THE PRINTING PRESS

I am the printing press, born of the mother earth. My heart is of steel, my limbs are of iron, and my fingers are of brass.

I sing the songs of the world, the oratories of history, the symphonies of all time.

I am the voice of today, the herald of tomorrow. I weave into the warp of the past the wool of the future. I tell the stories of peace and war alike.

I make the human heart beat with passion or tenderness. I stir up the pulse of nations, and make brave men do brave deeds, and soldiers die.

I inspire the midnight toiler, weary at his loom, to lift his head again and gaze, with fearlessness, into the vast beyond, seeking the consolation of a hope eternal.

When I speak a myriad of people listen to my voice. The Anglo-Saxon, the Celt, the Hun, the Slav, the Hindu, all comprehend me.

I am the tireless clarion of the news. I cry your joys and sorrows every hour. I fill the dullard's mind with thoughts uplifting. I am light, knowledge and power. I epitomize the conquests of mind over matter.

I am the record of all things mankind has achieved. My offspring comes to you in the candle's glow, amid the dim lights of poverty, the splendor of riches; at sunrise, at high noon, and in the waning evening.

I am the laughter and tears of the world, and I shall never die until all things return to the immutable dust. I am the printing press.—The Fourth Estate.

For County Surveyor.

The office of County Surveyor in the county calls for special ability, a thorough working knowledge of the county is essential. This being a fee office, not a salaried one, the surveyor is paid by those who employ him, therefore the man that is thoroughly acquainted and has a working knowledge of the lines of the donation claims and government surveys, can do good and accurate work without loss of time to anyone that has employed him. Henry W. Herring is a candidate for re-election to the office of County Surveyor. Past experience has proved him to have the particular qualifications essential to fill that office efficiently. His years of experience in this office and in this county is a stock of trade a new man does not possess. He has given faithful service in the past and promises to the voters of Yamhill County, faithful service in the future.

Announcement.

I wish to announce my candidacy for the re-nomination for the office of sheriff of Yamhill county, subject to the will of republican voters of said county at the primary election to be held on Friday, April 19, 1912.

If I am accorded the nomination and am elected I promise a continuation of my past endeavor to give the best possible administration of the sheriff's office, devoting my entire time and attention to my official duties. (paid adv) W. G. Henderson.

ARTIFICIAL MILK.

Fresh and Creamy, It is Easily Made From Sweet Almonds.

Here is a very simple and interesting way in which to make good fresh milk and cream at home from crushed almonds and a little water. The method is not a chemical one, but consists merely in the mechanical admixture of distilled water with crushed and finely ground sweet almonds. Practically the only difference between cow's milk and that made of almonds is that the cow's milk contains animal casein, while the artificial milk contains vegetable casein. The latter will produce a good cream and if allowed to stand some time will become sour. It may also be coagulated by the addition of vinegar or acetic acid. When combined with grape sugar it is capable of generating some extraordinary organic substances. The artificial milk may be used with tea and coffee in the same way that cow's milk is used.

To make the milk, first buy half a pound of sweet almonds. The skin of the almonds may be removed by scalding the nuts in boiling water and slipping the skin off. The almonds should then be placed in a wooden chopping bowl and chopped as finely as possible.

Take about two ounces of the chopped almonds and place them in a mortar with a small quantity of distilled water. Then grind the chopped almonds, adding water occasionally until about twelve ounces of water have been used. The longer the grinding is continued, the thicker and richer the milk will be.

Now take a piece of cheesecloth about twelve inches wide and twenty-four inches long and rinse it in clean water and, after wringing it as dry as possible, fold it double over the top of a pitcher and pour the contents of the mortar through the cloth into the pitcher. The milk may be squeezed through the cloth by wringing it gently, but care should be taken to prevent any of the larger almond particles from being forced through the meshes of the cloth.

If some of the milk thus produced is set aside for three or four hours a thick layer of cream will be found on the surface. If too much water has been used in forming the milk it may be necessary to add a little sugar to sweeten it. The artificial milk has a slight almond flavor when taken clear, but this is practically lost when used with tea, coffee or cocoa. The color of the cream produced is quite pale.

Half a pound of almonds will make three pints of milk.—New York World.

Wished He Hadn't Meddled.

"I have made it a rule through life," he said at the table the other day to a man at his left, "never to meddle with another man's business."

"That's right—perfectly right," was the reply.

"But I see you have a new confidential clerk."

"Yes, sir—yes."

"He's a hard looking case. I have seen him intoxicated a dozen times, and I wouldn't trust him out of my sight with a sixpence. Took him out of charity, eh?"

"Well, not altogether, you know. He happens to be my eldest son."

There was a period of silence so painful that both wished some one would yell "Fire!" to break it up.—London Tit-Bits.

A Compromise.

In the nursery the letter of the law occasionally leaves something to be desired. A very little lady had been told that it was rude to contradict. She schooled herself not to contradict with great conscientiousness, but one day a half jesting accusation made against her by some unsuspecting member of the grownup part of the house nearly made her fall from a state of grace. Luckily her imagination supplied her with a compromise. In a voice trembling with tears and passion she gasped out, "I—I really think you are mistaken—you—you beast!"—London Chronicle.

A Courtroom Joke.

Lord Erskine, when chief justice of England, presided once at Chelmsford assizes, when a case of breach of promise of marriage was tried before him in which a Miss Tickell was plaintiff. The counsel was a pompous young man named Stanton, who opened the case with solemn emphasis thus: "Tickell, the plaintiff, my lord." Erskine dryly interrupted him with: "Oh, tickle her yourself, Mr. Stanton. It would be unbecoming to my position."

A Grim Old Salt.

"Captain, is there no way in which the ship may be saved?" "None at all, sir. We are going to the bottom; but I would not worry about the ship, sir, if I were you—she is fully insured. You'd better find a life belt."—Exchange.
