RESOLUTIONS

Your committee to formulate a memorial upon the death of Brother S. W. Parrish would beg leave to present the following:

As the spirit of our brother has been summoned from earth into the world beyond, each member of Willamette Lodge No. 96, I. O. O. F. feels our bereavement when we remember his kind and gentle manner and the warm attachment he felt for each co-laborer.

In the death of our fellow-worker we have lost a kind and true friend, who always had a pleasant smile and a kind word for us all, and while we bow our heads in humble submission to this dispensation, we offer our deepest sympathy to the family who are bereft of a kind and tender husband, son and brother. May they ever look forward to that meeting in the realms of peace and love, where partings are no more; being consoled by the assurance that the memory of him whom they esteem so highly, will ever be held in loving remembrance by each of us.

Wherefore in token of our esteem for our departed brother, we appropriately drape our charter for a period of thirty days, present a copy of these, our most sincere utterances, to the family, spread them upon our minutes, and furnish the same to the press of our local papers for publication.

Respectfully submitted,
C. A. Hodson,
E. L. Evans,
H. R. Morris,
Committee.

KALAMA WILL PAVE

A new era is opening in Kalama—an era of substantial growth and improvements.

The town council has let a contract to pave the business streets of Kalama with bitulithic pavement. Fir street will be paved from the railroad tracks to the east side of First street, and First street from the plank street to the south line of Elm street. The bitulithic pavement is to have a two-inch top surface. Much street improvement is contemplated.

Blow Your Whistle

Yesterday my small kid said, "Give me a nickel, quick!" "What do you want a nickel for in such a hurry?" I asked. "Don't you hear that whistle? That's the popcorn man, and he has the dandiest popcorn, all buttered, a big sack for a nickle. Hurry up!"

I dug, and then I said, "If only more merchants would blow their whistles more people would be digging up for them."—Undertended.

HOW THE EARTH DRIED.

And Why the Drying Up Process is Constantly Going On.

When water is decomposed by radium or by ultra violet rays it produces hydrogen and peroxide of hydrogen, and it does not form oxygen. Electrolytic decomposition forms oxygen.

A German investigator bases a new theory relating to the drying of the earth on the fact that one form of decomposition produces oxygen, while the other form does not. Part of the water vapor emitted by the seas is decomposed by the ultra violet rays of the sun. The hydrogen formed rises toward the high atmospheric strata, and all the water does not return to the surface. Therefore the quantity of water on the face of the globe is always diminishing, and the earth is incessantly, if gradually, drying.

To cite one example: On the north side of the Alps occur a continual falling off in the depth of the lakes and a gradual formation of swamps. Two hundred and fifty years ago there were 149 lakes in the canton of Zurich. Today there are seventy-six. The destruction of the forests and the cultivation of the land partially explain this, but the loss of hydrogen is an important factor. The hydrogen accumulated in the higher atmosphere is diffused in interstellar space.—Harper's Weekly.

REPORTED THE WEDDING.

The Dramatic Critic Got the Job and Did the Best He Could.

In the absence of the regular society reporter the dramatic critic of the Daily Doings was detailed to cover a wedding. "I'll do the best I can," he said, "but I feel sure I shall make a mess of it."

This is what he turned in, omitting the preliminary remarks about the size of the house and the delay in beginning the performance:

"Mr. Barker, in the role of the bridegroom, acted the part in a stiff yet listless manner. He has a good stage presence, but mars the effect by a total lack of animation and an almost inaudible voice. Miss Perkins, as the bride, was much more effective. Her costume was bewildering, yet true to life. If one may venture to criticize, her effort to overcome her obvious stage fright was a trifle too evident. She was in good voice, however, and her enunciation was clear and distinct. "It must be pointed out that both Miss Perkins and Mr. Barker were deficient in their lines and had to be prompted almost constantly by the Rev. Henry Harper, who, as the officiating clergyman, was decidedly the star of the performance."—New York Press.

Homesickness Spoils Photographs.

Aunt Maria thought, and so did her New York relatives, that the photographer was unpardonably discourteous. For three successive days he refused to take Aunt Maria's photograph. On the fourth day he told why.

"In justice to her," he said, "I do not want to take her picture now. She is too homesick. Most out of town people want to be photographed while in New York. If they are longing for home I put them off with one excuse or another until the homesickness wears off."

"If you want your aunt's pictures to turn out well just hunt up some one from her home town who happens to be visiting in New York at present and bring him here so she will meet him unexpectedly. The meeting will put sparkle and animation into her face, and neither she nor I will be disappointed with the photographs."—New York Times.

A Hard Road to Travel.

To add to Bunkerton's discomfort in losing his way, he had now been brought to a standstill by the absolute impassability of the highway, and his temper, already sorely tried, finally gave way.

"What kind of people are you up here in this rotten old state?" he cried, addressing an old countryman who stood close by inspecting his stranded car with curious eyes.

"I dunno," said the old man. "Baout the same ez most folks, I call'late."

"Do you call this scar on the face of nature a road?" roared Bunkerton.

"Not ez I knows on," returned the old man. "This here hain't the pike; it's Mose Whibley's trout stream run dry. I wondered what ye was drivin' up it fer."—Harper's Weekly.

Child Love.

Welcome to the parents the puny struggler, strong in his weakness, his little arms more irresistible than the soldier's, his lips touched with persuasion which Chatham and Pericles in manhood had not. His unaffected lamentations when he lifts up his voice on high, or, more beautiful, the sobbing child, the face all liquid grief, as he tries to swallow his vexation, soften all hearts to pity and to mirrful and clamorous compassion.—Emerson.

Cold Wave.

Nellie—They say mistakes are coming back. Mame—Do you care? Nellie—Certainly. I think most men look much more handsome and knightly with them. Mame—Well, of course, I suppose you know. I was too young to take notice when they went out of style.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Self Accused.

"Do you remember that $5 you borrowed of me a year ago?" "I should say I did. I lent $1 of it to Brown, and the skunk hasn't paid me yet."—Boston Transcript.

Do not for one repulse forego the purpose that you resolve to effect.—Shakespeare.
