WOMANLY WISDOM

To remove potato, onion and other vegetable stains from the hands, rub with ripe tomatoes.

Get the stoves in order for the first cold snap, when you really feel the cold more than in winter weather.

Crumpled newspapers pushed up the flues of unused chimneys keep out flies that would enter there.

Be sure to keep a pair of old scissors in the kitchen for the purpose of cutting raisins, lettuce, celery, etc.

Skim the fat off the chicken broth and use it to shorten biscuits. These are much more delicious than when you use lard.

At the altar: "I, thee, with all my worldly goods endow." Two years later: "More money? Where's the dollar I gave you last week?"

A bank lately received the following note from a lady: "Please stop payment on the check I wrote out today, as I accidentally burned it up."

Save all your coffee grounds; rinse them and use them to stuff pin cushions. They will hold shape indefinitely and the pins push in easily.

If a tablespoonful of sweet milk is added to each yolk of egg when making custards, the mixture will not curdle when added to the boiling milk.

When cake icing is too hard so that you can not spread it on, add a little water, a drop at a time. When it is too thin, add sufficient powdered sugar, first rubbing out the lumps.

When paring vegetables, especially the humble tuber and odorous onion, slip over the forefinger of the right hand a kid finger cut from an old glove. It will save the hand from an unsightly stain.

By inspecting the canned fruit occasionally, the housewife will be able to save any that has begun to spoil, by carefully removing that which is tainted and cooking the rest over, recanning it as in the start.

Use worn-out white stockings for wash rags. Cut away the foot. Fold the top double and hem or overcast the edges. The edges may be bound, and a strap fastened across the center to slip the hand through.

To cook eggplant, cut into slices half an inch thick and let them lie for an hour in salted water to remove that bitter taste. To fry, put the slices in the frying-pan with a small quantity of butter; turn when one side is done.

Have you tried baking eggs? Grease a baking-dish with butter, break the eggs into it, cover with cream. Add salt, pepper, and a tablespoonful of butter. Set it in a moderate oven a few minutes. Length of time depends on whether you like them soft or well-done.

HAND AND BRAIN.

They Are Intimately Connected in the Matter of Speech.

Psychologists today hold the opinion that the human brain is taught through the use of the hand. In other words, it is through the development of manual dexterity that the faculty of word making—upon which all else depends—is gained. The choice made in childhood between right hand and left hand determines which of the two cerebral hemispheres, the left or the right, shall be educated.

If the right hand be preferred, as is usually the case, the left brain, which controls that member, will acquire the word making power and all the associated faculties that go to make up what we call intellect, but if the left hand be chosen the right brain will enjoy these advantages exclusively.

Dr. W. H. Thomson in his book on "Brain and Personality" says that if the speech center in the left brain of a right handed man be destroyed or seriously injured he will never thereafter be able to utter a word, notwithstanding the fact that he has another speech center, still intact and structurally perfect, in his right brain. It exists, but he cannot make it talk.

Either brain is equally good for speech if trained for that purpose. It is the child's choice of the hand that decides which cerebral hemisphere in after life shall know speech and which shall be wordless forever.

In discussing the connection between speech and the hand it is interesting to observe that in the brain the "motor areas" governing the hands are close by the area that controls the tongue and the muscles of articulation. Here, apparently in a small patch of gray matter no larger than a hazelnut, is stored every word that can be spoken. Let it be badly injured and speechlessness results.

In many instances persons have been struck with word blindness—that is to say, though still able to see, to speak and to understand what was said to them, they could not find any meaning in the words on a printed page. Equally interesting are cases of word deafness, where people cannot understand what is said, though they are able to read and write as well as ever.—Saturday Evening Post.
