$1.50 Per Year in Advance

THURSDAY, AUGUST 15, 1912

A $3,000,000 baby boy was born in the Astor family in New York City Wednesday, but there have been a dozen baby boys born in Newberg during the past year who will probably never heir a hundred dollars, but who stand a better show to make something of themselves than does the New York kidlet.

That every doctor in the country should be whooping it up for Wilson is the suggestion of a local Democrat of the old school, who asserts that since the Democrats have not had a full meal from the pie counter for so long, they are sure to over-feed, in case the faithful are given an inning, and consequently, every M. D. will have all the patients he can take care of.

Weather conditions are proving to be quite uncertain this season, and the prudent farmer who is unable to get his grain thrashed at once will lose no time in getting it under cover. It is poor policy to let a crop be injured by rain after it is grown, when it can possibly be avoided. Many farmers are finding it profitable to own a supply of heavy canvass to be used when necessary for covering grain and hay in the stack.

A number of the Oregon exchanges coming to this office are giving a good deal of free advertising to the so-called "Keep-fresh" fruit evaporator, and plants are being established at different points. If the "Keep-fresh" promoters are the same people who were handling the "Like-fresh" evaporator last season, we would advise those who are thinking of putting any money into a proposition of this kind to be sure they are right before they invest any great sum of money. The "Like-fresh" plant tried out last season by a fruit grower of this section was not a success and consequently was abandoned.

The Graphic has received an article from New York, marked "Attention, News Editor," in which the "hell-fire and brimstone" question is aired. Considering the cool summers we have here in the Willamette Valley, this is no doubt about the best spot on earth to discuss such a question, if it must be handled during the month of August, but we pass it up, and suggest that the matter be referred to T. R. immediately following his defeat at the November election. The language the Colonel will use will doubtless be emphatic, and the old orthodox theory of a place especially tempered for the damned will be settled once for all.

The people out at Rex are very much worked up on account of an effort that one, G. A. Underwood, is making to secure a license for a saloon, to be located just over the line in Washington County, and a vigorous protest is to be made to the Washington County court by the indignant citizens. It hardly seems possible that a majority of the people in that section would want to risk the debauching influences of a booze joint located there, and it is to be hoped that enough names may be secured for the remonstrance to make it easy for the court to refuse Underwood a license. Many men who drink don't want a saloon located near them, and doubtless there will be found men of this class at work in opposition to the proposed saloon at Rex.

Governor West has evidently lost all patience with officials throughout the state who wink at violations of the law. Many people have had similar feelings these many years and it is refreshing to know that we have a Governor who not only regrets the lax conditions existing in many quarters, but who has the courage to pass up all precedent and take a hand in setting things right.

THE LADIES' AID

Reformed Church Herald.
We've put a fine addition on the good old church at home, It's just the latest killer, with a gallery and dome, It seats a thousand people—finest church in all the town, And when 'twas dedicated, why we planked ten thousand down; That is, we paid five thousand—every deacon did his best— And the Ladies' Aid Society, it promised all the rest.

We've got an organ in the church—very finest in the land, It's got a thousand pipes or more, its melody is grand, And when we sit on cushioned pews and hear the master play, It carries us to realms of bliss unnumbered miles away. It cost a cool three thousand, and it's stood the hardest test: We'll pay a thousand on it—the Ladies' Aid the rest.

They'll give a hundred sociables, cantatas, too, and teas; They'll bake a thousand angel cakes, and tons of cream they'll freeze. They'll beg and scrape and toil and sweat for seven years or more, And then they'll start all o'er again, for a carpet for the floor. No, it isn't just like digging out the money from your vest When the Ladies' Aid gets busy and says: "We'll pay the rest."

Of course we're proud of our big church from pulpit up to spire, It is the darling of our eyes, the crown of our desire. But when I see the sisters work to raise the cash that lacks, I somehow feel the church is built on women's tired backs. And sometimes I can't help thinking when we reach the regions blest, That men will get the toil and sweat, and the Ladies' Aid the rest.

SAFETY FIRST TO BE SLOGAN

"Safety," which is the watchword of the Southern Pacific, is to be moved further ahead in its code. It was the slogan "Safety First" that helped to make the record of "No lives lost through collision or derailment in nearly four years," on this road.

Now it will, through safety committees, comprising officials and employees, try for an even better record for safety than heretofore and endeavor to prevent accidents of all kinds. As much regard shall be taken of the life and limb of the employee as of the passenger.

This move means the organization of a main safety committee, to be composed of the division superintendents. Then there is to be a safety committee on every division to comprise the superintendent, members of his staff from various departments, a conductor, engineer brakeman, fireman, yardman, trackman, signalman, bridge and building man and a shop man. Each of these craftsmen will be the chairman of another distinct safety committee.

Between meetings, which will be held every month, each committee shall entertain suggestions that will tend to prevent accidents in all branches of the railroad service. Then these suggestions are to be brought up at the division committee meeting and then again at the general safety committee meeting. If a shop employee mashes his finger, the shop committee will investigate and try to find a method whereby others' fingers will be protected from a re-occurrence of the accident. The members of each committee are to be furnished with a button of artistic design.

Many of the suggestions that come from the employees may appear to be of minor importance, but at the same time easy to put in practice. This is to be encouraged by the committees as the men on the line see many things that mean for safety that may be improved and thus minimize danger to life and limb.

MIGRATION OF CONSUMPTIVES DISCOURAGED

Physicians in all of the eastern and southern states will be asked by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis to stop sending consumptives in the last stages of tuberculosis and without sufficient funds to the southwestern part of the United States in search of health, according to an announcement made by that association.

While it is impossible to tell accurately how many consumptives there are at present living in the states of Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Southern California, and Western Texas, it is probable that no less than 10 per cent of the 6,000,000 people in this territory have tuberculosis themselves, or have come to the West because some member of their family has had it. Every year, the health authorities estimate, not less than 10,000 consumptives, hopelessly diseased, come West to die. For these cases, the climate of this section of the country can do nothing, and they are compelled to die in strange surroundings and thousands of miles from home and friends.

The National Association points out further that from 50 to 60 per cent of these advanced cases are too poor to provide the proper necessities of life, and they are either starved to death or compelled to accept the meagre charity which this part of the country affords.

In an effort to stop the migration of consumptives of this class to the Southwest, the National Association will ask physicians to be more careful in ordering patients to go away, and will also ask railroads to discontinue their practice of selling "charity" tickets to those who cannot afford to pay full fare. "No consumptive should go to Colorado, California, or the West for his health," says the association, unless he has a good chance for recovery from his disease, and unless especially he has at least $1,000 to spend for this purpose, over and above what his family may need.

"Tuberculosis can be cured in any part of the United States, and it is not necessary for a tuberculosis patient to go West. Whenever possible, the National Association urges tuberculosis patients who have not ample funds to go to a sanatorium near home, and if they cannot do this, to take the cure in their own homes, under the direction of a physician.

THE BAROMETER.

Li Hung Chang Found It a Delusion and a Snare.

One day many years ago Li Hung Chang was making a journey from Tientsin to Shanghai on a steamer of his Chinese Mutual company. Being of an inquiring disposition, he asked many questions about the machinery and the furnishings of the ship. What interested him most was the barometer, and Captain Baker explained it with great care and described the minutest details.

Several months after, when Captain Barker arrived at Tientsin at the end of a voyage, he was informed at the steamship office that Earl Li wanted to see him at the viceroy's yamen. The captain, judging from the experience of other men, expected to receive a reward for faithful service and, dressing himself with care, took a rickshaw for the residence of the greatest man in China. Upon his arrival he was shown into the reception room, and pretty soon Li Hung Chang made his appearance, followed by a servant carrying a handsomely mounted mahogany box. He put it on the table, opened it and took out a beautiful barometer, which had just arrived from Paris. After Captain Baker had admired the mechanism of the instrument Earl Li turned to him and said:

"Now I want you to show me how you foretell events with this thing."

"You cannot foretell events with a barometer," said Captain Baker in surprise.

"You told me you could," retorted Earl Li.

"I never did anything of the kind," exclaimed the astonished seaman. "I told you that by comparing the changes in the temperature and direction of the wind with the movements of this instrument we could anticipate a storm, but I did not say anything about foretelling events, because that is impossible."

The viceroy stared at the sailor with astonishment and exclaimed:

"You are an ignorant, incompetent fellow. Don't you know that the weather is the most uncertain thing in the world? Other events are governed by laws and arbitrary conditions, from which the weather is entirely free, and anybody who can find out what the weather is going to be ought to be able to foretell ordinary events."

Then, with a contemptuous motion, he dismissed Captain Baker from his presence and never spoke to him again.

A Well Built Instrument.

When the concert was over and the pianist was driving along the snowy road to the Burnham inn, where he was to spend the night, he ventured to ask his host of the evening if he had enjoyed the playing. "You did first rate," Mr. Burnham told him. "That's my opinion."

"Yes," he went on after a minute, "you certainly did first rate. You showed power and strength beyond anything I ever expected to listen to, and you was lightning quick into the bargain. Anybody that heard you could tell you'd worked hard and long and steady to get your trade. But I tell ye who else had ought to have some credit—that's the man that made the piano you played on. Tain't every instrument that would stand the strain you put on it, not by a good deal. I should call it the praise ought to be divided pretty even betwixt ye." — Youth's Companion.
