain't been back in twenty—and I'm workin' back'ards slow; But I've et in ever' restaurant twist here and Santy Fee And I want to state this coffee tastes like gittin' home to me!" "Pour us out another, daddy," says the feller, warmin' up, A-speakin' 'cross a saucerful, as uncle tuk his cup. "When I seed yer sign out yander," he went on to Uncle Jake— "Come in and git some coffee like yer mother used to make"— I thought of my old mother and the Posey County farm, And me a little kid ag'in a-hangin' on As she set the pot a-bi-lin', broke the eggs and poured 'em in. And the feller kindo' halted, with a tremble in his chin. And Uncle Jake he fetched the feller's coffee back, and stood Assolemn, for a minute, as an undertaker would; Then he sort o' turned and tiptoed to'rds the kitchen door—and next, Here comes his old wife out with him a-rubbin' of her specs— And she rushes for the stranger, and she hollers out, "It's him! Thank God we've met him comin'! Don't you know yer mother, Jim?" And the feller as he grabbed her, says, "You bet I hain't forgot— But," wipin' of his eyes, says he, "yer coffee's mighty hot!"

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY.

A Southern Woman Coming.

On the twentieth of October Newberg is promised a great treat when Mrs. Mary Harris Armor, of way down in Georgia, will address the people on behalf of state wide prohibition for Oregon. She is said to be second only to Miss Willard as a forceful temperance speaker.

The Philadelphia Public Leader says of her:

"Fresh from a rousing meeting held at the Florence Iron Works, where several hundred men sang and cheered themselves hoarse, Mrs. Mary Harris' Armor, the whirlwind orator from Georgia, invaded Mount Holly this evening and swept everything before her. In ten minutes this wonderful little woman, who seems to be able to talk night and day at express-train speed and keep it up for weeks, had her audience completely in sympathy with her arguments and ready to do almost anything she suggested."

Nearly every old man thinks he looks young for his age.

Saturday morning is a poor time for a barber to send word that he is sick.

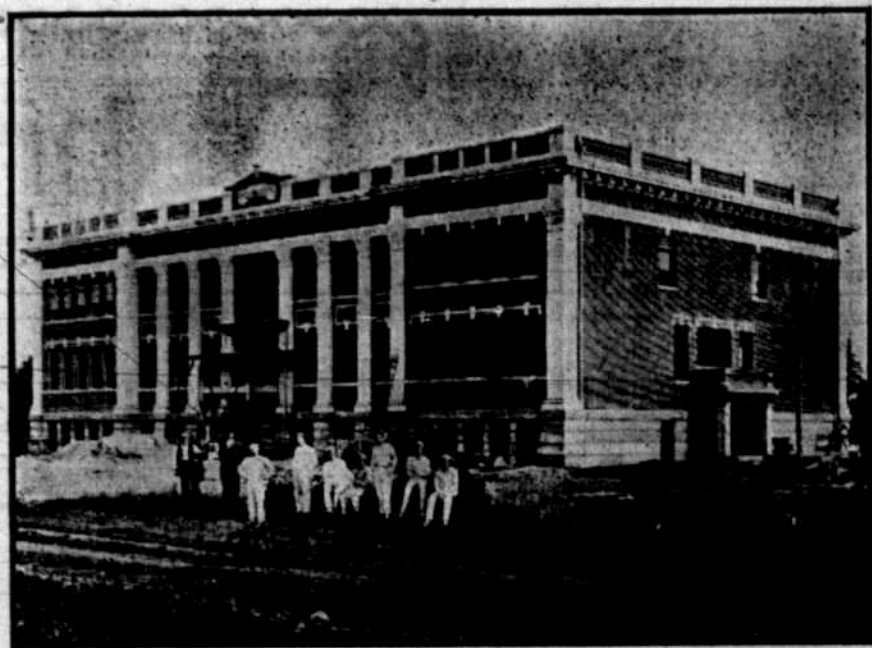

What has become of the old fashioned woman who knew how to make a mustard plaster?

"I knew a man," writes Henry Garland, "Who shaved his legs the day before he got married."

The Ringing of the Bells Brings Out the History Makers of the Future.

Our children, bless them, there are none other like them, and our schools are the pride of the community. Then opening day is a glad some day and there is general rejoicing to see the streets lined of mornings and evenings with the future makers of history in Oregon.

POWERS FOR CONGRESS

He and Attorney Clarence Butt Classmates in College.

Everybody has heard of Caleb Powers who was convicted of the murder of Goebel in Kentucky, and newspaper readers are more or less familiar with his long fight for liberty.

The fact that he has recently received the nomination for congress again places him in the limelight. The fact that Attorney Clarence Butt, of Newberg, and Powers were college mates at Valpariso, Indiana, adds interest to the following newspaper note from London, Kentucky: "Kentucky has had many picturesque political battles; it probably will have many more, but in picturesque and intensity the Republican campaign in the Eleventh Kentucky District, where Caleb Powers is a candidate for congress, exceeds all that have gone before.

Figuratively speaking, Powers has swung himself from the gallows' noose, in the shadow of which he languished for eight long years, to within close range of a seat in the Congress of the United States.

Within a few months time, he has emerged from a dingy Kentucky prison after he heard the verdict of two juries sentencing him to confinement in the State Penitentiary during his natural life, and still another verdict pronouncing him guilty of willful murder and saying that he must be hung by the neck until he was dead, and come back to his mountain home and friends and received a vindication in the primaries this month by defeating one of the best Representatives the district ever had, Don. C. Edwards, and carrying sixteen out of the nineteen counties of the district.

They call this the "Bloody Eleventh" District because of its vendettas, its feuds and the killings that have grown out of trivial quarrels. The primary that resulted in the nomination of Powers is considered the most orderly ever held in the Eleventh, for only one man was killed, he being one John Holmes, who was shot to death by Squire Colwell at Grapevine, which is near Hazard.

To say Powers was guilty of the Goebel murder caused many of his followers to admire him the more. When told that Powers got rich in jail and that he charged $500 for a Republican speech in Johnson county last fall, his followers either refused to believe the charge or gloried in his achievements, if true.

From the beginning his followers have been loyal and unchangeable. The orators called Mr. Powers "Maytr of the Mountains," and Powers was nominated on this sentiment.

It was a victory over hearts by the ex-prisoner, who, for nearly a decade, fought for his life against ignoble death while being shipped from jail to jail, who three times was close to the gallows and who was pardoned by the Governor while waiting for his fifth trial."
