New Method of Examination.

A number of professors in the English department of the University of Pennsylvania have adopted the oral examination in preference to the written. A large number of test questions are written upon cards. The student is required to pick three, five or ten questions, as the case may be, and answer them.

As soon as he has finished, says the Old Penn Weekly Review, he is told whether he has passed, which obviates weeks of waiting for the results of written examinations. The scheme is said to eliminate all possibility of dishonesty and compels a man to stand squarely upon his own ability.

The honor system is in force in the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce. In this school also there has originated a system of co-operation with the fraternities in keeping delinquent students up to their work. Each fraternity has a board of representatives upon scholastic standing.

In the Wharton School quizzes are given to freshmen and sophomores every two weeks. The results are sent to the fraternity representatives, who, upon finding a member of their society deficient in his work, appoint a man to coach the delinquent. The scheme has been so successful that some of the fraternities have taken it up in connection with other departments. One fraternity which lost two years ago a number of its members through failure in examinations, was not obliged to drop one last June.

Sheriff's Sale of Personal Property.

By virtue of a writ of attachment, issued out of the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Yamhill, in the case of Geo. S. Hoopes, plaintiff vs. John Chong or John C. Young, defendant for the sum of three hundred and seventy-five dollars together with interest and costs, said writ being issued on the day of April 1911, and to me directed, I attached the following personal property to-wit:
Seven cows, four calves, one yearling heifer, one yearling bull, one bull calf, two Oliver chilled plows, one roll of barbed wire, one pump, one span of horses, one set of double harness, one farm wagon, one spring tooth harrow, eight head of sheep, 800 to 1000 feet of wire fencing, twenty-five sacks of ground oats, one shot gun, one cook stove, one heater stove, one table, about 60 chickens, a few sheep hides and Mason jars.

Now, therefore, by virtue of the power and authority in me vested by the statutes and laws of the State of Oregon. On Saturday the 17th day of June at the hour of 1 o'clock p.m. of said day for the year A. D. 1911, on the farm premises of H. D. Hulster in t. 2, s. 7, 3, W. in Yamhill county, state of Oregon, about 6 miles northwest of the city of Newberg. I will sell at public auction the above described personal property of said defendant for cash to satisfy said sum of three hundred and seventy-five dollars and said interest and costs and accruing costs.
Dated this 6th day of June, 1911.
W. G. Henderson, Sheriff of Yamhill County.
By Ray Henderson, Deputy.

Gumption on the Farm.

Named your farm yet? Any shade in the pasture? Why not?

The golden text for June is: "Keep the soil stirred."

If you want to kill weeds, cultivate or hoe them when the sun shines hot.

The trouble with the honey-bee is that it doesn't carry honey at both ends.

No, lime is not good for potatoes; it favors scab. So does too much stable manure.

Now, please, don't let the mower rattle all to pieces. Keep it well oiled and every nut screwed up tightly, and don't let the knives or guards get dull.

Remember, brother farmer, that the hot weather and hard work tax the strength of your wife. She will enjoy going to the store with you and riding slowly home in the cool of the evening.

To keep moles from a bed, sink a closeness wire netting a foot wide into the soil around, allowing it to extend about two inches above the surface. If you have no netting, use boards. Either will prevent the entrance of moles into the bed.

The harvest season is the most trying of the year. There is so much to be done, so little time to do it in and so few hands to accomplish it, that we are often at our wit's end. Let us, however, have a care lest we attempt too much and lest we put too great a burden upon the wife and daughter. The sanitariums are filled with men and women who have broken down from work and worry at middle life. The utmost that we can hope to gain is not worth such a fearful sacrifice.

Cut clover hay when about half the blossoms are brown; cut timothy just as the bloom is falling. Curing clover: Cut it as soon as the dew is off in the morning. At noon shake out the bunches, rake into windrows before evening dews get on it, and let it lie until next day. Next day shake out the hay as soon as the dew is off. You ought to be ready to haul, on a hot day, by eleven o'clock, or certainly after dinner. It spoils clover hay to get too dry. It should never be put into the barn when wet with rain or dew; but a little sap won't hurt it. Curing timothy: If the crop is not too heavy and rank, cut as soon as the dew is off, let it cure a few hours, rake into windrows, and haul to the barn the same day. If crop is rank, cut it in the afternoon; it will wilt some during the night and dew will not hurt it. Next day's sun will dry it in a few hours, when it can be raked into windrows; haul it to the barn in the early afternoon.
From Farm Journal.

Mild Result.

The courtroom was crowded. A wife was seeking divorce on the grounds of extreme cruelty and abusive treatment. Guns, axes, rolling pins and stinging invectives seemed to have played a prominent part in the plaintiff's married life.

The husband was on the stand undergoing a gruelling cross-examination.

The examining attorney said: "You have testified that your wife on one occasion threw cayenne pepper in your face. Now, sir, kindly tell us what you did on that occasion."

The witness hesitated and looked confused. Every one expected that he was about to confess to some shocking act of cruelty. But their hopes were shattered when he finally blurted out:

"I sneezed!"—Everybody's.
